FRENCHMEN OFF ON WEST-EAST ATLANTIC HOP

Start from Brazil for African Coast.

BULLETIN.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 9.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Jean Mermoz passed Saint Paul Rocks at 1:45 a. m. (Greenwich mean time, 8:45 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time). The rocks are located 340 miles northeast of Fernando da Noronha, or about 465 miles from Pernambuco, Brazil.

NATAL, Brazil, July 8.—(AP)—Roaring down the length of Lake Bomfim in the seaplane with which he made the first westward south Atlantic mail flight, Jean Mermoz, crack French air mail pilot, took off this afternoon for a nonstop flight back to Africa.

Eighteen hundred miles of ocean separated him from his objective, Dakar, in French equatorial Africa. The south Atlantic never has been successfully crossed from west to east and Mermoz, if successful, will win the laurels of a pioneer pilot on this flight.

Hopes to Better Time.

Mermoz, who got away at 4:32 p. m. (3:32 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time), hoped to better the time of his first flight. On May 12-13 he crossed from St. Louis, Senegal, in 20 hours and 16 minutes, making the first air mail trip under bad weather conditions.

For two days the pilot, his radio operator, Leopold Gimme, and his navigator, Jean Abry, had been waiting on Lake Bomfim, twenty miles from Natal, for favorable wind and favorable weather.

Conditions for the takeoff were excellent on Sunday, but delay in bringing the air mail up from the south held him motionless. Yesterday rain and fog did the same.

Wind Helps Takeoff.

For hours he and his comrades today sat in their seaplane on Lake Bomfim and whistled for a wind, which they had to have to get the big seaplane and its 600 pounds of air mail off the water. Late this afternoon it came. The plane and its load weighed nearly 4 tons.

A few minutes later he flew low over the Aeropostal company's landing field near Natal, and waved to his fellow pilots of the company's costal air line gathered below. Then he headed straight out for the island of Fernando Noronha, Brazilian penal colony, 150 miles from the coast.

Mermoz kept in close wireless touch early this evening with the offices of the Aero-Postal company at Rio de Janeiro. His messages reported that everything was going well, and that he was flying at an altitude of 200 feet through a fine rain.

Three Boats Patrol Ocean.

Three dispatch boats of the Aero-Postal company, which in normal times speed across the South Atlantic in relays with the combination air and ocean mail, were stationed along his route from Natal to Dakar. They are standing by to assist the flyers if any trouble develops.

Mermoz will be able to communicate by wireless with at least one of them at all times.

Dakar was selected for the terminus of this flight, instead of St. Louis, because it offers better landing facilities in its sheltered harbor. The distance is slightly less, and this fact, together with following trade winds on the first part of the flight, persuaded Mermoz he could better his time across the ocean.

Uses Standard Seaplane.

One of the chief points about his two airmail flights is that they are being made in a standard model seaplane, such as is used in the Aero-Postal company's regular service. The object is the practical and scientific one, not of setting records, but of testing out a new intercontinental communications system.

If conditions are favorable he will not end his flight with the arrival at Dakar, but, changing to another plane, will ride the South American mail through to Toulouse or to Paris.

BEWARE UPLIFT RACKET, ALBERT WARNS CLERGY

Testifies at Church Crime Inquiry.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock last evening ordered all captains to report to him any facts or suspicions they may have of trafficking between members of the force and gangsters or racketeers. Story on Page 3.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A warning that racketeering may be found in churches and professional uplift and reform movements was hurled at the crime investigation committee of the Chicago Church federation by Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] yesterday afternoon. Ald. Albert was the first witness to be called before the special committee of the federation which has been in process of organization since the killing of Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter. The Rev. Philip Yarrow, head of the Illinois Vigilance association, and chairman of the political action commission of the federation, directed the committee organization.

When asked if he had in mind any particular racketeering reformers or reform organizations, Ald. Albert said there was occasion to name only the Better Government association as an example. He urged church leaders to be sure that their own agencies were clear of rackets before hunting down racketeers in other directions. The Better Government association is led by the Rev. E. J. Davis, former superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League.

Brennan Donation Recalled.

The spotlight was turned on the Better Government association in 1926 when the late George Brennan, Democratic leader and wet candidate for the United States senate, donated $23,000 to the association treasury. The Rev. Elmer Williams, former reform crusader for the association, became the storm center of the controversy which resulted in the resignation of a number of leading members from the association. The Rev. Mr. Williams has been an associate in the organization of the Yarrow investigating committee.

"I told the federation committee that I know there are racketeers in the churches," said Albert later, "and that the secret of cleaning up the city is in finding an uplift organization free from personal and petty racketeers. I was asked to tell what I could of the situation at the city hall. In answer I told the committee that the city hall was being governed by Samuel Ettelson, acting as invisible mayor.

"Forces in the city hall have been continually selling Mayor Thompson down the stream until the mayor does not know whether he is on foot or horseback."

Urges Quizzing of Swanson.

Albert said that he urged the church leaders to make an appointment with State's Attorney Swanson and ask him "why he does not get busy and do something."

"I was asked why the council police investigation failed to go through," Albert said. "I answered that the aldermen cannot shirk their duty as members of the board of directors of the municipality. The mere fact that they do not have subpoena power should not in any way retard their actions in bringing pressure to bear upon the powers that can operate."

Albert said he suggested that the reorganization of the police department requires calling and dismissing "such police captains as have been implicated in the slot machine scandal."

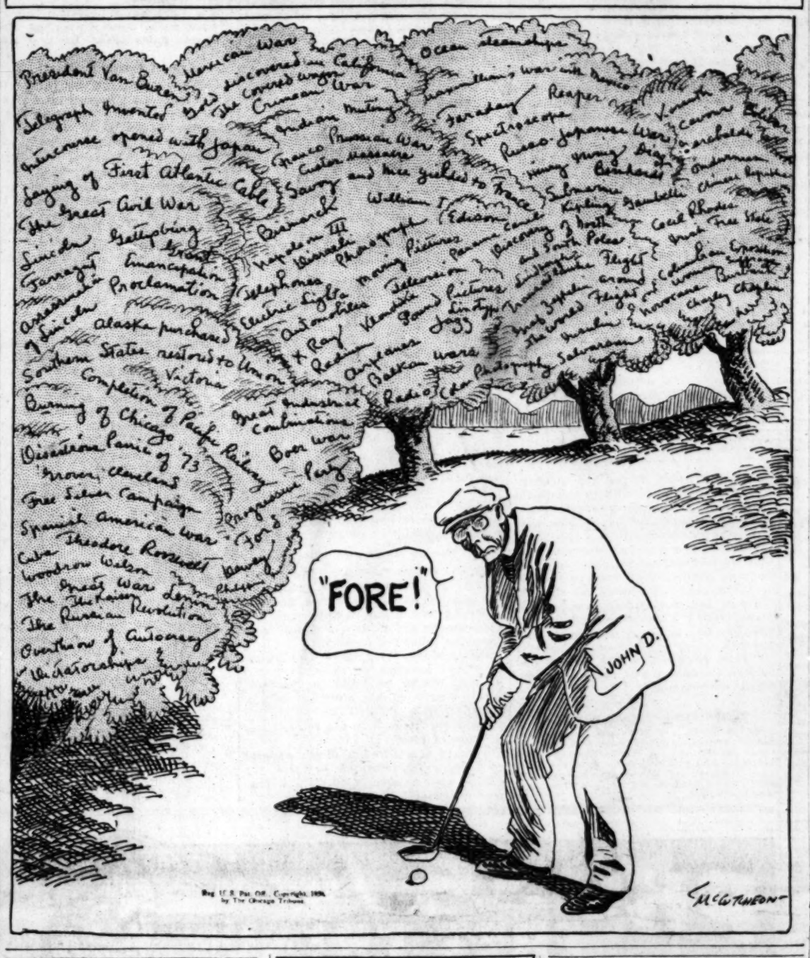
Letter to Col. Randolph.

In an open letter addressed to Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, the church federation committee asked if the opinions Col. Randolph recently gave the press were personal or official. The letter asked for supporting evidence and that he "set out at some length the body of facts upon which you base your conclusions."

"For example," the letter said, "you set out as one of the major causes for crime and violence 'the constant warfare for the control of the huge revenue derived from the sale of illicit liquor.'"

The letter then asked if a causal relation exists between these "huge funds and crime." It closed with the question as to whether the press, the church, big business, or the courts should share the blame with prohibition.

HIS BACKGROUND OF 91 YEARS



Your Dollar, if Any, Now Worth More

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—The clouds of the business depression have a silver lining for the wage earner sure of his job with no reduction of pay, and for the person with a fixed income.

Old high cost of living, born of the war and post-war period, isn't the terrifying figure it used to be, and the slump in commodity prices threatens to make it still less formidable. The consumers' dollar now goes much further than it did in 1920 and a bit further than in 1929, and may go even further before the end of 1930.

Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of labor statistics, says the purchasing power of the retail and "home" dollar applied to foodstuffs last May was $1.056 compared with $1 in July, 1929; for a family whose monthly outlay for food is about $50, the savings is from $2.50 to $3 a month.

Retail Prices Lag Behind.

Government economists say that while a decline in retail prices is virtually never commensurate with the drop in wholesale prices, the current slump in the latter should add some power to the home dollar.

Getting down to the "meat and potatoes" of the situation, the retail prices of 22 articles of food decreased from April 15 to May 15, the latest period on which prices are available. The prices of seven articles increased while 13 showed no change. Since May, however, the general trend has been downward.

Lowest Since 1916.

The wholesale price level of all commodities in May was the lowest it has been since September, 1916. The wholesale purchasing power of the 1926 dollar for all commodities was $1.12 in May. It is greater today.

While up to the minute figures on the general cost of living are not available, the average cost of living in 32 cities has dropped 20.8 per cent in eight years.

2 Boys Go for Cruise in Packing Box; Are Rescued

In a six foot packing box they had found at the foot of Huron street, Stanley Homan, 14 years old, and Joseph Ray, 12, started out for a lake cruise last evening. Stanley was paddling with a barrel stave and Joseph was bailing with a leaky bucket when a coast guard crew from Central station overtook the juvenile mariners 300 yards off the end of Navy pier. Five minutes after the boys had been taken aboard the coast guard boat, the packing box was swamped and sank. The boys told Chief Mate Carl Howell they lived at 718 North Damen avenue, subsequently discovered to be a vacant lot.

ROB CHICAGO WOMAN OF $96,000 JEWELS IN EUROPEAN HOTEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CARLSBAD, Czechoslovakia, July 8.—Waking up this morning at the Hotel Imperial in Carlsbad, Mrs. Cora B. Hyman, 179 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, discovered that a thief had entered her bedroom window and robbed her of jewels valued at more than $96,000.

Nobody in the fashionable hotel, which is mainly patronized by Americans, saw the thief. Mrs. Hyman told THE TRIBUNE tonight that all of the jewels with the exception of $2,000 worth were insured.

WIDOW OF JEWELER.

Early dispatches filed by a news agency had named Mrs. Hyman's sister-in-law, Miss Clara Hyman of Glencoe, as the victim of the robbery and had estimated the value of the loot at $690,000.

Mrs. Hyman is 60 years old and the widow of D. A. Hyman, a jeweler. She is in Europe with Miss Hyman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stonehill, with whom Miss Hyman resides in Sheridan road, Glencoe.

Mr. Stonehill is president of the Chicago Mercantile company, wholesale milliners.

BANDITS STEAL 15 SHOTGUNS IN STORE HOLDUP

Three bandits with an accomplice waiting outside in a stolen sedan held up a sporting goods store at 2716 West 22d street last night, and escaped with fifteen shot guns, a dozen sweat shirts, and $15 from the cash register.

Six of the shot guns were of the repeating model, used by gangsters after the barrels have been sawed off. John Hajek, the proprietor, was alone.

Only one of the bandits, a youth about 24 years old, was armed. He ordered Hajek to place the shot guns in burlap sacks. When the bandits left Hajek obtained the license number on their sedan, which had been reported stolen by Miss Alvina Gitten, 2633 West 22d place.

Helen Blair Thrown by Horse, Killed

Miss Helen Bowen Blair, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair of Lake Bluff, was thrown from a runaway horse and fatally injured yesterday about 4:30 p. m. at the Onwentsia Country club.

Although only 17 years old, Miss Blair was considered an unusually accomplished horsewoman. In the fall she suffered a brain concussion, which left her unconscious until her death at 7:30 p. m. in the Alice Home hospital, Lake Forest.

The horse from which she fell was Miss Blair's favorite mount, Pitennis, a hunter and jumper from her father's stable. The animal had recently taken prizes at Onwentsia and was considered a well mannered if high spirited animal.

Bridle Strap Breaks.

Miss Blair was riding in a fenced field adjacent to the clubhouse. She had just flicked her mount to take a hurdle and was reining the horse for the jump when a bridle strap broke.

The horse shied from the hurdle and galloped off, beyond control of the bit. Miss Blair kept her seat, however, and the several grooms at the field were unaware of her peril until she began to wave her whip aloft.

As she signaled the horse ran headlong into the barbed wire fence and fell, throwing Miss Blair head foremost to the ground. The animal rolled upon her and had not regained its feet when the grooms arrived. They carried her to the car of Barney Baldwin, a polo player, who raced with the girl to the hospital.

Returns from Study Abroad.

Miss Blair was a graduate of Miss Walker's school near Hartford, Conn., and had returned only a month ago from Europe, where she had spent a year in travel and study. Her parents planned to introduce her to society in the fall.

Besides her parents there are three brothers, Edward, William McCormick Blair Jr., and Bowen Blair. Her mother was Miss Helen H. Bowen of Chicago. Her father is a resident partner of Lee, Higginson & Co., investment house. The town residence of the Blairs is at 1416 Astor street.

Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. Is Name of Colonel's Heir

New York, July 8.—(AP)—A statement was issued tonight at the home of Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow in Englewood, N. J., that Col. and Mrs. Charles Augustus Lindbergh have named their son, born June 22, at the ambassador's home, Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

Why Wister's Book on Teddy Was Withheld

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—The answer to the literary riddle of why Owen Wister's new book, "Theodore Roosevelt, the Story of a Friendship, 1880-1919," was withdrawn from circulation last month was discovered today.

Also the MacMillan company, which published it, announced the book would go on sale Thursday in a revised form.

It was, after all, no weighty revelation of state secrets, no criticism of contemporary statesmen that led to the book's withdrawal, as was hinted when the publishers hastily recalled copies issued in advance of its scheduled publication date.

Instead the trouble lay in a story in the book about the rival hostesses of a southern city a quarter of a century or so ago. It was a pretty story told against a background of wistaria vines, garden parties, and pompadours.

Other Women Furious.

By what was alleged to be a ruse one of the matrons succeeded in inducing the former President to enter her home while he was visiting the city. Outwitted by what they considered an unfair strategem, the other women were furious.

Mr. Roosevelt, according to the story, upon hearing several months later that he had been imposed upon by his gracious hostess, was not pleased.

Anyway, Mr. Wister related the story in his book. He also cited what he had heard about other instances of the hostess' resourcefulness in celebrity hunting and entertaining. The result was an intimation that the new book probably would produce a libel suit.

Yet the book had been printed, bound, and distributed. In another day or two it would be for sale. Mr. Wister was abroad. The publishers consulted their attorneys.

Delete Some Portions.

The objectionable portions have been taken out.

In announcing that the book finally is ready for distribution officials of the MacMillan company maintained their policy of silence regarding the nature of the "circumstances beyond their control" which led to the delay in publication. Nor would they reveal how much of the passages to which the woman objected had been deleted. Perhaps one amusing passage has been left.

When Mr. Wister told Mr. Roosevelt some months later how and why his southern hostess had succeeded the President's face, he says, "flushed darker than I had ever seen it. Then he shut his teeth with that familiar snap of his as he said, 'That is exactly how it happened.'

"'O, O,' gently murmured Mrs. Roosevelt. 'O, O.'"

PURSE SNATCHER ROBS SIX WOMEN IN QUICK ORDER

A young purse snatcher riding in a tan sedan without license numbers kept a jump ahead of the Shakespeare and West North avenue police last night as he seized the pocketbooks of six women in quick succession. His loot totaled $123.

The victims and their losses were: Mrs. Mary Higgins, 2832 North Richmond street, 75 cents; Mrs. Gussie Marks, 2702 North Sacramento avenue, $7; Mrs. Anne Zielinski, 2848 North Spaulding avenue, $60; Mrs. Bessie Lydiara, 2646 North Fairfield avenue, $15; Mrs. Annie Peterson, 2501 North Avers avenue, $8; and Mrs. Helen Kurowski, 2750 North Francisco avenue, $32.25.

SENATORS FACE ISSUE: RIGHT TO HIDDEN PAPERS

Fight with Hoover at Crisis.

Quorum in Danger

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—Two quorum calls in the senate today revealed only one more than the necessary 49 members were present to transact business and treaty advocates showed some concern. Two members will leave tomorrow. Senators Barkley, Kentucky, and Connally, Texas, both Democrats, go as American delegates to the interparliamentary union in London.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Administration defenses were battered today by an onslaught of the opponents of the navy limitation treaty who demanded that President Hoover submit to the senate the correspondence and all other documents bearing on the negotiation of the London agreement.

During the afternoon of debate on the McKellar resolution calling for the documents which the President withheld from the foreign relations committee, one after another of the defenders of the treaty announced that he would not oppose the resolution.

At 5 o'clock, on the eve of a vote on the resolution, the senate, on motion of Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], the majority leader, who had been in consultation with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in the Republican cloak room, took a recess until tomorrow.

Seek to Modify Demand.

The administration leaders by the end of the day were saying that they would support the resolution demanding the papers if modified to request the President to submit them "if not incompatible with the public interest." There will be a vote on this amendment because both Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], author of the resolution, and Senator Hiram W. Johnson [Rep., Cal.], leader of the opposition to the treaty, declared they would not accept the modification.

"The demand we are making is a demand of right on the part of the coequal of the executive in treaty making," said Senator McKellar, "and consequently cannot be incompatible with the public interest."

Whether the senate does or does not include the modifying phrase, "if not incompatible with the public interest," the President can decline to submit the information if he sees fit to do so. As a matter of fact, the leaders of the opposition forces admit they have no expectation the President will accede to the senate demand.

Moses Asks a Question.

The question whether the administration is suppressing the documents in order to conceal matters damaging to the treaty was pointedly raised by Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] just before adjournment.

"The executive submitted some of the documents to the foreign relations committee in confidence," said Senator Moses. "I never have been able to make up my mind why he did not submit all the documents in confidence. Was it because he had something to conceal?"

No answer to the senator's question was forthcoming.

Beginning on Thursday the senate is to meet at 11 a. m. daily instead of noon, the administration leaders hoping to bring the treaty to a vote within a week thereafter.

Stimson Takes Command.

Secretary Stimson appeared to have assumed leadership of the fight for the ratification of the treaty. He was on the floor or in the Republican cloakroom the greater part of the day. While on the floor he would beckon occasionally to Majority Leader Watson, who would hasten to his side for a whispered conversation and then depart hurriedly.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, dealt the first blow to the administration forces when he stated that he saw no objection to the adoption of the McKellar resolution. He said the President has the power to withhold the documents, but that the senate ought to have them for intelligent action on the treaty.

Senator McKellar said that if the President should deny the request the senate ought to refuse to ratify the treaty.

The fireworks of the debate were furnished by Senator Johnson in a fiery speech insisting upon the right of the senate to all the information on the treaty at the disposal of the executive.

"Here, sir," exclaimed Johnson, "is a treaty perhaps not very greatly opposed upon the floor of the senate, but, thank God, sir, it is opposed by some men who believe that it is inimical to the best interests of the United States and who are willing, in the face of any kind of a press drubbing or any kind of a partisan lashing, to stand here upon this floor and make their fight as they believe it ought to be made in behalf of the country.

"If there is sufficient interest upon this floor for maintaining the United States senate in its pristine purity and in all its proud glory, follow me if you will as to what happened in relation to the documents asked for by the pending resolution, and which were heretofore asked for before the foreign relations committee.

"It was on the sixteenth day of May, 1930, when Admiral Hilary Jones was under cross-examination by the foreign relations committee that there was introduced into the record of the committee, and published in the press, what is supposed to be a document that is of so delicate an international character that the remainder of it cannot be given to the United States senate.

Reads "Secret" Document.

"The document about which Admiral Jones was cross-examined by the distinguished senator from Arkansas [Mr. Robinson] was then put into the record by him with my consent. I am glad to say, because I had never heard of it and had never seen it before, and was delighted that it should be put into the record where we might be able to see it."

Senator Johnson then read this document, which was a report of the navy general board in which numerous dispatches passing between Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Secretary Stimson were referred to by number as the basis of the board's insistence upon not less than 21 eight inch gun cruisers for the United States. In one case the prime minister's language was quoted in part. Johnson insisted that the contents of the dispatches communicated to the general board should be communicated to the senate also.

"We are dealing, sirs," he said, "with one of the provisions of the constitution of our country, by which devolves upon us to provide for the national defense. We are dealing with that which is peculiarly and singularly within the jurisdiction of the congress of the United States.

Entitled to All Data.

"Dealing with such a subject matter, sirs, dealing with that which it is within our province to do, and which it is within our province alone to do, ought not we be permitted to have every line and everything upon which is predicated any reduction of our naval strength, any increase in our naval strength, any curtailment of our naval strength, or anything that affects in any degree the defense of the nation and the duty that is enjoined upon us under the constitution of our country?"

"I presume," interposed Senator Otis Glenn [Rep., Ill.], "the resolution which the senator from California has read includes not only the documents, but also is broad enough to include and was intended to include the conversations between the President of the United States and the prime minister of England. Is that correct?"

"I think that if at that time Mr. MacDonald committed himself to the construction of another battleship by the United States the senate is entitled to know it," Johnson replied.

Glenn Heckles Hiram.

"And, of course," Glenn persisted, "it would necessarily follow from the senator's position that if the senate foreign relations committee, or the body of the senate, is not satisfied or fully satisfied with the statement made by the President in regard to the conversations that we could call upon him and examine him and cross-examine him? Is that correct?"

"No, it would not be," snapped Johnson. "I tried to—but I am unable to pierce your intellect in that regard—I tried to say to the senator that there was a difference between propriety and power."

"What," rejoined Glenn, "would be the senator's position as to the propriety—I will endeavor to pierce his intellect. Would it be proper, in the senator's opinion, if we were not satisfied with the President's answer to call him here and examine and cross-examine him?"

"We have not any such right and power," answered Johnson.

In response to a question by Johnson, Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], who negotiated the agreement with Japan at London, said that he made the suggestion that we complete only 15 of our 18 big cruisers during the life of the treaty because it "was an element of importance" to the Japanese and "it seemed to be consistent with the building program which our navy had in mind."

Senator Johnson cited a statement in a government subsidized Japanese magazine that there was a Japanese-American gentlemen's agreement reached in London that America would not even build more than 12 big cruisers during the life of the treaty. Reed emphatically denied the existence of any such agreement. Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark], another of the treaty negotiators, asked if Johnson believed the assertion in the publication.

"No, but the Japanese do," Johnson retorted. Senator Johnson read historical documents to show that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty would not have been ratified had the senate been in possession of a certain secret understanding suppressed by Secretary of State Clayton.

Swanson Pleads for Treaty.

The debate on the production of the secret documents followed a two hour speech by Senator Claude Swanson [Dem., Va.], in support of ratification of the treaty.

"From a military and selfish standpoint," he said, "the United States cannot afford to reject this treaty. From a higher and nobler purpose the treaty should have our approval. It is promotive of peace, conducive of good will among the nations involved, and I hope marks the beginning of a more complete treaty for the limitation of naval armaments.

"For the United States to reject this treaty would be for her to abandon her moral leadership in the world and declare at the same time that she is an imperialistic nation, seeking conquest and expansion. It would create in the rest of the world an apprehension that we had sinister purposes to serve when we rejected the treaty, and would create a mistrust among all the nations of the world, and would result finally in political combinations against us to our detriment and menace.

"This situation would injure our foreign commerce and retard our material development."

Head of Navy League Disputes Parity Claim of Treaty Bloc

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Ratification of the London naval treaty would leave the United States with a battleship fleet inferior to that of Great Britain during the life of the pact, William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League of the United States, charged in a statement issued today. Mr. Gardiner said American ships would be slower, more vulnerable to fire from heavy guns and inferior in fire power to British ships.

Discussing other phases of the treaty and its effect on the five principal categories of fighting ships, Mr. Gardiner pointed out that the 10-10-6 ratio set up at the Washington conference for battleships and aircraft carriers "had been abandoned, in that Japan has been permitted parity in submarines and a 10-7 ratio in destroyers and small gun cruisers." Mr. Gardiner also called attention to a section of the treaty permitting Great Britain to lay down 177,350 tons of small 6 inch gun cruisers during the life of the pact and to complete 91,000 tons of these vessels.

Discusses Capital Ships.

"In capital ships," stated Mr. Gardiner, "the United States throughout the life of the London naval treaty will have a slight inferiority—about 5 per cent—to the British empire. In number of capital ships the United States will have 15, the British empire 15, and Japanese empire, 9.

"Of the capital ships to be retained, the average age of the American vessel is 12.3 years; of the British empire 11.4 years and the Japanese empire 13.2 years. The average speed of the American capital ship will be 21 knotes, of the British empire 25 knots, and of the Japanese empire 24 knots. The United States has a slight advantage in the total weight of broadside, it being 243,140 pounds as against 236,298 pounds for the British and 143,840 pounds for the Japanese or a ratio of 10-9, 7-5.9.

"In number of guns the United States has the advantage, having 160 to 118 for the British and 88 for the Japanese. The American advantage in number of guns and a slight preponderance in the weight of broadsides is more than offset by two factors revolving around the size of guns. One battleship in the American fleet will mount 12 inch guns, eleven will have 14 inch guns, and three will have 16 inch guns.

"The smallest main gun in the British capital fleet will be 15 inch [thirteen vessels] and two remaining ships will have 16 inch guns. Seven of the Japanese ships will mount 14 inch guns and two will mount 16 inch guns. The homogeneity of the British fleet with all 15 inch and 16 inch guns give an advantage over a fleet with guns ranging from 12 inch to 16 inch.

"It is very difficult to compare vessels with reference to their armor plate protection, but one factor stands out clearly—namely: given the same thickness of armor plate, it does not follow that vessels have the same protection; it depends on the antagonist. The American 12 inch gun battleship would be unable to penetrate an enemy vessel at certain ranges, while 16 inch and 15 inch gun ships could penetrate the same target at the same range.

"The British empire now has its full quota of recently constructed big gun cruisers and in addition has four others which must be disposed of before Dec. 31, 1936, unless the escape clause of the treaty is invoked. Japan has its full quota of recently constructed big gun cruisers. Of the American quota of eighteen big gun cruisers, only sixteen may be completed during the life of the treaty and the two additional ones completed in 1937 and 1938.

U. S. Lags in Building.

"In the meantime the United States has at present five big gun cruisers completed, three within a year of completion and five only just begun.

"The British empire has its full quota of small gun cruisers, and the Japanese empire nearly so. The United States has less than half of its quota at the present time."

FRENCH PREMIER DEFIES IL DUCE; RAISES WAR ANTE

Asks $45,040,000 More for National Defense.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 8.—France's answer to the increased military budget was made today when Premier Tardieu deposited with the chamber of deputies a demand for an additional $45,040,000 over the regular appropriations for national defense this year.

Of this sum $26,000,000 has already been authorized in the guise of supplementary credits. The other $19,040,000 constitutes an emergency measure and will need special authorization by parliament before it can be appropriated.

Fights Longer Army Leaves.

Coinciding with M. Tardieu's demand for more blue chips with which to sit in the steep European armaments game, the debates in parliament were of a highly significant nature. In the chamber of deputies, Minister of War Maginot, backed by Premier Tardieu, fought the motion of the radicals to give special leave to farmers serving in the army in order to alleviate the agricultural crisis.

M. Maginot declared that with the period of service reduced to one year the army would be weakened to a critical degree by granting even a three weeks' leave to a number of conscripts. He pointed out that the army was already 20,000 short in conscripts and that the professional standing army was still 10,000 short of the set figure of 106,000, which the general staff has agreed must be the minimum if the period of service is reduced. He urged not only that the leaves be withheld, but that immediate measures be taken to fill the gap.

M. Tardieu risked his cabinet by placing a question of confidence for the support of the war minister and won by a majority of 53.

Senate Replies to Duce.

In the senate the naval committee, which is considering the results of the London naval conference, adopted a strong resolution calling upon the government not to depart at any cost from the following principles:

First, liberty to achieve any figure in global tonnage of France's navy; second, liberty to build submarines; third, liberty of transferring submarines; fourth, refusal of parity to Italy; fifth, freedom to use submarines in time of war.

This is considered a direct answer to Premier Mussolini's demand for parity with France, with the alternative of general disarmament.

Congressman Injured in Auto Crash; Girl Burned to Death

Congressman Florian Lampert of Wisconsin, a resident of Oshkosh, was injured yesterday when his automobile crashed into a coal truck on the Lincoln highway two miles east of Chicago Heights. Mr. Lampert, who was 67 years old yesterday, was en route to Oshkosh from Washington, D. C., and his car was being driven by Charles F. Nolan of Oshkosh, a student at Georgetown university in Washington.

Rain had made the pavement slippery, and as Nolan swung the machine around the truck which was parked on the road it skidded, the rear end of the car striking the truck. Mr. Lampert was taken to St. James' hospital. He suffered a broken collar bone. Nolan was not injured.

A cousin, Wilson Lampert, Chicago broker, was notified and went at once to the hospital.

Mr. Lampert represents the Sixth congressional district and has been in congress since 1916. He is a Republican.

Girl Burns to Death.

In an accident at the Dundee road and Northwest highway near Palatine yesterday an eighteen year old girl was burned to death and two men were seriously injured. The dead girl was Miss Alberta Nelson of Stoughton, Wis. The machine in which she was riding skidded on the wet pavement, crashed into another car and burst into flames as it plunged into a ditch.

The injured are Miss Mary Kettleson, 19 years old, Stoughton, and C. C. Willitts, 1809 Lawrence avenue. Both suffered severe burns and internal injuries, and physicians at the Palatine hospital said Miss Kettleson may die.

Willitts was driving the two girls to Chicago, where they planned to spend a vacation. Dr. Edward Bauman of Arlington Heights, driver of the other machine, dragged Willitts and Miss Kettleson from the burning car but was unable to extricate Miss Nelson. He received minor injuries.

This death and four others raised Cook county's motor toll for the year to 493. The other victims:

John W. Strong, 80 years old, 7140 South Irving avenue. Died at the German Deaconess hospital from injuries received last Sunday when run down by a hit and run driver at 55th street and Ashland avenue.

Cyrus Neuman, 58 years old, 3221 Douglas boulevard. Died at St. Anthony's hospital from injuries received when an automobile driven by William Minek, 18 years old, 1413 51st court, Cicero, upset his watermelon wagon at 16th street and 46th avenue, Cicero.

Charles McCarthy, 45 years old, 1420 East 67th street. Killed by an auto driven by Gus Carroll, colored, 2953 South Michigan avenue, at 26th street and South Park way.

Unidentified woman. Killed when struck by an automobile last night in front of 2709 Washington boulevard. The driver, William P. Amerson, 23 years old, 113 North Homan avenue, was held by the west park police.

Maxwell street police yesterday uncovered an alleged conspiracy to shield a hit and run driver, following the arrest of Edward Stromberg, 47 years old, 68 West Ontario street. Stromberg, who attempted to commit suicide Monday night in a cell at the police station, confessed, police said, it was his machine that struck and fatally injured eleven year old Lena Juliano, 1152 Taylor street.

Tells Police of Plot.

He told police he had sold the car to William Martin, who lives with him, but had loaned it to Alfred Reardon, 635 North Clark street. Reardon returned the car and told Stromberg he had killed the child. The three men then conspired to protect Reardon and Stromberg reported the car had been stolen.

Charles E. Yerkes, 25 years old, grandson of the late Charles T. Yerkes, pioneer traction magnate and donor of Yerkes observatory at Lake Geneva, was arrested, charged with driving while intoxicated.

Charged with speeding, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident, Douglas H. Haight of Hollis, L. I., New York, sales manager of a map company, was arrested last night after his car had collided with that of Joseph Knight, 508 South Leavitt street, in the outer drive, near 23d street.

ALCOCK ORDERS POLICE PURGE OF GANG RELATIONS

Reporter Wants to Go to Grand Jury Direct.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. The information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Public suspicion aroused by recent events was considered in two ways yesterday.

Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock took cognizance of it in the following order to all commanding officers:

"The general impression of the public is that an alliance exists between members of the police department with racketeers and gangsters, and it is my intention to get the facts on this subject.

Captains Held Responsible.

"For this purpose you will make a survey of all members of your command at once and submit in writing under your signature not later than July 20 any suspicions or knowledge you may have concerning any member of the department in or about your command that may be countenancing, shielding, protecting, or aiding illegal transactions of any kind or associating in any way with racketeers.

"It is advisable that commanding officers give this subject attention because future developments may show that such an alliance has existed and where a commanding officer is ignorant of or fails to discover or neglects to report same it will be an acknowledgment of inefficiency or neglect of duty and will be dealt with accordingly."

Discuss Press Inquiry.

A proposed investigation of charges made by Harry T. Brundidge, a reporter for the St. Louis Star, that certain Chicago newspaper men are racketeers, depended on the outcome of an exchange of messages between State's Attorney Swanson and Frank W. Taylor Jr., managing editor of the St. Louis Star.

Brundidge's recently published articles contained the statement he would be willing to give the facts back of his charges to a grand jury if called. State's Attorney Swanson, importuned by Chicago newspapers to call Brundidge, stated he would form a board of inquiry consisting of himself and his assistants, John Northup and William Rittenhouse. They proposed, Swanson said, to interview Mr. Brundidge before asking him to go before the grand jury and if his statements were based on mere hearsay, Mr. Swanson declared, he would not hesitate to say so.

The prosecutor wrote the St. Louis newspaper asking that Brundidge be sent here.

The Prosecutor's Letter.

"From certain articles appearing in your paper recently and reproduced in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of this city," Prosecutor Swanson wrote, "it appears that the writer of said articles, Harry T. Brundidge, is in possession of facts which would be of value to this office in making a grand jury investigation.

"Therefore this office requests, in the interest of justice, that you have said newspaper correspondent call at this office at his earliest convenience for an interview with me."

Editor Taylor of the Star replied to Mr. Swanson as follows:

"This is in reply to your letter of July seventh. As printed in the St. Louis Star July second, Harry T. Brundidge, staff reporter of the Star, is willing to go before a Cook county grand jury in connection with any investigation to be made of racketeering Chicago newspaper men. Mr. Brundidge will give the grand jury information he possesses.

"The nature of such information is, of course, apparent to you or any one else that has read articles in the St. Louis Star or the Chicago press in connection with the Lingle investigation. We, therefore, feel that a preliminary conference between Mr. Brundidge and yourself should be unnecessary and that any decision to put Mr. Brundidge before the grand jury should rest on the nature of the printed articles.

Reasons for Decision.

"Frankly, we are actuated in reaching this decision by the further consideration of public confidence in the outcome of the investigation now under way. Should this investigation result in a whitewash for the living and leave the dead (the late Mr. Lingle) to bear all the odium of racketeering among the newspaper profession, then we feel sure that you will agree with us that such action should come from a regularly constituted grand jury.

"If handled in the informal manner you suggest many people might interpret such an outcome, leaving the whole stigma on Lingle as the result of pressure brought by the powerful Chicago newspapers to prevent the news of other Lingles in their ranks from coming out.

"Please let us know if you are in accord with the above, and, if so, when Mr. Brundidge's presence before the grand jury is desired."

Mr. Taylor stated in St. Louis last night that an announcement reported to have been made by Mr. Swanson that Mr. Brundidge would appear before him here tomorrow was erroneous.

Mr. Swanson said it is customary for some one of his assistants to talk with any witness before the witness is taken before the grand jury. He indicated, however, that he would not quibble about taking Mr. Brundidge before the grand jury without first interviewing him privately.

Reese Leaves Hospital.

The affairs of Leland H. Reese, reporter for the Chicago Daily News, who Brundige said was marked for death, were also involved in the investigations of yesterday. Reese, with two bodyguards who were in an automobile turnover last Friday, and with three other companions, secretly left Glidden Memorial hospital in De Kalb yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, although they had ordered their supper and were not expected to leave until night.

Hospital attachés said they did not know of the departure of the Chicago newspaper reporter and his five companions until a half hour later.

A De Kalb reporter said yesterday that he had obtained information at the Glidden hospital that a woman named Marian Cooper was in the Reese party and had been a patient at the hospital. Mr. Reese protested last night that there was no woman in his party and that the name, "Marian Cooper," must have been invented. A De Kalb report also quoted Chief of Police C. S. Rowe as saying that he was tired of being pestered about the Reese matter, that he had called at the hospital on Monday and told a member of the Reese party he hoped they would make their stay short. Mr. Reese last night said he knew of no such request from the chief.

The following telegram was received last night from Brundidge of the St. Louis Star:

"I have just read the account of the automobile accident in which Leland H. Reese, Chicago Daily News gangland reporter, was injured, as published in THE TRIBUNE June 6. In this article Reese is quoted as having said: 'The rumors I am to be bumped off are a lot of bull. That St. Louis fellow is all wrong and I would like to get hold of him. I had him in talking to Roche and Swanson. We showed him he was all wrong.'"

"This is gross misstatement of fact. Through no fault of my own I have never seen Reese, although I spent hours trying to find him to question him. His statement that 'I had him in talking to Roche and Swanson' is false."

Woman Is Questioned.

A mysterious woman figured yesterday in the investigation of the murder of Lingle. She was seized by a detective bureau squad on the Navy pier as she prepared to take a boat to Grand Rapids. Chief of Detectives Norton sent the squad to arrest the woman, giving a description of her and saying she would be found waiting at the Goodrich docks.

When taken to the office of Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun she gave the name of Peggy Evans but later said her name was Margaret [Peggy] Abbott and her address was 942 West 6th street, Los Angeles. She was described as stout, 45 years old, and blond.

It was presumed her detention had something to do with the arrest of Frank Foster, the former owner of the gun used in killing Lingle.

Sends for Pat Roche.

Rathbun sent for Chief Investigator Pat Roche immediately upon the woman's being brought to his office. It was understood she said she had left Los Angeles six weeks ago—before the arrival there of Foster.

Some time later Rathbun went to the office of Coroner Herman N. Bundesen. Leonard Keeler of the Northwestern university school of scientific crime detection was there with a machine he has perfected and which he calls a lie detector. The proceedings in Dr. Bundesen's office were secret and it was not known upon whom the lie detector, which operates on a blood pressure impression device, was used.

In Los Angeles attorneys for Foster obtained a writ of habeas corpus to prevent his extradition to Chicago. Foster claimed he could prove he was not in Chicago on June 9, the day of the Lingle murder.

State's Attorney Swanson sent an assistant to California yesterday to hasten the return of Foster, who has been indicted for the Lingle murder on the basis of his former ownership of the revolver and his refusal to tell to whom it went after leaving his possession. On the basis that such refusal makes him an accessory after the fact, Foster was indicted and extradition papers obtained. But his return will not be effected until after July 15, according to dispatches from Los Angeles.

VETERAN OF THREE WARS 89

BRIG. GEN. JAMES E. STUART.

Recalls Fighting Days

A veteran of three wars, Brig. Gen. James E. Stuart, who was 89 years old yesterday, reminisced a little about his fighting days.

"In the civil war," the general said, in the Stuart home at 3144 West Monroe street, "the officers fought alongside of their men and were killed with them. I enlisted as a private among 1,100. At the end of the war, I returned, commanding, as captain, 150 who were left out of the 1,100.

"It was the last of the wars of its kind. Of course, I don't like war. No soldier does. But if our country were to go to war again, I'd like to be young again, and you couldn't keep me away. Of course, it will go to war some time. Nations will always go to war."

Grand Jury to Investigate Murder of Julius Rosenheim

The new information that Julius Rosenheim, murdered by gangsters five months ago, was a paid informant of the Chicago Daily News brings that killing out of the list of forgotten crimes and it is to be investigated by the grand jury.

This action developed yesterday as an aftermath to the revelations made by Leland H. Reese, reporter for the Daily News, in a signed article published in his paper on Monday. Mr. Reese said that Rosenheim had supplied him with information upon which Reese based exposés of gang activities.

The facts surrounding the killing of Rosenheim were being reassembled yesterday by police officials and investigators for State's Attorney Swanson.

Rosenheim Killing Recalled.

Rosenheim, who was 55 years old, a shabby, unkempt and stooped little man who had spent most of his life as an informant, was shot to death on the morning of Feb. 1. He had just left his home at 3510 Dickens avenue on the northwest side and was bound for the elevated line and his day's work.

A half block from his home, as he was walking along the sidewalk, a blue sedan drew alongside. Two men leaped from the car, drawing pistols from armpit holsters as they ran toward Rosenheim.

Both placed their weapons to Rosenheim's head, while the spy cowered, and then five shots were fired in quick succession. All struck Rosenheim in the head.

The two killers hastened back to their automobile and were driven away by a third accomplice.

Woman Witness Vanishes.

A young woman walking close behind Rosenheim screamed and fled through a yard into an alley. She was never seen or heard of again, although a short search for her was conducted at the time. It was considered possible that she knew Rosenheim or the killers and might have given the identity of the latter.

Rosenheim was well known in the vice and gambling districts of the west side. For 20 years he had mingled with the habitués of these resorts, frequently carrying tales from and about them to officials, reformers, and other agencies for which he worked. He was known as an intimate friend of "Monkey Face Charlie" Genker, west side pander and divekeeper.

Charges have been made that Rosenheim collected bribes from racketeers and divekeepers under threat of exposing them in the Daily News, and these charges also will be investigated.

Bernard O'Donnell Loses Point in Gun Toting Case

Bernard O'Donnell, member of the west side O'Donnell gang of beer rustlers, lost a point in his trial before Judge E. I. Frankhauser on a gun carrying charge when Judge Frankhauser yesterday refused to suppress the evidence on the ground an illegal search of O'Donnell had taken place.

Sergt. Thomas Hamilton, who arrested O'Donnell, testified he saw the revolver protruding from O'Donnell's pocket.

O'Donnell's defense was that he was in his own restaurant, the Café Barsotti, at 4654 West Madison street, and had a right to carry a gun there.

AIMS VENGEANCE AT ONE, ANOTHER JAILED, HE SAYS

Strange Story Is Told in Behalf of Looney.

Springfield, Ill., July 8.—(AP)—Vengeance miscarried when John Looney, former head of a Rock Island vice ring was sentenced to prison, and Lawrence Pedigo, one of his henchmen, escaped. Si Hazlitt, another Looney satellite, told the state board of pardons this morning, in a dramatic hearing on Looney's behalf.

Hazlitt, former newspaper editor, and now a "picture editor" in Chicago, told a story that stirred Mrs. Agnes S. McCartney, the woman member of the pardon board, to fling the charge of "double crossing" at him, which he admitted. He appeared in support of an affidavit in which he virtually recanted from all the testimony given against Looney at the conspiracy trial in Galesburg.

Failed in His Vengeance.

"I wanted to get Pedigo," he said boldly, "and I never got him. I didn't mean to get Looney, but included him in my testimony so as to get Pedigo."

Two years ago, Hazlitt said, he was asked to make an affidavit for Looney, but he refused in face of a threat that he would be "taken for a ride." This time, he said, he signed the affidavit willingly, although he still was in fear of his life.

When asked what he was afraid of, he said he couldn't explain, but harked back to the 1928 hearing.

"I had my life in one hand and jail in the other," he said, indicating he feared death if he should refuse to appear, and indictment for perjury if he did appear, and confess to having given false testimony.

Looney's Daughter Chief Witness.

Mrs. Frank L. Hamblin, daughter of John Looney, was chief witness in the case. She read various affidavits from witnesses who had appeared against her father. Her anxiety in her father's behalf led to frequent interruption of Hazlitt. Tearful and nervous, she turned to the pardon board, after Hazlitt had told he had been threatened at the 1928 hearing.

"But he wasn't taken for a ride," she said.

"No," the chairman answered, "he's here."

Both Hazlitt and Pedigo, whom Hazlitt wanted to "get" when Looney was sentenced, were former editors of the Rock Island News, an alleged scandal sheet founded by John Looney and by which, it was charged, hush money was exacted.

Admits Swearing Falsely.

Hazlitt said Pedigo had forced him out and then had written about him so scurriliously that he vowed to "get" the writer. Answering direct questions of the pardon board, he admitted having sworn falsely in the Galesburg trial, unmindful that he was doing wrong.

When asked why he had made today an affidavit he had refused to make in 1928, he said he was advised by a lawyer he could not be prosecuted now. Further questions brought forth the statement that he had been promised $200 for the affidavit, but he could not say who had promised it.

"It was a man of about 35 years of age," he said. "I can't tell anything more about him."

Double Crossed Both Sides.

Senator James J. Barbour of Chicago, and Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Hadley, who led the prosecution of the Rock Island vice ring conspiracy, asked Hazlitt if the testimony he had given the grand jury was false. He hesitated in answering this, as with nearly other question, declaring that most of his testimony was true when he made it.

"You've double crossed both sides," Mrs. McCartney said. "You appear here for the defense and have been in conference with the prosecution. Double crossing, isn't it?"

"Yes," Hazlitt answered.

NEW CENSUS SHOWS 6,955,034 PERSONS IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—With the completion of the count in the Bronx today, New York's census was finished. A complete tabulation of reports gave the city a total population of 6,955,034, an increase of 1,234,986 since 1920.

The total figures for each of the five boroughs as compared with their populations ten years ago follow:

Borough—	1920.	1930.	Increase.	Pct.
Brooklyn	2,018,356	2,596,154	577,798	25.6
Manhatt'n	2,284,103	1,856,588	427,515	*18
Bronx	732,016	1,266,732	534,716	73
Queens	469,042	1,078,357	619,316	132
Richmond	116,531	157,253	40,722	35

*Decrease.

The percentage of increase in the growth of the entire city is more than 23 per cent.

Biggest City Issue.

The new figures on the population of New York City again revive the dispute as to the "biggest city" in the world. London continues to lay claim to the title, although London proper contains only 4,605,000 inhabitants, according to the latest figures.

What is called "greater London," taking in the so-called outer ring of nearby communities which are ruled by the metropolitan police, is credited with a total population of 7,915,000 and it is on this figure that London claims it is the largest city in the world.

New York claims this basis would give it a total of 10,000,000.

Following London and New York, the world's greatest cities are:

Berlin	4,013,588
Chicago	3,373,753
Paris	2,838,416
Osaka	2,333,800
Tokio	2,218,400
Philadelphia	2,064,300
Buenos Ayres	2,042,296
Moscow	2,025,940

VERMONT MAN MAY BE PLACED IN HUSTON JOB

Says Hoover Offered It; Denial Made.

Rutland, Vt., July 8.—(AP)—The Rutland Herald states that Earl S. Kinsley of this city, Republican national committeeman since 1914, said today that President Hoover had asked him to become acting chairman of the Republican national committee, now presided over by Claudius H. Huston.

The Herald quotes Kinsley as saying that the offer of the acting chairmanship carried with it "the possibility of permanent appointment." Kinsley said he was to see Mr. Hoover after the meeting in Washington Thursday of the committee and at that time give him his final decision.

Why He Hesitates.

He gave as his reasons for hesitating to accept the appointment his business interests and the necessity of leaving Vermont to take up a permanent residence in Washington.

Shortly after giving the interview Kinsley left for New York and Washington. Not only has Kinsley served ten years on the committee, but he is also a close personal friend of former President Coolidge and former National Committee Chairman Hubert Work.

Denied at White House.

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—White House officials tonight denied that President Hoover had requested Earl S. Kinsley, national committeeman from Vermont, to serve as acting chairman of the Republican national committee.

"The President," it was said at the White House, "has had no communication whatsoever with Mr. Kinsley."

Although it is insisted that the President has not asked Mr. Huston to resign, it is known that Mr. Hoover has been impressed by representations of senators and others that his usefulness has been destroyed by the linking of his name with lobbying and other incidents. Mr. Huston is determined not to resign unless the President publicly requests him to do so.

Mr. Kinsley and the President have long been friends and recently the former was a week-end guest at the Presidential lodge in Virginia.

The drive to oust Huston today was joined by twenty Republican senators.

ALCOCK ORDERS BONDSMEN KEPT OUT OF STATIONS

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock in an order issued last night moved to end the professional bondsman racket in the city's 41 district stations and at the detective bureau. He gave as his reason that "too much complaint has been received at this office."

The order, addressed to all commanding officers, said:

"Professional bondsmen must be removed. You will permit no person or persons to enter the cell rooms for the purpose of interviewing prisoners. If an attorney calls to interview a prisoner, you will ascertain from the prisoner if he has retained the attorney to represent him. If he has not been retained, you will see he is not allowed to enter the cell room. If he has been retained, you will allow him to interview the prisoner outside the cell room, in the presence of a member of your command designated by you."

The order concludes with the warning that "all commanding officers will be held strictly accountable."

TRANSFER OF CAR FUND BY CITY IS CALLED ILLEGAL

Attorney Tells Treasurer to Keep Subway Money.

The proposed transfer of the $60,000,000 city transit fund to a trustee bank as provided in the new transportation ordinance was declared illegal yesterday by Thomas Marshall, attorney to City Treasurer Peterson who has custody of the money. The attorney advised Peterson to retain the money in his possession as the treasurer.

"The courts have repeatedly held that a municipality cannot function through a trustee or delegate its power to others," said Attorney Marshall. "I am convinced that the section of the ordinance that provides for this transfer is invalid. I hardly think that it is of sufficient importance to invalidate the entire ordinance, however."

Peterson Asks Guarantees.

Under the terms of the ordinance the transit fund is to be used in the construction of a subway. Mr. Peterson explained that while he will do nothing to hamper subway construction he would have to be protected against personal liabilities.

"I am willing to turn over the fund if the Chicago Bar association will give me an opinion that it can be legally done or under an agreement in writing that the fund will be returned to me in case it is determined that the transfer is illegal," he said.

In the opinion of Edward C. Higgins, assistant corporation counsel, who aided in drafting the ordinance, neither of the two Peterson suggestions will have to be followed. He said it had been settled that the transfer could be legally handled by a mandamus action in the Superior court. A court order would relieve Treasurer Peterson of any liability, Higgins said.

Rush Plans for New Bridge.

Plans for a new State street bridge to replace the old one, under which transportation engineers have said it would be impracticable to build subways, were being rushed yesterday by City Engineer Gayton.

The contract for the north viaduct of the Wabash avenue bridge, which will carry a part of the load when the new State street span is being built, was let yesterday by Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe. The Keller-Elliott company, which is building the bridge, was given the contract on its bid of $529,929 and promise to complete the work in six months.

3 HURT WHEN PIER COLLAPSES AND SPILLS 20

Penns Grove, N. J., July 8.—(AP)—Three persons were injured when the Wilson line pier here collapsed late today.

Less than twenty persons were on the pier at the time and only three were thrown into the river. They were quickly rescued. A Negro, whose leg was crushed, was the most seriously hurt. The other two, Mr. and Mrs. Naylor Holmes of Penns Grove, received only slight cuts and bruises.

"OLD IRONSIDES" MAKES HER FIRST TRIP IN 33 YEARS

Boston, Mass., July 8.—(AP)—The historic frigate Constitution, conqueror of British warships and the Barbary pirates 125 years ago, today made her first voyage in 33 years. She was towed from the Navy Yard across the harbor to dry dock to further the task of her second restoration.

The trip took place almost 100 years to the day after the order to junk her which brought forth the memorable poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes, sarcastically advising, "Ay, tear her tattered ensign down."

A main mast, a mizzen and a foremast were to be ceremoniously installed before the day was done. Before the great crane lifted the 104 foot main mast into her, Governor Allen was scheduled to deposit a silver dollar under its heel. A penny, of 1814 vintage, was to be laid under the mizzen and a gold piece under the foremast.

Tomorrow, with her masts in place, "Old Ironsides" will again look like her old self. Three years have been spent already in restoring her. The work, now 85 per cent accomplished is under the direction of Lieut. J. A. Lord, son of old Maine ship builders.

Cigar Store Headquarters of Mondi Handbook Robbed

Three robbers yesterday held up a cigar store at 738 South Dearborn street, where Jimmy Mondi, notorious gambling racketeer, formerly associated with Al Capone in Cicero, runs a handbook. They took $100 from a cash register and $55 from an unidentified customer. Vincent Harvey, who told the police he was proprietor of the cigar store, convinced the bandits he did not know the combination of the safe and they drove away in a taxicab.

OPEN TRIAL OF COP ON CHARGE OF EXTORTION

The trial of Sergt. William Begley for extortion of $700 from Jean B. Hassewer, owner of a cabinet factory who has since been mysteriously murdered, was started yesterday in Judge Finnegan's criminal court. Although the policeman was named jointly with several others in the indictment, Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman asked that he be tried alone. The defense attorneys objected, but were overruled.

The prosecutors said they will show that Hassewer was first approached by men who said they knew a secret way to manufacture money. He went into the scheme and later it is charged Begley, who was supposed to be his friend, approached him and agreed to "fix things up" for $500. Hassewer was told he might be prosecuted for participating in the scheme.

The state was prepared to rush the case to trial, but just before it was to start Hassewer was found shot to death in his shop. The prosecutors, however, expect to prove up a case by the testimony of co-defendants and of the policemen who made the arrests while the extortion money was being paid.

STATE DOOMS BILLBOARDS AT 'NO MAN'S LAND'

Cermak Asks Zoning Law Against Signs.

BY HAL FOUST.

Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works yesterday ordered billboards and other advertising cleared from the right of way of Sheridan road in "No Man's Land," the unincorporated strip of lake frontage occupied by roadside commerce between the strictly zoned residential zone its highways against advertising. I am asking the Chicago Association districts of Wilmette and Kenilworth.

The statutes bar all signs except official markers on state highway property. The law does not reach billboards regarded as eye sores on private property abutting the roadways, except where these are a hazard to public travel. However, President Cermak of the county board yesterday took steps to clean the county's roads

Cite Indiana Court Decision.

The Indiana Supreme court pointed of objectionable posters, even where the billboards are on private property, the way for relief in a recent decision, sustaining the validity of the Indianapolis park board's zoning ordinance which prohibits bill boards from being erected within 500 feet of a park or boulevard.

"The constitutions of Indiana and Illinois, as they concern zoning ordinances, are essentially the same," said Mr. Cermak. "Furthermore, protecting the beauty of the county highways is no different and no less important to society than protecting the beauty of parks and boulevards.

"With this precedent from the Indiana Supreme court, I know of no reason why the county board can not of Commerce, the City Club, and the Chicago Regional Plan association to investigate and report recommendations to the board."

The announcement was made at a session of the recently inaugurated weekly conference of county highway officials and newspaper men. Other news items made public at the meeting and of interest to the motoring public follow:

Private property owners in Chicago are showing a reluctance to pay a special assessment to move curbs on the city streets that the county wants to widen and pave with the gasoline tax for through traffic arteries.

Grade Separation Delayed.

The construction of a grade separation at Lake street and North avenue at the edge of Elmhurst is delayed indefinitely due to the failure of attempts to purchase the right of way.

Maj. George Quinlan, county highway superintendent, requested the county board to notify the "proper authorities" that the county's construction program, prepared by a citizens' advisory committee, calls for the expenditure of $250,000 in 1931 for forty feet of concrete on the outer drive between Montrose and Devon avenues and $150,000 for paving in 1932 on the outer drive between Devon avenue and the city limits. Lincoln park is building made land north from the present limit at Montrose avenue, but the North Shore park district, north of Devon avenue, has done nothing toward acquiring a right of way to extend the outer drive to Evanston.

JUDGE PADDEN URGES JAILED MOTORIST TO SUE LINCOLN BOARD

Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden recommended yesterday that motorists held all night in the Lincoln park police station on charges of minor traffic violations sue the park board for false arrest. His remark was occasioned by the case of T. A. Giboney, 6430 Glenwood avenue, who was arraigned in Town Hall court after having been a prisoner all night on a charge of speeding.

Judge Padden declared that judges of the Municipal court have agreed that traffic violators, except those accused of reckless or drunken driving, should be freed on their recognizance. He freed Giboney with these words:

"I recommend that you sue the Lincoln park board for false arrest. I shall continue to free all other traffic violators held overnight for minor violations until this mutilation of common decency ends."

The judge declared the motorcycle division of the police department was a failure. "Drivers may speed on 99 per cent of the streets without fear of arrest because the motorcycle police are loafing on highways where it is safe to speed," he said.

BURGLARY SUSPECT CAPTURED.

James Kish, 19 years old of Cleveland was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Thomas Dorgan of the Grand Crossing station after his alleged attempt to rob the apartment of Mrs. Edwin Peterson, 7739 Merrill avenue. She saw him raising a widow and telephoned the station.

AIRPLANE USED AS FISHING BOAT LANDS BIG CATCH

Roosevelt Field, L. I., July 8.—[Special.]—An Ireland amphibian airplane was used for a fishing boat today by Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of Otto H. Kahn, and three companions, who caught more than 50 fish in two hours of angling in Long Island sound.

Kahn enlivened a dull day at the airport by taking up his pilot, Delbert Whitten, Charles DeBeaver, former parachute jumper, and Harold Wilder, a mechanic, and landing the plane in the sound about a mile off Port Washington. There they anchored, and when they drew in their lines they had an imposing catch to display at the field.

KING OF ENGLAND BEGS INDIA TO RESTORE PEACE

Ruler Opens New Building in Heart of London.

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—A new India house was opened in London by King George today with an expression of hope for the emergence of India from her present troublous era into days of peace and contentment. The restoration of a true understanding of the unity of the greater commonwealth, of which India is a part, King George said, would aid in solving India's destiny.

The address, which was in reply to Sir Atul Chandra Chutterjee, high commissioner of India, lasted six minutes. It was broadcast here and rebroadcast in America.

"Beginning of New Period."

"At this critical period in India's history, when the thoughts of all who love that country are centered upon constructive effort and upon laying well and truly the foundation of India of the future," King George said, "I regard it as a happy augury to be able to open a building which marks the end of one period of advancement and the beginning of a new.

"But India house stands for more than that. As I look around me, I see the emblems of the religions, the provinces and the states of India. This building which contains them surely testifies to the unity of India in herself. The position of India house among those of the sister nations here in the center of my capital further symbolizes the unity of the great commonwealth of which she is a part. For a deeper realization of that two-fold unity I most earnestly pray.

Awaits Unity of India.

"During recent months I watched with anxious heart the troublous passage of events. Trusting in the divine guidance, I hopefully await the day that shall restore the gift of true understanding and thus unite every race and creed in one desire to bring peace and contentment to my Indian people.

"I have now much pleasure in declaring India house open, and I trust that it may not only serve the material progress of that country but, by spreading sound knowledge, may it foster between the peoples of India and Great Britain that wider sympathy for which I have pleaded many years and plead again today."

The building, a beautiful new governmental structure in the heart of London, will house the various trade and commercial interests of India, as Australia house on the Strand long has those of the Australian commonwealth.

MAC DONALD FACES DEFEAT.

[Chicago Tribune News Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—An attempt to defeat the labor government will be made in the house of commons tomorrow on the finance bill, according to reports tonight. The liberal leader, David Lloyd George, is expected to go with the Conservatives against the government on an amendment which would exempt from income tax all profits reinvested in a business.

Government circles tonight admit the majority may be small, and even against the government. The treasury contends the concession demanded will cost $35,000,000 yearly and that the door will be opened to tax evasion.

JOHN D.'S $6,000,000 MEDICAL GIFT PERILS WINE MART IN PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 8.—The shade of Napoleon Bonaparte and John D. Rockefeller in the flesh are in a clash over the eviction of the Paris municipal wine market to permit the faculty of the Sarbonne medical school to build huge laboratories on the site with the $6,000,000 the oil magnate donated.

The American philanthropist promised a $6,000,000 gift to erect buildings and install the most modern apparatus if a site was provided.

The city fathers envisage allocating property on the Quai St. Bernard on the outskirts of the city, where enormous reservoirs and huge storage warehouses hold thousands of barrels of rare wines more than a century old.

President Albarel of the wine commerce syndicate protests vigorously against a dry American ousting the venerable and honored viticultural headquarters from the location designated by Emperor Napoleon I.

"The established wine market there is convenient and handy for the people," M. Albarel said. "It enables distribution without heavy transport costs so as to keep the price of vin ordinaire at the lowest for the proletariat."

He asserted that it will cost $80,000,000 to transfer the wine market elsewhere.

Chicago Deputy Dry Chief to Arrive in City Today

Thad W. Rowden, recently appointed deputy prohibition director for Chicago, will arrive today to assume his duties, Col. John F. J. Herbert, director for Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, was notified yesterday. Mr. Rowden, who has been working as a deputy enforcement chief at St. Louis, will be directly in charge of prohibition enforcement in Chicago. George H. Huriburt, who has been acting assistant director here since the transfer of the prohibition bureau to the department of justice, is expected to be transferred soon to the west coast, in accordance with his wishes.

JOHN D. SR. AT 91 IS GRATEFUL FOR KINDNESS TO HIM

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—The greatest satisfaction that John D. Rockefeller Sr. finds in life as steadily he approaches a hundred years of age is the kindness displayed toward him by everybody, everywhere. That was the inner meaning of the only public communication he had to make today on his 91st birthday.

Take Mother Jones, for example. Most everybody old enough must remember how Mother Jones, a famous labor agitator of thirty years ago or so, used to berate Mr. Rockefeller up and down the land. Mother Jones, who has just passed her 100th birthday, went to jail for her attacks on the Rockefellers during one coal strike. Read the telegram the aged woman sent to Mr. Rockefeller today:

"Congratulations on the arrival of your 91st birthday. Thank God we have some men in the world as good as you. We never needed them more than we do today. Most sincere wishes that you may be blessed with many more."

His Message to World.

This interesting note in the life of the man who was the second richest man in the world until he gave the bulk of his fortune to his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and to organized benevolence (the Nizam of Hyderabad, greatest of Indian native states, is now believed to be the richest individual the world has ever known) was emphasized today by the message that the elder Rockefeller gave to the world as a birthday greeting:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have had more kindness shown to me during the last year from every part of the country than ever before in my life, and it is needless to state that I am unspeakably grateful. I am in the best of health, surrounded by dear friends, and have naught but good will toward all."

Up at 7:30; Plays Golf.

The routine of the day varied little from any other day of the summer at Pocantico. Mr. Rockefeller was out of bed by 7:30 o'clock, chipper as could be. He listened for a few minutes to the news as read to him by his secretary.

After he had pruned a bit and weeded a little he went in to a quantity and variety of breakfast that he couldn't have eaten thirty years ago, and ate heartily.

The day being a gem, he played his usual nine holes of golf before lunch and then lay down and had his customary nap and relaxation of an hour.

This evening there was a birthday party.

FARMER KILLED FLEEING FROM RUM RAIDERS

London, Ky., July 8.—[Special.]—Homer Mackay, 25 years old, is dead at his home near Bearman, Knox county, as the result of a shooting by a prohibition raider.

A posse headed by Guy Tuggle, federal prohibition agent with headquarters here, and made up of Frank Helton, constable, and two deputy sheriffs from Knox county and one from Harlan county, raided the Mackay farm.

The raid resulted from a tip that moonshine liquor was being made at the place.

Mackay saw the raiders coming and attempted to flee. He was hit in the back by a rifle shot said to have been fired by Constable Helton.

Tuggie and members of the posse hurried to Barbourville, county seat of Knox county, where they were said to have summoned medical aid to be sent to the home of the wounded man. He had bled to death before the arrival of a physician.

Search of the farm disclosed neither a still nor liquor, but the officers said they found a flask half filled with moonshine in Mackay's pocket.

The father of Mackay went to the state courts, where he swore out a warrant charging murder.

Link Bridge Fuse Blows; Halts Traffic 27 Minutes

Traffic was barricaded at the Michigan avenue bridge for 27 minutes last night when a fuse blew out at 8:13 p. m. as the south gates were lowered preparatory to raising the bridge for the passage of two boats. The loss of power affected the barriers only and did not interfere with the raising and lowering of the spans. To avoid a traffic tie up police routed north bound autos over Wacker drive to the State street bridge and south bound cars back to Ohio street and over to State street. Motor coaches were forced to wait and pedestrians ducked under the barriers.

25 U. S. AGENTS IS DRY "ARMY" IN WISCONSIN

Result of Their Work Is Shown.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 8.—[Special.] This is a record of prohibition enforcement in Wisconsin at this time.

In Milwaukee, where the federal agents are most active, much padlocking has been done. A year ago the people of Wisconsin voted to repeal their state enforcement law backing up prohibition, and there are at present no forces operating except those sent in by the federal government. This is a force of about 25 men to look after the appetite for liquor on the part of a goodly proportion of the 2,500,000 population of the state.

Since May 19, in the federal court in Milwaukee, the following record has been made in prohibition cases:

Verdicts of guilty	20
Verdicts of not guilty	21
Pleas of guilty	40
Verdicts of guilty as to one defendant only	5
Pleas of guilty as to one defendant, dismissed as to others	6
Cases dismissed	48

Why Cases Lapsed.

Cases were dismissed on motion of the United States attorney, either because he considered the evidence insufficient, or because the prosecuting witnesses were not on hand.

Two of the agents who had worked up some of these cases were sent to Leavenworth in the meantime, convicted of soliciting or taking bribes.

The cases against 12 downtown drug stores illustrate the reasons behind some of the dismissals. Clerks or proprietors were indicted here on evidence obtained by an agent sent up from the Chicago office, known as "Black John," who posed as an Armenian rug peddler, and who worked on the sympathies of the drug clerks, telling them he needed whisky for his sick wife.

After juries has heard three of these cases and had voted not guilty even though the clerk in one store turned government witness, the government attorney had the remaining nine cases dismissed.

Acquittals Are Numerous.

The proportion of not guilty verdicts is more than 50 per cent as it stands, as a glance at the figures above will show. If one adds to these the large number of dismissals, the wet side of this legal ledger far out balances the dry side.

The United States clerk in Milwaukee keeps his criminal docket a secret, something that is not done in any other federal court in the United States, in the experience of this correspondent, which has ranged from New York to San Francisco.

The docket, which is supposed to be a public record, is not open to the public in Milwaukee, and therefore the above figures were those which the clerk himself selected and passed out, aided by newspaper records.

Going back to the March and April sessions of this court, and judging from newspaper records entirely, for reasons above noted, it appears that there has been a marked increase in the number of not guilty verdicts returned by juries in this court. Eleven cases of guilty verdicts were found and only 7 of not guilty. There were 75 pleas of guilty and 10 dismissals.

A Tough Proposition.

The prohibition administrator of the district, Frank Cunningham, admits that he is up against a tough proposition in Wisconsin, that the drys are in a distinct minority, and that he has to work often in a hostile atmosphere. In one town that has been notoriously wide open for years, a mob of 300 or more gathered threateningly around his agents during a recent raid, and cut the tires of their cars. This town, while it has many open saloons, is a quiet, well ordered and prosperous place. There are other communities in the state which prefer to keep saloons out and they stay out. There is, it seems, a sort of rough unwritten local option working.

The Jones 5 and 10 law does not seem to play much part in the enforcement. The Milwaukee court sentences average 4 to 6 months in jail or house of correction, plus a fine of $250.

This runs about the same, whether there is a plea of guilty or a verdict of guilty. This may explain why a large number of the defendants here take a chance with a jury. It cannot hurt them much and they may, and often do, escape. The population of the house of correction has doubled during the last few years, due in large part to prohibition violations.

Conditions in Madison.

In Madison the situation is somewhat different. The records here are open to the public, as they should be, and no questions are asked as to the purpose of their perusal.

On April 2 Madison rejected a new dry law proposal by 3,000 majority. This was an ordinance to replace locally the state dry law.

The docket here shows that the federal court is operating almost entirely as a police court, with the great majority of the cases disposed of by pleas of guilty, followed by a moderate fine and small jail sentence, or by fine alone. Much money flows into the federal till in this way. More than $16,000 was taken in in fines during the last few months. The fines range from $50 to $200 and the jail sentences run from one day to several months. There are many cases where the first pleas were not guilty and then were changed. The defendants evidently came to the conclusion they could get away easier and cheaper by taking the court sentence at once.

Due to the long illness of the presiding judge here there are ten or more cases where jury trials have been demanded that have been continued from month to month. Three hundred and seventy-five pleas of guilty were taken in this court, and in 53 of these cases fines only were imposed. Juries are playing little part in the Madison enforcement situation.

The chances of going free by jury verdict are seen in the cases of Lyall T. Wright, former sheriff of Juneau county, and Clinton G. Price, the district attorney of that county, who was later killed. Wright and Price were indicted for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws. Wright pleaded guilty and got 8 months in the house of correction. He testified in the trial of Price, who chose the jury method, that Price had advised him to get bigger stills, so they could collect more money. Price was acquitted.

NEW RULER OF ELKS CALLS FOR "KINDLIER ERA"

Says U. S. Is Losing Its Liberties.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—[Special]—In a speech in which he declared that while Americans lived in a democratic land they were losing their liberties, Lawrence H. Rupp of Allentown, Pa., newly elected grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, told the 66th annual reunion of the grand lodge, that what the world needed was not kings and dictators, but kind hearts.

Neglecting Important Things.

"In our haste to pursue the material things of life," said Mr. Rupp, "we are neglecting the things that are more important. Anomolous as it may seem, in a democratic land we are losing our liberties. We are hedged about with laws and limitations. We write our intolerances into our constitution and into our statutes. What we need is to rebuild the cleansing fires of fraternity on the hearthstone of every lodge in the order, so that the warmth of these fires may be felt throughout the land. To stress these things will be my program.

"The world doesn't need dictators. It has them. It doesn't need kings. It still has some of them. It doesn't need great capitalists and captains of industry. It has them. It needs kind hearts."

Choose New Officers.

Other officers elected by the grand lodge are: grand esteemed leading knight, Martin J. Cunningham of Danbury, Conn.; grand esteemed loyal knight, Leonard R. Ellis of Hot Springs, Ark.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, Joseph T. Farrar of Provo, Utah; grand secretary, J. Edgar Masters of Charlerol, Pa.; grand treasurer, Lloyd Maxwell of Marshalltown, Ia.; grand tyler, L. P. McCready of Miami, Fla.; grand inner guard, John F. Holliday of Washington, Ind.; former member of the board of trustees, James S. Richardson of Cincinnati, O.

Seattle, Wash., was selected today for the 67th annual reunion of the grand lodge.

Freight Rates Revised; Will Increase Earning of Roads

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—Plans for a general revision of classified freight rate schedules in the northeastern quarter of the United States and in western trunk line territory reaching from Lake Michigan to the Rock mountains and from Kansas to the Canadian border, were announced today by the interstate commerce commission.

Several months will be allowed for preparation of the new rate systems prescribed.

In the west the commission said the probable effect of the new schedules would be to increase earnings of the railroads concerned by about $12,000,000 per year, though farm products were excluded from the rate increases permitted.

Aim to Equalize Charges.

One of the prime objects of the double revision is to equalize classified freight charges over all the territory treated. The chief method of accomplishing this was the promulgation of mileage scales applying generally between all points.

In the east the general single scale fixed as reasonable a charge of 30 cents per 100 pounds on first class shipments for distances of five miles, which would raise to $1.11 for distances of 500 miles and terminate at $1.45 for distances of 800 miles. Charges of other freight classifications and for intermediate distances to those given would be related to the first class schedules.

Northern territory in Michigan, New England, northern New York, and certain branch line areas in West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky would be subject to higher rates than those fixed by the general scale.

Three Zones in the West.

In the west, the commission designated three zones, the first of which would lie east of the Missouri river and of a line drawn via Sioux Falls and the Twin cities to Duluth.

The second zone was placed west of the first with a western boundary running north from Kansas via Kearney, Neb.; Aberdeen, S. D.; to Bisbee, N. D. Zone 3 was described as including all trunk line territory west of the second zone and rates were laid down on higher bases for the western portions of the territory.

For the first zone the mileage scale began at 32 cents per 100 pounds for distances of five miles, and progressed through a charge of $1.26 for distances of 400 miles to a termination at $2.70 for 1,800. The second zone scale began at 34 cents for five miles, fixed $1.41 for 400 and culminated at $3.02 for 1,500 miles. The third zone charge began at 36 cents and reached a final point of $3.25 for the longest distances.

"Key Rates" Provided.

In both east and west a number of local exceptions to the general organization of class rates were laid down. In addition systems of "key rates" were provided between points to govern charges on interterritorial shipments.

Commissioner Porter, appointed to service from Iowa, dissented from the majority decision and refused to subscribe to the increased transportation charges permitted in eastern zones of western territory. First, fourth, and fifth class rates from Des Moines to Waterloo, Ia., he estimated, would be increased 87, 105, and 92 per cent, respectively. "Such increases are staggering," he said. "The zone one scale should be reduced on the average at least 10 per cent; while zones two and three should be assigned rates slightly higher than those provided."

Nov. 1 was fixed as the date for establishment of the western scales.

A REVEALED PATTERN OF MURDER.

Julius Rosenheim was killed Feb. 1, in the morning, a half block from his home in Dickens avenue. He was identified at the time as a character well known as an investigator in the underworld, having been employed as such by former Chief of Police Healey, former State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, Prof. Merriam's crime commission, and Frank J. Loesch, then a special assistant state's attorney. His connections at the time of his death were not made known. It was a police theory that he had threatened to make trouble for some gangsters, who killed him to be rid of him.

Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE police reporter, was killed June 9. A special investigation was put under way at once, and the reporter's probable connection with gangsters was soon revealed and made known and disclosed as a reason for the murder.

In connection with this investigation several raids were made June 30, and among the gangsters taken for questioning was Jack Zuta, a pander reputed to be in control of brothel houses on the north side. Zuta was held for questioning until the night of July 1, when he was booked for disorderly conduct and released on bail. He and three companions were afraid, for reasons which soon proved good enough, to leave the detective bureau until Lieut. George Barker said he would ride them through the loop in his car. At Quincy and State streets they were attacked by gunmen who escaped after killing a street car motorman and wounding another bystander. Zuta and his companions ran away and have not been found since.

The assumption was that Zuta was to be killed because he had been in police custody for questioning in the Lingle murder. He had escaped the killers, but an innocent man had lost his life. The night of July 4 Leland H. Reese, a police reporter for the Chicago Daily News, traveling west near De Kalb on a holiday trip with two companions, was found with them in a ditch, all injured. They were taken to a hospital in De Kalb by the driver of a truck.

The local newspaper correspondent reported that the car in which the injured men had been riding had been crowded off the road by gangsters. This was investigated and inquiries were met by evasions. Mr. Reese said there had been a little accident, but that they had not been pushed off the road.

Monday the Daily News printed a story of the occurrence written by Mr. Reese at the request of his editor. In this he said that Rosenheim had been his informant in crime investigations, that he had relied on him and trusted him. Mr. Reese said that he had been threatened a number of times after the Rosenheim murder and after the Lingle murder, and that the Daily News had provided an armed guard, commissioned as a special policeman, to attend him constantly. This man was one of the two with him at the time of the road encounter. As to it Mr. Reese said that the car which sent him into the ditch had followed him for miles and had attracted his attention by doing so. It "finally deliberately sideswiped us." The Reese car was overturned, Reese was knocked unconscious, and both his companions had broken ribs. The reporter makes it clear that in his mind the attempt was to wreck him, with the probable consequence death.

It would seem that a pattern is being revealed here. Rosenheim was a Daily News informant, working with the man assigned to crime stories. He was the first to be killed. Lingle, THE TRIBUNE police reporter, was the next to go. Then Zuta, involved in the case by the police, was to follow Lingle, and, if Mr. Reese's assumptions and statements are correct, he was to have followed Zuta.

Constructions can be put upon these cases according to the bent of the speculator, but one conclusion is fairly apparent. Three murders have been committed and others attempted in a manner which shows a common purpose. They did not stop with Rosenheim and Lingle. They have been directed at witnesses and investigators, and their pattern cannot be ignored, least of all by the newspapers.

It was a mistake in judgment that the real identity of Rosenheim and his connections were not made known to the authorities at once. If the police knew them it is not apparent that they worked upon that knowledge. It is poor judgment to regard this as a private war to be conducted outside the law. The gangsters have begun operations outside of gangland. It may be that they have dropped their guard in doing so and that they can be caught by justice. It is the best chance the community has yet had.

It has been thought that some time the killers, either because they were very frightened or because they had become too bold, would be indiscreet and would let a door open. It may be that this has come about. If so, retribution may be at hand. It can be used to corner and destroy the criminals only if every bit of evidence is supplied and worked upon without hesitation and with complete candor.

DAVID KINLEY.

With the delivery of the keys of the university to his successor, Dr. Chase, David Kinley becomes president emeritus of the great institution to which he has given the best years of his life and enters upon a well earned retirement. Dr. Kinley joined the faculty of Illinois in 1893 and became president in 1920, after serving as acting president for a year. He lays down the heavy yet inspiring burden of the office with the consciousness, we hope, of the esteem and gratitude of the people he has so loyally and ably served in the important field of higher education. Dr. Kinley has brought the university through a difficult period of growth, confronting its expanding and multiplying problems with courage and understanding. Under his administration and leadership it has steadily expanded its facilities as an institution of instruction and research and steadily gained prestige and influence. The great sums of money granted it by the legislature have been expended with the strictest sense of responsibility and good judgment. This has been the brightest spot in the government of Illinois and it is a great pity the example has not had wider influence in the state's affairs.

Dr. Kinley retires therefore with high honors, and all who regard the faithful and able administration of public trust and all friends of American education wish him many years of fruitful and satisfying leisure.

MONEY FOR THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

For lack of money, the city's contagious disease hospital has been closed. Other health department appropriations have been much reduced. Inspection of milk and other foods has been curtailed because there was not enough money to pay the staff of inspectors required for the work. The normal activities of the dental clinics in the public schools have been threatened.

The city council is expected to consider budget revisions on July 9. No activity of the city government is more important or more deserving of support than the measures taken to preserve the public health. We can think of no more fundamental duties of the city government than the guarding of the city's food supplies and the maintenance of an institution for the care of those suffering from contagious diseases. The fact that these services have been curtailed while it is a matter of common knowledge that hundreds of political pay rollers have been left to feed at the public trough is a shocking commentary on municipal government in Chicago in 1930.

The obvious method of correcting the evil is to cut the pay rollers off and use the money thus saved to maintain the essential services. The struggle over the budget in January leaves some doubt as to the willingness of the aldermen and the administration to pursue this method, but perhaps sentiment has changed. Certainly if the financial relief given by the legislature permits larger appropriations for any department the health appropriation should be the first to benefit. Finally, if both these methods fail, we believe that the doctors of Chicago, acting through one agency or another, would be justified in calling upon private individuals for contributions to support those activities which are deemed essential to the public health.

STUNT FLYING OVER CHICAGO.

A stunt flyer was forced down in Grant park on July 4 because his engine had failed while he was flying over the loop. Fortunately no one was injured. A policeman gave the flyer a ticket for breaking the law against landing in the park.

Chicago was tolerant during the army show when squadrons of army planes flew low over the city. Serious accidents might have taken place if any of the engines had gone wrong. Thanks to the skill of the flyers and the careful work of the army mechanics, nothing untoward happened, but there is reason to fear that the civilian planes are not always as carefully conditioned. The forced landing on Friday is evidence in point.

Flying over the city should be strictly regulated in the interest of safety. Certainly the first rule should be a strict prohibition of stunting and low flying.

UNCLE SAM, MENDICANT.

The war department has asked the state of Illinois for a loan of $2,000,000 to start work on the Illinois waterway. The money would come from the state's road and bridge fund and would be repaid as soon as congress has passed another war department appropriation bill.

The picture of the United States government so incompetent to manage its own financial affairs that it must cadge dimes until pay day is distressing. The temptation accordingly is to ignore the request. However, to do so would delay waterway construction and, taking all the circumstances into consideration, the state administration had better advance the money. The loan itself will constitute a rebuke to the federal government for its laxity in money matters.

Editorial of the Day

FOUR HUNDRED YEAR OLD STORY OF COLUMBUS.

[Scranton (Pa.) Republican.]

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach of New York has just brought to this country from an ancient library in Spain, where it has lain dormant for unnumbered years, a manuscript more than four hundred years old giving an account of the life and voyages of Christopher Columbus.

For a hundred years, it is stated, American collectors have searched the book markets of the world for contemporary codices of the life of Columbus, but none was ever brought to the United States until the present book appeared here. There is a belief that not more than half a dozen of such codices exist, all being in Europe but the one just brought here.

The enthusiastic remark made by Dr. Rosenbach is that this yellow volume is the greatest find of the discovery period made in a hundred years. Several statements appear in the volume which are not made in contemporary accounts of the life and adventures of the discoverer of America.

The author of this book was Andres Bernaldez, born about 1450, who in 1488 was appointed curate of the village of Los Palacios, near Seville.

Columbus was at one time the guest of the curate, leaving the latter some of his writings. It is not to be wondered that the greatest interest attaches to the book, which among other things says that Columbus was a native of Milan and a dealer in books in Andalusia.

TREATING SNAKE BITES.

WHEN a person has been bitten by a snake the first effort made should be to identify the biting reptile. In North America, north of the Rio Grande, there are only four or five poisonous snakes. Of these only one—the water moccasin—abounds and the rule is that he does not carry a fatal dose of poison. The probability is that most snake bites are inflicted by nonpoisonous snakes.

The rule is that the narrowheaded snakes are harmless. Identifying the snake is not always possible. The seventeenth annual report of the United Fruit company records' forty-six cases of snake bite, of which five were fatal. In spite of the fruit company's insistence that the snake shall be identified in twenty-seven of the forty-six cases the snake inflicting the bite could not be proved or even guessed with probability of being right.

The next observation should be to see whether the snake has a lump in the abdomen. Such a lump indicates that the snake has recently fed and, therefore, the poison glands are empty. In only seven of the forty-six cases of snake bite was there an observation on this point, and yet it has an important bearing.

Some of the snake bites in this series caused very few symptoms, even though the biting snake was poisonous and of considerable size. In spite of the fact that whisky is easily obtained in Central America, only three of these patients were given the alcohol cure. Very much the most frequently administered remedy was antivenin. Nine-tenths of the persons bitten were given injections of antivenin, either into the veins or into the muscles. This was given almost as a matter of routine, and in some cases though the bite seemed not to have been made by a poisonous snake. It seems never to have done any harm. The shortcoming of the method was the delay in injecting the patients. In one instance thirty hours elapsed between the bite and the injection, and more than once the interval was more than twelve hours and less than thirty. The company may have a few doses of antivenin with each labor unit to be injected by the foreman.

In eight cases a tourniquet was applied. However, this seems to have been improperly done in at least half the cases. The wound was cut open and made to bleed in six cases. In four permanganate was put into the wound. In five cases an effort was made to stop the oozing of blood by giving lime internally. In four cases shock and pain were combated by the use of morphine or codein. In three or four cases the patients were treated by native snake doctors or native remedies were applied to the wound.

Reading the report gives a person the impression that antivenin should be injected promptly. To make this possible the remedy should be stocked in accessible places. The instructions generally given are to excise the wounds and to squeeze out the poisons. There is no doubt but that this is good policy, but apparently few of the fruit company's employés followed it.

One also gets the impression that applying a tourniquet does little good. Either the practice should be abandoned or else it should be carried out better. Putting permanganate into wounds seems to be falling into disuse.

NOT MUCH DANGER.

A Constant Reader writes: Is there any danger of a person contracting any germs who washes the clothing of a tubercular patient? The clothing is put in cold water for an hour before washing it.

REPLY.

I don't think so, assuming the patient and his caretakers and you are reasonably careful. Consumption is not a highly contagious disease for adults.

ONLY THE DRAFTS MATTER.

V. C. writes:

1. Is it wrong to sleep with the head of the bed towards the window and have the window open?
2. Will you tell me what is good to use for large pores?

REPLY.

1. There is no objection to this plan unless you are one of those unfortunates who are uncomfortable and catch cold when you are exposed to drafts.
2. Massage your face with ice.

BROKEN CURBING.

Chicago, July 2.—[Friend of the People.]—We are the owners of a building in the 2500 block of Ainslie street. For about 6 feet the curbing is broken, which causes the ground of our parkway to be washed away. This condition has existed for three years and is getting worse. When we have to pay such high taxes, is not the city supposed to fix it, or is the property owner obliged to pay to have it fixed? W. H.

Necessary repairs to broken curb will be made when our curb and gutter repair forces are operating in the 28th ward in this vicinity. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

TOO OLD TO COLLECT.

Burlington, Ia., July 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widow barely able to get along on what my children earn. I own no home or car or other luxury. I gave my name for a donation to a college attached to my church, ten years ago. I have not been able to pay it and I have received a letter saying definite action would be taken unless I paid. 1. What could they do? 2. Could they make my children pay it? M. H.

1. Unless you have made payments or new promises, ten years lapse of time would bar the claim.

THE QUESTION.

"Conan Doyle's Family Awaits Spirit Message."—The Tribune. And thousands of years ago in the land of Uz there was asked the question: "If a man die, shall he live again?" Since then incredible things have come to pass: A man may speak into an instrument at Westminster and be heard around the world; automobiles dart over the country where before men trudged or rode wearily astride patient beasts; voices have been captured into ribbed disks; tall buildings move up to the sky; more and more intricate machinery has lifted labor from the backs of men; the speed of light has been measured to the fraction of a second and the movement of stars charted in their courses; ships zoom through the sky and sail under the seas; and man's knowledge has encompassed the world and stretched from pole to pole. But still we ask the same question that Job asked on the plains of Uz: "If a man die, shall he live again?" Still there is no answer. Still "Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud—and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word. But in the night of Death Hope sees a star and listening Love can hear the rustling of a wing."

SECRET.

The secret of my deepest heart
Is hidden even from me,
Withholding from my futile sight
Its final majesty,

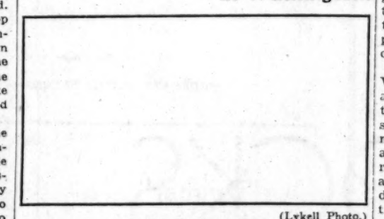
Yet even through veils of mortal mist
Too bright, too blinding fair—
A search, a dream, a beckoning,
A question and a prayer:

But I shall pass, as Sappho passed,
Nor Sappho more than I
Hold the eternal answer close
Forever under the sky.

DOROTHY R. KISSLING.

THE COMMISSIONER of labor statistics at Washington has done some statisticing and says the dollar buys more in 1930 than it did in 1929. But mebbe it's because the dollar, the cute little devil, is making himself scarcer. He won't come out in the open and pull off his green whiskers and give himself up any more unless he's pretty well tempted. He knows, the little rascal, that he doesn't grow on trees any more, and he can be choosy as the dickens. Sharp little cuss, the dollar.

A Sensational Happening in Washington.



(Lykell Photo.)

Claudius H. Huston Presenting His Resignation on Top of the Great Dome of the Capitol at Washington.—Mr. Huston yesterday presented his resignation as chairman of the Republican National Committee. It has been somewhat broadly hinted by various members of the G. O. P. that nobody would cry his heart out or die of grief if Mr. Huston were to resign his exalted office as chairman, but Mr. Huston apparently was unaware that some of the committee rather thought it would be pleasanter all around if he returned to Tennessee instead of remaining in Washington; Tennessee having high mountains where it is very cool and healthful in the summer, while in Washington the asphalt pavements boil vigorously and render walking about extremely unpleasant, and the chairman of the Republican National Committee has to do a deal of walking about these days, what with one thing and another. And Muscle Shoals is in Tennessee, too, and the other members of the National Committee thought Mr. Huston might like to live near Muscle Shoals. Our photographer snapped the picture just as Mr. Huston (on the right) waved his hat.

THE NAVAJO INDIANS at their annual powwow at Gallup, New Mexico, yesterday discussed the relative merits of irrigation dams and dancing in front of their rain god to insure moisture for the crops. They finally decided to give the rain god a kick in the pants and ask the government for more dams. Thus, as old Art Brisbane would say, does civilization triumph over barbarism.

Another Open Faced Letter to Gov. Emmerson.

Dear Gov.: We wrote you yesterday about our state auto license which we applied for about nine (it's ten now) days ago and hadn't received. We forgot that you were attending the governors' convention out in Utah. That's probably why we didn't get our license tag. Now that you're back, will you please jack up the boys in the license tag bureau and tell 'em we'd like to take our bus out and run it around the block a few times before snow flies? Hoping you had a grand time with all the other governors, we remain sincerely, truly, and if the state department hadn't said to stop it we would add, your most obedient servant, etc., etc.

P. S.—Did you hear any conversation between the governor of North Carolina and the governor of South Carolina? And if it isn't asking too much, just what was said by those two birds?

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 9, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Another application was made today for the bodies of Mrs. Mary Surratt, Lewis Paype, David Harrold and George A Atzerodt, hanged as conspirators in the assassination of President Lincoln. They remain in the graves where they were placed when cut down from the gallows, and are guarded by sentinels. The secretary of war has not yet decided whether the bodies shall be given to friends of the hanged quartet. Miss Annie Surratt, daughter of the executed woman, is completely prostrated from the shock of the execution and it is feared she will die.

WASHINGTON.—The witness Weichmann, who swore so positively against Mrs. Surratt at the time of the trial, is reported to have since stated that he did so to save his own neck, and it is said that confirmatory affidavits have been made. The Surratt house on H street was visited by a throng of curious persons during the day. So large did the crowd become that it was necessary to send police to guard the premises. The portico in front of the building has been literally hacked to pieces by souvenir hunters. The gallows also has been hacked by soldiers seeking relics. The hatred of some rebels in the city for those responsible for the hanging of the conspirators was manifested by the exhibition of mourning drapery in their windows.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington special says that the health of President Johnson is so far improved that he rode out yesterday and is contemplating a trip down the Potomac.

CHICAGO.—The 57th Regiment Illinois volunteers, a Chicago regiment, 500 strong, returned home yesterday and went to the barracks at Camp Douglas. It is under command of Lieut. Col. Frederick A. Batty.

CHICAGO.—Maj. Gen. Slocum, one of the heroes of the Georgia campaign, arrived in the city unheralded and went to the Sherman house. He commanded the left wing of Gen. Sherman's magnificent army on its marches from Atlanta to the sea. He is en route to Vicksburg by order of Gen. Grant to take command of the department there.

LONDON.—The correspondents at Shanghai say that a combined force of Russians and Japanese has left Tientsin, following the railway as far as Lang Fang, and thence swiftly to the west, attacking the Chinese eighteen miles north of Tientsin and killing 1,000 of them. Another report says that a great battle has taken place in which the Chinese lost heavily. A Tientsin dispatch of July 3 says: "Since early morning the Chinese have heavily bombarded the settlements. Admiral Seymour has ordered the women and children conveyed to Taku at the earliest possible moment." The allied powers expect to have 40,000 men in China during the coming week. Russia has consented to the landing of Japanese troops, but not without restrictions.

CAMP LINCOLN, Springfield, Ill.—The W. C. T. U. women who have been assailing the use of beer at mess in camp will have to go over the heads of Brig. Gen. Charles Fitz-Simons and Col. John B. Sanborn of the First regiment to Gov. Tanner if action is taken on their protest, for both military officers defend the practice. Col. Sanborn dismisses the women's protest as "idiotic." Gen. Fitz-Simons said: "I am in favor of beer, the army canteen, and all its adjuncts. Women who enter such protests don't know what they are talking about." Mrs. Helen M. Barker and Mrs. S. M. D. Fray threaten to go to the governor.

CHICAGO.—The case of Carl Wanderer—whose wife was shot and killed in the doorway of their home, 4732 North Campbell avenue, some weeks ago and who killed a ragged stranger, alleged to have been the wife's slayer—is a growing puzzle to the police. Detective Sergeant John Norton says it is the greatest mystery he has encountered in his career. Wanderer was locked up last night after a day of grilling. It was found that the second revolver found beside the slain stranger belonged to Wanderer.

WHAT HAPPENED ON THE RAPIDAN.

Chicago, July 8.—Hoover, in his message to the senate on the London naval treaty says: "In other words, the United States, in these categories, increases by 102,000 tons, Great Britain decreases by 140,000, and Japan decreases by 12,000 tons." That is some treaty! Great Britain has gained superiority and yet is enabled to decrease by 140,000 tons! Japan has gained parity in the region of Hawaii and yet is enabled to decrease by 12,000! The United States has gained inferiority at an expenditure of more than $1,000,000,000!

It seems that it is about time for the senate to investigate the remarks or the concessions which Hoover made to MacDonald while sitting on that log on the Rapidan and which called forth the exclamation from MacDonald: "O, you dear old Quaker!"

Wonder if Deneen and Glenn are counting on being elected to the senate again. Of course, Deneen is not in the race now, but a negative vote on the naval treaty might atone to some extent for his vote on the world court and he might be senator again six years from now. If he should vote for the London treaty he might as well bid good-by to politics in Illinois, for there is no doubt that the voters of Illinois would overwhelmingly vote against that treaty, if submitted to them. And they will not forget, because the more that treaty is understood the greater will be the public indignation that any senator should have so seriously betrayed the security of our country as to vote for a traitorous treaty.

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

FATHER MARQUETTE'S GRAVE.

Chicago, June 30.—Like many other visitors to Father Marquette's supposed original grave, Mr. George W. Smith, whose letter appeared in today's TRIBUNE, has been misinformed, due to the misplacement of the D. A. R. marker in question, which is located at the northern edge of what was known during the old lumbering days as Buttersville. The exact spot where Father Marquette died and where he was first buried is about a mile north of this marker, which, I surmised at the time I visited that spot recently, was placed there on account of the impossibility of tourists reaching the exact location with their cars and which would, instead, necessitate trudging on foot through deep sand in order to reach it. No doubt Mr. Hal Foust was correct to some extent in his fleeting mention of the exact location, which is a knoll—a lone sand dune—that stands out individually from the surrounding low, sandy so-called peninsula. It has always remained quite wooded and luxuriant, despite the sandy soil, and is in the locality once known as Taylors [ville], another bygone lumbering village.

Until a couple of years ago there was a very old woman residing on a farm a short distance south of Buttersville who claimed to be the only person who knew where the exact spot was, the knowledge having been given her by kinsfolk who were among the first settlers in that region and who received their information from the aborigines, who regarded the spot with veneration, from the teachings received by their forbears from those who came to remove the bones to St. Ignace. This old woman, I understood a year or so ago, was so feeble that she could not conveniently be conveyed to the near vicinity of the grave to point out the exact spot, which she often visited at Taylorsville when she was a girl. She may still be living.

One historian, whose book was published during the early life of Ludington, in describing the death and burial of Marquette, no doubt received correct information, because he mentions: ". . . under a large tree, on high ground, beside a small stream." That "small stream" was the original outlet of Pere Marquette lake into Lake Michigan, and was "moved" about three-quarters of a mile north to the present artificial channel which now connects the harbor with Lake Michigan, while the bed of the original stream was filled with sand to divert the flow to the new channel. The work was done about a generation or two ago. The old stream flowed by this bluff, or knoll, at Taylors—not at Buttersville.

My boyhood days were spent in beachcombing for firewood, fishing and swimming around all of these places and visiting with the old-timers and listening to their stories, all of which seemed to jibe.

It is to be hoped that Marquette university of Milwaukee, which, I understand, is desirous of erecting a monument to Father Marquette near Ludington, will sacrifice no time nor energy in seeking out the exact spot where the original grave was located, so that future controversies and disillusionments will not arise, like now, due to a misplaced marker.

THE FIRST OYSTERS.

Winnetka, Ill., July 3.—Permit me to take issue with Mr. George Rector in his statement in your columns of July 2, in which he asserted: "No Chicagoan had ever seen an oyster reposing in state on its own mother of pearl throne. So we arranged for the first barrel of oysters ever to be shipped west in their own shells."

I recall vividly standing by my father's knee watching him opening oyster shells in Pekin, Ill., in 1853, which was thirty years prior to Mr. Charles E. Rector's opening the restaurant in Chicago, "along about 1883," he avers.

My father, John Albert Jones, with his mother left their natal town, Georgetown, D. C., in 1835 to make their future home in Illinois. They anticipated locating in Chicago, but were advised it was too near the lake and malarious.

My father's old friend, Commodore Morris, used to ship sea food in barrels to my father, occasionally labeled, "Some of your old acquaintances." These included shad and Potomac herring. They were sent in appreciation of my father's entering for him many thousand acres of Illinois land at $1.25 per acre, as my father always declined remuneration from his friend, the commodore.

RELIEF FOR VETS OF ALL WARS PUT UNDER ONE CHIEF

Hoover Signs Order to Co-ordinate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Coördination of activities for the relief of veterans of all wars was brought about today with the issuance of an executive order by President Hoover. The order provides for the grouping of the veterans bureau, which has been an independent agency handling only matters connected with veterans of the world war, the pension bureau, which has been under the interior department and has handled pensions for veterans of the civil, spanish and earlier wars, and the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers which has been under the war department under a new veterans administration. The action was made possible under the law approved by congress in the closing days of the recent session under the recommendation of the President.

Hines Heads Combination.

The President designated Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, for several years director of the veterans bureau, as veterans administrator in charge of the new organization at a salary of $12,000. The three agencies which are co-ordinated will retain their separate identities within the veterans adminstration and a new director will be appointed for the veterans bureau. Present officials of the pension bureau and of the soldiers home will retain their positions.

President Hoover announced that a combined budget which will be prepared for the new veterans administration will provide for annual expenditure of nearly 800 million dollars. The veterans bureau appropriations amount to 511 million dollars for the current year and, with $31,000,000 additional as a result of the new veterans pension legislation, will total about 542 millions. The appropriations for the pension bureau amounted to 225 million dollars for the present year, including about $20,000,000 for the administration of a civil service retirement system. Appropriations for soldiers homes amounted to about $11,000,000. The total expenditures of the veterans administration for the fiscal year which commenced last week thus will be nearly 790 million dollars.

Expects Economy as Result.

It is President Hoover's belief that economies will be effected by coördinating all activities relating to veterans of various wars. It will also be the purpose to develop a uniform system of dealing with the different groups of veterans.

President Hoover in a statement described the action as "one of the most important steps taken in reorganization of the federal government."

GERMANS ATTACK FRENCH VISITORS IN RHINELAND

Paris Protests Insult to Athletes.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 8. — The Ullstein News agency tonight reported that a group of Frenchmen who took part in the Franco-German swimming meet at Beitz, near Leipzig, Sunday, were attacked by a number of German Fascisti when they were returning from a banquet in their honor.

One of the Fascisti was slightly knifed, supposedly by one of the Frenchmen, according to the report. The Frenchman is reported to have been sentenced to four months in prison.

A vigorous protest is said to have been lodged by the French consul.

Reply to Briand Proposal.

The foreign affairs committee of the reichstag, in secret meeting, today approved the reply prepared by the German government to French Foreign Minister Briand's plan for a "United States of Europe." The reply is to be sent this week.

"In view of the pressing economic difficulties confronting Europe, Germany suggests in her reply that the discussion of the political points of M. Briand's plan be postponed, but that the powers immediately come to a practical economic agreement centering on a partial or full abolition of customs barriers which divide European countries and cripple their industries," the note says, according to a reliable source at the Wilhelmstrasse.

Hope for Special Parley.

Berlin hopes that a special conference on the formation of a European customs union, as a forerunner to a United States of Europe, will be held at Geneva immediately following the meeting of the league of nations council.

Through a special representative, who conferred with M. Briand last week, the French foreign minister was fully informed on the German attitude, and in the course of the pourparlers he is said to have declared that he understood the German viewpoint and would be willing to discuss the formation of a customs union and postpone the political part of his program.

Tonight French and German diplomats and business men are talking of forming the nucleus of a United States of Europe in a customs union between Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxemburg, feeling convinced that the other nations will join.

Horrors of Bolivia Revolt Bared; 500 Dead Counted

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, July 8.—According to dispatches which are beginning to trickle more freely over the cables from La Paz, 500 were killed and thousands wounded during the revolt in the Bolivian capital June 27, when the provisional government fell. Through the thick hedge of censorship, which has been shadowing political and revolutionary activities in Bolivia for the last eight years, the true story of the revolution, in which women and children were mowed down in the streets by government machine guns, is now being constructed.

"No prisoners required!" was the order alleged to have been made by Gen. Hans Kundt, a German officer retained by the Siles government to Prussianize the Bolivian army, when the revolt spread to La Paz. He was supported by President Hernando Siles, who resigned six weeks ago, but retained his power over the army.

Students fought prominently in the battle against the government. Armed by revolting soldiers, they massed against loyal troops. As the boys fell their bodies were retrieved by their companions, who wrapped them in national banners and carried them through the streets. Airplanes piloted by insurgents, dropped wreaths from the skies, to which were fastened messages of encouragement.

Trains Battery on Youths.

A score of students held the military college from daylight to dusk. Gen. Kundt, repeating the order "No prisoners," said he was only interested in their corpses and ordered a police battery turned against them.

During the night the streets of the capital were deserted, with only sniping breaking the silence. Police with machine guns and loyal members of the garrison with artillery stationed in the hills above the city, dominated the situation. Every person who ventured from home was shot down without quarter.

Early in the morning Gen. Carlos Blanco Galindo, after successfully leading the revolt in Oruro, came to the relief of the students and townspeople in the capital. He gave Siles two hours notice to quit at the cost of bombardment. Capitulation was immediate. The resigned president and Gen. Kundt, with members of the discredited government, were hiding in various foreign legations an hour before the population was aware of the triumph of their cause.

Sack Siles' Residence.

With the news of the victory pandemonium broke loose. Insurgents swarmed the streets singing songs and waving national banners. But when the toll of revoluntionary dead was taken, rejoicing turned to bitterness. The former president's house was sacked and numerous demonstrations took place before the German legation where Gen. Kundt had sought refuge.

A military junta was formed immediately with the victorious Gen. Galindo at the head. After consultation with leading citizens and students, Col. Jose Landa, Col. Oscar Mariaha Pando, Col. Filiberto Osorio, Lieut. Col. Emilio Gonzales Quint and Bernardino Bilbao were appointed to assist the victorious general. The revoluntionary government, on assuming office said it was in power in answer to the people's request. Constitutional procedure, swept aside by Dr. Siles and Gen. Kundt, was promised, together with general elections.

As soon as reports assured the new government that the country was again tranquil, a decree granting amnesty to political prisoners of all parties was issued.

The revolution came as direct retaliation against the action of former President Siles in banishing political opponents, who protested against his "insufficient efforts" to stabilize Bolivia during the year long economic crisis. Last month when a revolution threatened, Dr. Siles quickly resigned. But, in the act of renunciation, it is alleged, he made a secret pact with Gen. Kundt to manipulate the elections to insure his return to power.

Gen. Kundt, who is still a refugee in the German legation, remains calm despite the demands that he be tried.

PLEASURE BOAT SINKS IN LAKE; FOUR DROWNED

Green Bay, Wis., July 8.—(AP)—Four lives were lost tonight when a motorboat carrying twelve children and adults, celebrating a birthday party, foundered and sank off Point Comfort, eighteen miles north of here in Lake Michigan.

The dead: Ray Raymaker, 38; Juliana Zellner, 12; Alice Worder, 10; Edwin Haase, 9.

All the passengers in the boat were from Green Bay.

The children had attended a birthday party today for Arvilla Arends, 10, at a cottage owned by her uncle, Police Captain George Arends. About 9 p. m. Arvilla's father, Otto, accompanied by George Arends and Raymaker, took the party for a ride.

Betty Slatley, 10, the only child in the group who could swim, held up her playmate, Rosemary Freix, 10, until help arrived. Squads from the resort section and from Green Bay recovered the bodies.

CITY STATE BANK DEPOSITORS GET 20% DIVIDEND

Circuit Judge Brothers yesterday ruled a 20 per cent dividend may be paid immediately to the 14,000 depositors of the defunct City State bank of Chicago, which was located at 730 North Wells street, and which was closed last November on orders of State Auditor Oscar Nelson. Deposits at the time of the closing were listed at $3,655,265 and the dividend will be about $731,053.

Gen. Abel Davis, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who was appointed receiver for the bank, submitted his review of the bank's affairs. The staff of the state auditor has been busy for months, Gen. Davis said.

Checks to the depositors will be in the mail in about two weeks, Gen. Davis announced. He added that it is "entirely uncertain when another dividend may be paid. I don't want to discourage the depositors, for I believe it possible to declare another dividend in time. But the affairs of that bank were in very bad shape."

The bank held a $500,000 equity in its own building, but the building was heavily mortgaged, about wiping out this asset, he said. In addition, he pointed out the bank had invested heavily in stock of the Coöperative Society of America, an organization which has for some time experienced considerable financial difficulties.

Given $100 Merit Award for Seizing Auto Thief

Patrolman Phil Roscher of the Evanston police department yesterday won the James A. Patten monthly award of $100 for the most meritorious service on the Evanston force in June. On June 14 Roscher captured an armed youth, William Phillips, 18 years old, 907 Harrison street, as he was about to steal an automobile.

6 KILLED AND 100 HURT IN POLITICAL RIOT IN EGYPT

Troops and Police Fight Ex-Premier's Followers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 8.—Six persons were killed and 100 wounded in a riot at Mansura this afternoon between troops and police on one side and followers of former Premier Nahas Pasha, Nationalist leader, on the other. The visit of the former premier and the Wafd's executive committee precipitated the bloodshed. After ten hours, the fighting is still continuing.

Forbidden by the government to enter the city, 60 miles north of Cairo, Nahas Pasha defied the order, as well as 1,500 specially picked troops and police, who had massed in the town to curb disorders.

Bayonets Stop Parade.

Armed forces jammed the streets when the former premier, in an open automobile, attempted to drive from the railway station to a residence, where a luncheon was scheduled in his honor. Enthusiastic Wafdists broke the police cordon and jumped on the car.

The automobile sped up only to be stopped by a line of Egyptian troops with fixed bayonets. Spectators hooted and hurled stones, bricks, and sand filled bottles at the steel helmeted soldiers. In the hand-to-hand fighting several, hanging to Nahas Pasha's car, were wounded by bayonets.

Troops on foot opened fire and then charged the enraged Wafdists, who yielded ground. Mounted police, wielding lances, then rode the rioters down. In a temporary lull, it was learned that three soldiers and three rioters had been killed. The armed forces suffered the most wounded.

Try to Lynch Policemen.

The crowd tried to lynch one policeman by tying his neck with a wire and suspending him from a second story window. The wire broke and the officer escaped practically unhurt. It was charged tonight that the riot was a pre-conceived plot of the Nationalists, who had prepared for the attack by filling bottles with sand hours before the Wafd leader's arrival.

Cairo tonight is tense, awaiting Nahas Pasha's return. Observers declare a strong revolt movement is in progress.

HANGS HIMSELF IN GARAGE.

Greenville, Ill., July 8.—(AP)—Frank M. McHugh, 69, of near here, hanged himself in the garage of his home yesterday.

Gov. Young Denies Mooney's Pardon Plea; His 3d Failure

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—(AP)—Thomas J. Mooney, militant labor leader serving a life sentence with Warren K. Billings for the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, today was denied a pardon by Gov. C. C. Young.

The governor's action ended another chapter in Mooney's thirteen year battle for freedom. Similar defeats were suffered before when two of Gov. Young's predecessors refused to pardon Mooney.

Gov. Young followed recommendations of the state Supreme court, which last week refused to recommend a pardon for Billings, and of the advisory pardon board, which last night took similar action on Mooney's plea.

"Until some further light is shed upon the case, which I do not now possess," the governor said, "I manifestly must accept the conclusions of the Supreme court and the advisory pardon board."

The governor said he considered the cases parallel and both men either were innocent or guilty of the outrage that caused ten deaths and injured forty persons.

Hint of New Hearing.

Some hope was offered Mooney by Gov. Young in the suggestion the Supreme court grant a hearing if proof were offered that perjured testimony was responsible for the convictions.

"I would respectfully suggest to the members of the Supreme court," the governor said, "should John McDonald, or any other material witness who had repudiated his former testimony, appear before them for the purpose of proving such repudiations as trustworthy, and that their former testimony was perjured, it may be only just and right to consider the propriety of giving hearing to such witnesses in the case of Billings, just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney.

"Until the truth of the repudiating affidavits can be definitely established, no one can question the decision of the Supreme court or the reasoning of the advisory pardon board, for there are certainly some portions of McDonald's affidavits which appear patently untrustworthy."

Discuss McDonald Testimony.

McDonald, a witness of the explosion, testified at both Billings' and Mooney's trials. He later moved to Maryland.

The governor referred to an affidavit of McDonald, made in 1921.

If Mooney is innocent it would be a "blot upon the good name of the state" to keep him in prison, the governor said. "On the other hand," he added, "if he was not innocent, he was guilty of one of the most uncalled for and atrocious crimes ever committed—the wanton murder of unsuspecting men, women, and children gathered upon a public street to witness a patriotic demonstration of San Francisco citizens."

TAXPAYERS RUSH TO AVOID JULY 10 PENALTY DATE

Taxpayers in Cook county have two days left in which to pay their 1928 taxes. When the county treasurer's office closes tomorrow afternoon, all delinquent taxpayers will be assessed 1 per cent of their tax bills per month. County Treasurer Harding last night reported his office has been swamped with payers the last two days and said he expects the last minute rush will become even greater today and tomorrow.

Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals for the board of assessors, yesterday began mailing out 8,000 letters to taxpayers warning them that they will be subject to a penalty of 10 per cent on back taxes unless they apply for corrections on their 1928 assessments, which, through errors, did not include improvements. This procedure was adopted after the county's tax attorneys decided they could not correct the errors this year, but that they could impose penalties for back taxes from the delinquency date, July 10.

SENTENCED FOR GUN TOTING.

Michael Duvl, 37 years old, a casual, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Edgar A. Jonas in the Des Plaines street court for carrying a gun. Duvl protested in vain that in the Argentine, his native country, every law abiding citizen is allowed to carry a pistol.

Sensible Way to Lose Fat

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

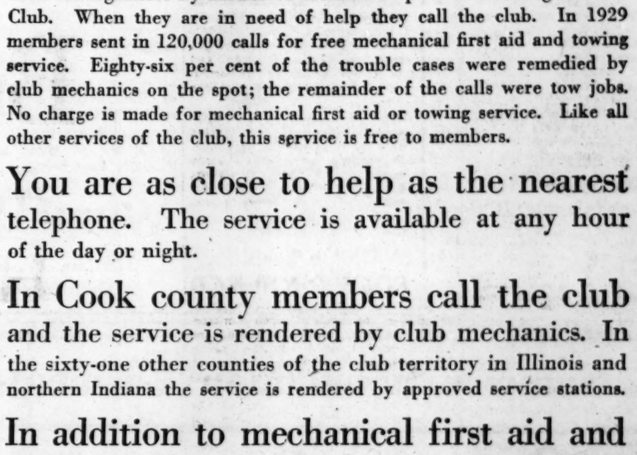
This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed—you get the needful exercise.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Be careful of the foods you eat—then watch the pounds slide off!

Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—they're tasteless that way, and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.

It's the Little Daily Dose that does it. E. GRIFFITH HUGHES, Rochester, N.Y.



Five hundred and seventy-five official mechanical service stations render free mechanical first aid and towing service to members of the Chicago Motor Club, outside of Cook County; in Cook County the Club operates its own equipment.

A Break-down 100 Miles From Home

Car trouble may find you far from a garage; it may come as you start out in the morning, or it may come late at night when you are a hundred miles from home.

One hundred thousand motorists have protected themselves and their families in just such emergencies by means of membership in the Chicago Motor Club. When they are in need of help they call the club. In 1929 members sent in 120,000 calls for free mechanical first aid and towing service. Eighty-six per cent of the trouble cases were remedied by club mechanics on the spot; the remainder of the calls were tow jobs. No charge is made for mechanical first aid or towing service. Like all other services of the club, this service is free to members.

You are as close to help as the nearest telephone. The service is available at any hour of the day or night.

In Cook county members call the club and the service is rendered by club mechanics. In the sixty-one other counties of the club territory in Illinois and northern Indiana the service is rendered by approved service stations.

In addition to mechanical first aid and towing service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and schoolboy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,894,706.04.

JARECKI TO HEAR CHARGE AGAINST MAGUIRE TODAY

Case Lists 211 More as Unfit Polls Officials.

A hearing on charges that Fred V. Maguire, chairman of the board of election commissioners, has employed persons with police records as election judges and clerks will be opened today before County Judge Jarecki. The election commissioners are appointed by the county judge. Maguire's removal from office is asked in a petition filed a month ago by Charles Center Case, former attorney for the election board.

Mrs. Case, now an assistant state's attorney, filed a supplemental bill to the original petition yesterday in which he named 211 more men and women alleged to have police records who have served the board. In the first petition he gave the names of 274 clerks and judges who he charged were "notorious characters."

Maguire Defends Record.

The original petition declared that election frauds are one of the principal sources of gangsters' power and asserts that numerous frauds have been perpetrated with the connivance of judges and clerks in the so-called "deliverable wards."

Mr. Maguire denied these charges and said he welcomed the opportunity of answering all complaints "even though they may be inspired by malice and selfish interest."

The second petition alleges that Maguire appointed judges and clerks to serve in last April's primary even after written charges against the workers had been presented to the board. It also states that men and women who have served creditably in previous elections were ignored when appointments were made last spring. This is in direct violation of the rules laid down by Judge Jarecki, the petition states.

Makes Second Denial.

Chairman Maguire last night repeated his denial of the charges. He declared he has always insisted upon a thorough investigation of every complaint affecting an election official, but said it is inevitable that a few undesirable persons may be selected. During elections the board employs some 15,000 workers.

Case resigned as attorney for the board several months ago following a dispute with Maguire. As a special assistant state's attorney he has been investigating election frauds.

Mexican Farmers Battle Over Land Grants; 10 Dead

MAJ. KINGSFORD SMITH GIVES PLANE BACK TO OCEAN FLIGHT BACKER

Santa Maria, Cal., July 8.—[Special.]—Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith presented his world-spanning plane, Southern Cross, to Allan Hancock here today.

The historic monoplane, only craft to conquer both Pacific and Atlantic, was originally the property of Hancock, wealthy aviation enthusiast. Hancock lent it for Kingsford-Smith's flight to Australia in 1928, and then gave it the flyer when that venture succeeded. In giving it back to Hancock, Kingsford-Smith today returned the latter's act in informal ceremonies witnessed by 3,000.

Hancock was first to clasp the hands of the Australian adventurer and his co-trans-Atlantic flyers, Patrick Saul and John Stannage, at noon, when they winged the big bird to its last landing at the end of a flight from San Francisco. Hancock will retire the plans to the museum of the aeronautical college he has established here.

13,000 TEACHERS WATCH HUNT FOR PAY ROLL MONEY

Thirteen thousand school teachers and forty thousand persons dependent on teachers' checks yesterday were awaiting developments while members of the board of education were trying to market $13,000,000 in 1930 tax anticipation warrants to supply money for the $6,100,000 pay roll, now more than two weeks overdue.

After conferences with board of education members, city officials and bankers, President Caldwell of the school board reported "progress is being made but I cannot set a definite date when the pay roll will be met. We will meet again tomorrow and attempt to market the warrants in Chicago."

RECOUNT SHAKES MANY VOTES OUT OF 'LEAKY TRUNK'

Moreland Lead Mounts to 394 in Tally.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

When the canvassers knocked off work last night James C. Moreland had increased his lead over Congressman M. A. Michaelson to 394 votes in the recount of the April vote for the Republican nomination for congress in the 7th, or "leaky trunk," district.

The tally on 114 precincts so far counted gave Michaelson a net loss of 367 and Moreland a net gain of 83, or a total advantage of 450 for Moreland. The original election returns showed Michaelson winning by 56 votes, now wiped out.

In the 5th precinct of the 37th ward the recount gave Moreland a net gain of 162 votes. Michaelson lost 137 and Moreland picked up 25. The canvass showed that part of the ballots chalked up for Michaelson had not been marked on congressman, the recount showing 76 ballots blank on this place.

As the result of the discrepancies and indications of fraud, the election board is compiling a list of judges and clerks in the precincts showing the most errors, as it is regarded probable they will be summoned into court when the report of the recount is submitted to the court.

In the 22d precinct of the 36th ward the recount gave Moreland a net gain of 95 votes. Michaelson's vote on the original tally sheets was 123, and on the recount it fell to 47, while Moreland's original figure of 10 rose to 29. In the 37th ward Moreland netted a gain of 40 in the 42d precinct and 37 in the 61st precinct.

Dustemall, a daughter of Chicle-Miss Whisk and closely related to Whichone, came out of the east yesterday in the Eton blue and brown silks of Harry Payne Whitney and showed her flying heels to Lady Broadcast, the west's best racing filly, in the Smart Set purse.

Dustemall, beaten in the muddy Arlington Oaks last Saturday, trimmed Lady Broadcast by five lengths and Jockey Eddie Steffen had her cantering at the end. She came from behind to score her triumph, as Lady Broadcast, usually a slow beginner, had surprised her admirers when she went to the front at the rise of the barrier and opened up a lead of three lengths.

Comes Up on Outside.

But Lady Broadcast was able to stay in front for only the first half mile of the mile journey. Then Steffen sent Dustemall around on the outside. She galloped on past Lady Broadcast as if the latter were standing still. Such a challenge shocked Lady Broadcast and she got out of stride for just an instant.

Dustemall went on to score as she pleased and Lady Broadcast had enough left to beat the others in the field of six. Miss Bess got up in the final strides and took third money from Taddywawa. Sweet Verbena was next, while Zida was left at the post and finished a couple of minutes after the official numbers were hung out.

Dustemall skimmed over the mile course in 1:36 4-5, a fifth of a second off the track record hung up last week by Breezing Thru. She carried 107 pounds and in the betting was a little better than even money, the easterners in the big crowd at Arlington backing her confidently.

Insco Wins for West.

While the easterners were celebrating after the day's feature piece had been decided, the west took considerable pride in the fact that Insco, owned by Griffin Watkins, an Illinois turfman, took into camp a band of the best 2 year olds of both east and west in the Deerfield purse.

Insco won by a nose in a sensational finish with Charmer from Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas stable. He galloped the five and a half furlongs in 1:05 2-5, held jointly by Dedicate and Voshell.

Jockey Steve O'Donnell set Insco down in the run for home from the head of the stretch and gradually overcame a lead of a length to go on and win by an inch or so. Mad Career, an eastern filly owned by Walter J. Salmon, was third. There had been a plunge on Whitney's Rideaway, but Workman couldn't get the son of Wildair into good speed, and he never threatened the three leaders.

The westerners backed Insco heavily and he paid $4.68 in the mutuels. He is a son of Sir Gallahad III., the sire of Gallant Fox. His mother is Starflight, the dam of Broadway Limited, which sold as a yearling for some $65,000.

Irish Jig Wins Chase.

The Bridle Spur steeplechase at about two miles developed into another thrilling jumping event in which the favorite, Brown Stout, was beaten only after he made a faulty landing at the thirteenth jump. Brown Stout, ridden by A. Harraway, went to his knees and while he was down Irish Jig, which had been crowding him all the way, raced to the lead and won by five lengths.

Brown Stout recovered in time to be second while Astronomy, a stable mate of Brown Stout in the Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark outfit, was third. Irish Jig was ridden by M. Sims. He took his jumps gracefully and ran gamely all the way. In the mutuels he paid better than 3 to 1.

Gallant Fox 1-2 Choice to Win Classic

EARL SANDE.

The Classic, carrying $70,000 in added money and the richest of this year's 3 year old stake events, to be run at Arlington Saturday, will attract a field of about ten. This was announced following the training drills yesterday.

Gallant Fox, who has an unbroken string of five victories to his credit this season, looms as the 1 to 2 favorite. He engaged in a brilliant rehearsal over the Arlington course yesterday morning, when, with Earl Sande in the saddle, he romped a mile and a furlong in 1:50 1-5. He eased up at the end with plenty in reserve.

Gallant Fox had his Classic weight of 126 pounds up in his drill. He broke at the clubhouse turn and was away a bit slowly as he worked the first quarter in :24. He put more speed in the next two furlongs and was at the half in :47 2-5. He stepped on to the six furlong mark in 1:12 3-5 and was at the mile post in 1:37 1-5. Then Sande took him in hand and he was just galloping to finish the mile and an eighth in 1:50 1-5. Some of the clockers caught him in a trifle better time.

The Fox gave every indication that he is better right now than at any time this season and Sande was smiling as he jumped out of the saddle.

The other probable Classic starters were Gallant Knight, Caruso, Black Majesty, Breezing Thru, High Foot, Plucky Play, Dark Sea, Ned O, Snowflake, Spinach, Crucification, Xenofol and Galaday. Gallant Knight, which will carry 126 pounds, journeyed the mile and a quarter of the Classic route in 2:06 3-5. He also finished very fresh and there is no doubt he is a fit horse.

Maj. L. A. Beard, manager of the breeding enterprises of Harry Payne Whitney and Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, who will serve as honorary steward at Arlington for the next ten days wired Charles A. McCulloch, chairman of the board of directors yesterday, "Leaving New York Thursday night. We are all delighted to hear such glowing reports of Arlington's season."

The visit of Admiral Byrd to Arlington Friday will be celebrated by the running of a strictly Byrd program. There will be a Blue Ridge steeple chase of about two miles, a Hampton Roads claiming race of seven furlongs, a Commander Byrd handicap of a mile and a quarter, a City of Newark condition race of 5½ furlongs, an Eleanor Bolling race of a mile for 3 year olds, a Virginia claiming race of one mile and a furlong and an Old Point Comfort claiming race at a mile. There will be about 20 in Admiral Byrd's party and O. W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Jockey Club, has made special provision for their entertainment.

Victorian, winner of Agua Caliente's $100,000 handicap, appears to be getting ready for something. He breezed a half is :47 flat yesterday morning. His first engagement of importance here is in the Arlington cup, a $30,000 weight for age race on July 19. In this he probably will meet Blue Larkspur, Gallant Fox, Sun Beau, Petee Wrack and many other famous performers.

Jockey Eddie Legere has resigned as first string rider for the E. R. Bradley stable. The break came when Col. Bradley ordered Jockey Jimmy Smith up on Blue Larkspur in the Stars and Stripes handicap.

GODFREY STOPS SIMMS IN SECOND ROUND OF BOUT

Cleveland, O., July 8.—(AP)—George Godfrey, giant Negro heavyweight of Lieperville, Pa., won a technical knockout in the second round of a scheduled 12 round bout with Frank Simms of Cleveland tonight.

Godfrey knocked Simms down twice in the first round and once in the second, when Simms' seconds threw in the towel.

COX, CIUCI SET NEW RECORD IN DRILL FOR OPEN

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—(AP)—Golf which Interlachen had never seen before was pulled out of its narrow fairways and lively greens today when two 69's were shot in practice rounds preliminary to the national open which begins Thursday.

Two players who previously have been held to 75's and more, walked off the 18th green this afternoon with the new course record, first Henry Ciuci, a young pro from Stratford, Conn., and soon after Whiffy Cox, Brooklyn, a product of the public links.

Shoot Three Under Par.

They bested by a single stroke the record set Monday by Bobby Jones, defending champion, and Leo Diegel, ranking professional. Par is 72, 36 strokes for each nine, but Ciuci shot the first half in 34, two under par, and coming home had 35, one under par. His card showed only four birdies. He shot par on every other hole excepting one.

Cox opened with a pair of spectacular birdies after par on the first, with another birdie on the sixth for a 33 on the outgoing nine. That score for the distance has been beaten once, by Walter Hagen, twice champion, who turned in a sizzling 32 late Monday, but whose pace broke on the home nine to return him par for the round. Cox, in common with Hagen and most of the others, ran into difficulties on the second nine, but turned in par 36, to earn his 69 for the round.

Gibson Dunlap Has 70.

Gibson Dunlap, Los Angeles, indicated that the old timers will have to consider him in the championship play, when he turned in a 70, two under par, after two hours of play under a broiling sun. He was one under par on each nine.

Clear skies and an intense sun for a week has had its effect on the course. Gene Sarazen, former champion, banged out a 38 on the first nine today, and hurried back to the clubhouse to get away from the sun, reporting that the course is at least four strokes easier this week than last.

Jones, still the top-heavy favorite to win the 72 hole medal play, was content to let the heat have its way and merely loafed around. He teamed up with a foursome which included Jimmy Johnston of St. Paul, national amateur king, and spent most of the round experimenting. His game appeared slightly off.

BALL TEAMS IN WRECKS.

RECENTLY a Helper inquired the circumstances of a train wreck in which so many members of a baseball team were incapacitated that other teams in the league had to help out for the remainder of the season. We recalled no such incident, so referred the query to Henry P. Edwards of the American league, whose baseball lore dates back just about as far as any one's. His reply follows:

"Have been a baseball writer since 1890, and no major league club suffered such a catastrophe during that time. Baseball histories contain no such accident before that. Considering what a tremendous amount of traveling baseball teams do, it is remarkable they are so free from rail accidents. Traveling men have told me they prefer riding on trains used by major league teams, feeling it is insurance they will reach their destination without accident.

"In my time I recall two accidents. In 1903 Cleveland and St. Louis teams made a jump to the latter city and the train ran off the track near Napoleon, O. The cars in which the players were sleeping turned over and several received minor injuries, one a cracked rib. Pitcher Willie Sudhoff of the Browns had such a shock to his nervous system he never was as effective thereafter and soon passed out of the picture.

"Some fifteen or more years ago the St. Louis Cardinals, going from New York to Boston, were in a serious train wreck. Several passengers were killed and the players who escaped with minor injuries turned in and rescued many passengers from the wreckage.

"I also recall that Dayton, O., was mixed up in a bad accident when traveling by bus or trolley and had a few players either killed or incapacitated from further playing. No major league club ever had such a disaster.

"Back in 1902, when John McGraw jumped the Baltimore Americans and took seven of his players to the New York Giants, other American league teams gave Baltimore enough players to finish the season. In 1916 Chicago, Washington, and St. Louis of the American league helped Cleveland, weakened through financial difficulties of its former owner."

The "Three" Ticket.

Did you ever get down to the sixth one
With two dollars left in your jeans?
And you squirm and you twist and you worry
'Bout dinner, and if you'll have beans?

Now, the sixth consists mostly of guesswork;
Just a flip of the coin will decide;
A nose bet on Neal or on Shroppie,
Or a safe bet on Mally Jane's hide.

Then you think just for once you'll play numbers,
The "three" has been winning all day.
"Whatthell, if I lose it's just Fortune,
If I win, for the day I've my pay."

Then "They're off!" is the cry from the grand stand,
Your eyes fixed on Heigle in green.
"He's up, he's on top, he's the winner!"

RIAL ROLFE'S 145 TOPS QUALIFIERS IN DISTRICT GOLF

Leading Scores

LEADING scores among the 32 qualifiers in the Chicago district amateur golf tournament at the Calumet Country club yesterday follow:

Rial Rolfe, Ridgemoor	145
Fred Lyons, Pontiac, Ill.	146
Charles Becka, Calumet	147
Lew Levinson, Bryn Mawr	148
John E. Lehman, Olympia Fields	150
Robert Crowe University of Illinois	151
Russell Martin, Flossmoor	151
Al Huskie, Briergate	152
Frank Justin, Edgewood Valley	152
Jack Westland, Sunset Ridge	152

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Rial Rolfe of Ridgemoor led a field of 130 golfers through the qualifying round of the Chicago district amateur yesterday at the Calumet Country club. His score of 75—70—145 was one stroke under that of Fred Lyons, western junior champion, and two under that of Charles Becka of Calumet.

At the end of yesterday's play, 32 had earned the right to carry on in quest of the title. They will play the first two rounds today, two more tomorrow and on Friday the championship will be decided in a 36 hole final. The highest score to qualify was 158.

Rain Handicaps Players.

Francis Blossom, the defending champion, barely got into the select 32 with a pair of 79s. The players were handicapped by several severe rain squalls which broke over the course in the morning and again in the afternoon.

The most remarkable performance of the day was that of Charles Becka. The lad was far behind the leaders at the end of the morning round, in which he shot a 78, but on the second trip around he hit his stride and swept into third place with a sensational 69, the lowest 18 hole score of the day. The only others to break par were Rolfe with his afternoon 70 and Lyons with his 71.

Jack Westland, another dangerous contender, qualified with 77—75—152. Frederick McLaughlin of Onwentsia, who shot a brilliant 73 in the morning, faltered in the afternoon and came in with an 84, but managed to remain within the lucky 32.

To get his 69, Charles Becka was forced to make six birdies, as he was

Mary Lou Quinn of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, who holds the Central A. A. U. 100 yard free style championship, will defend her title in THE TRIBUNE'S meet in Lincoln park lagoon July 27. Jane Fauntz, of the same club, is defending champion in the ten foot board high diving.

The Central A. A. U. dashes and diving contests will be held in connection with the amateur swimming races for Chicago's boys and girls. All are sponsored by THE TRIBUNE Athletic association.

Miss Lillian Riley, I. W. A. C. swimming instructor, has nominated eight girls for the 100 yard race. In addition to Miss Quinn, the following will compete: Marion Dosé, Mary Ellen Stark, Violet Martin, Isabelle Smith, Maxine Reinhard, Dagny Van Maarth, Regina Gildea, and Emma Shemaitis. Mary Gardner, although competing unattached, has been entered by Mrs. Riley. Ruth Fauntz and Josephine Knox are entered in the girls' diving.

Walter Colbath of the Chicago Athletic association heads the list of men in the ten foot diving contests. His team mates, Frank Snari and George LeBret also will compete. Sam Seigel of the Lake Shore Athletic club and Anton Zukas, who competes unattached, are other entries.

The list of stars who will seek the 100 yard free style championship includes Walter Laufer of the Lake Shore, holder of the national indoor title. Al Schwartz of the Illinois Athletic club, former Northwestern star, is considered to have an excellent chance for the honor. The C. A. A. will have four in this race, Merton Wilcox, Arthur Highland, Paul Corbett and Dick Howell.

Entries for the C. A. A. U. races close with E. C. Delaporte of the Chicago Athletic association on July 20.

Betty Quinn, Alice Garrity, Catherine Lindley, and Dorothy Moran will swim in THE TRIBUNE'S amateur race for 14 and 15 year old girls. Jayne Deagan, another of the I. W. A. C. girls, will compete in the 12 and 13 year old class.

Entries for these races close July 21.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. Ted Lyons prevailed in his customary efficient fashion yesterday at Comiskey park and the Detroit Tigers suffered accordingly. The twelfth victory of the season was at stake for the ex-collegian and he not only nailed it into his ledger by his pitching but also by using his bat to drive in two-thirds of the tallies on which the White Sox won, 3 to 2.

While the throwing of Lyons was easily the outstanding contribution of the day's performance, his mates deserve a few cheering words for their defensive endeavors. Except for a harmless boot by Willie Kamm, they not only fielded flawlessly but actually rendered highly valuable assistance at critical moments. For instance, the coöperation of Tate and Cissell cut down a run on an attempted double burglary in the first inning. Still another worthy effort was a throw with which ponderous Smead Jolley blasted a run getter in the sixth and by going a bit deeper into the details one discovers that three double plays hurt the Tigers when they thought they were going places.

Jolleys Hits 12th Homer.

Because of Lyons' attacking powers the south siders found it possible to get an early lead. This happened in the second inning and from then to the finish Red Sorrell, the youngster who handled all of the Tigers' hurling, never got back on an even basis. A Tiger run in the fifth put him close to a tie out shortly after this Jolley hit a homer over the wall, making his twelfth of the year, and this lengthy tap proved enough to offset the second and last Tiger run, which scored in the eighth.

Thomas and Uhle are slated to operate in the final today.

The south siders didn't display any run getting intentions in the second round until after the first two batters were deposed. Then Kamm, the ex-captain, coaxed a pass from Sorrell. Tate, who seems inclined to show his new mates how to hit the ball, followed with a single to left. Lyons promptly took the situation into his own hands. He rapped a triple to the score board in left, sending Kamm and Tate across the pan. A fly by Cissell closed the chapter.

Sorrell Hits Double.

Probably because he wanted to show that Lyons wasn't in a class by himself as a pitcher who could hit, Sorrell uncorked a long blow in the fifth and this led to Detroit's first tally. Sorrell's effort was a double to right center with one out. Then Johnson punctured the left field atmosphere with a single, Sorrell scoring. In the next inning Jolley's homer into the seats in left retrieved this run, putting the Sox on the choice end of a 3 to 1 score.

The Tigers made something of a scoring threat in the sixth, but were turned back because of the lack of speed in Alexander's legs. Alex singled with one out, and with two gone Stone doubled to left. Alex figured he was fast enough to reach home on the smash. He was nailed at the plate on Jolley's throw. In the eighth, however, the Detroiters enjoyed better luck. The bothersome Johnson pushed open the inning with a triple over Barnes' head and scored on an infield out. This left the Sox with a margin of one run, which was all that Lyons needed.

HELEN MOODY STARTS RETURN TRIP TO AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—Completing her shortest stay in England, Helen Wills Moody sailed hurriedly to America this morning to resume her new domestic duties and continue her study of art. This is the first trip she has made alone since her marriage.

The California tennis queen, who returns holding the Paris championship and both the singles and doubles titles of Wimbledon, said she was uncertain about returning next year.

"I never make tennis plans far ahead," she added. "When I return I am going to start working hard on sketches. That is really a fascinating occupation."

WHEN DOES AMATEUR TENNIS BECOME A RACKET?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—An amateur athlete but a professional actor, William T. Tilden II. has been playing tennis in Europe ever since last December with the exception of a brief spell of work in a stage production which did not run long enough to interfere seriously with his tennis.

Now, having won the Wimbledon men's singles championship, which is the championship of the world, he is importuned by the United States Lawn Tennis association to accept a place on the American Davis cup team, which will play the French in Paris on July 25, 26, and 27, in an effort to regain the cup, lost to France in 1927.

There is much excitement about all this. Mr. Tilden declines the honor on the ground of some journalistic commitments which would bring him into conflict with the extremely liberal rule of amateurism peculiar to tennis, and the syndicate to which he is engaged offers to waive its rights to his material for the duration of the Davis cup final rather than deprive the American team of so fine a player. But of course, whether he plays or not, the present furore over the matter will serve as excellent ballyhoo for his journalistic output, which is a strictly commercial commodity.

Mr. Tilden, whatever his faults may be as an actor on the stage, has a fine sense of dramatic suspense in his other works.

It was a remarkable athletic feat to win the Wimbledon singles again at his age of 37, but in this connection I am reminded of a paragraph in a recent magazine article by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who is also a journalist of no small practice, regarding Maurice McLoughlin.

Mrs. Moody's writings are always alive and in this piece she remarked that McLoughlin was wonderful, unbeatable, marvelous, and that then, suddenly, his game dimmed and he vanished from the tournaments. She referred to the mystery of his disappearance and McLoughlin said there had been no mystery about it. He had had to go to work, adding that no man with business to attend to could be a champion player, because this required topnotch form, which, in turn, required constant playing.

PLAYER-WRITERS

BILL TILDEN. HELEN MOODY.

Mr. Ed Moss, the secretary of the Lawn Tennis association, assures me that the association has no knowledge of any violation of the amateur rules by any of the American players, but it has been my idea for several years that the association would do much to establish the sincerity of the game with the public if it would suddenly adopt a strict rule or amateurism, as honest as the amateur rule in golf, rule out all the stars of both sexes who make tennis an indirect means of a livelihood, and start over, under this rule.

The United States probably would not win any Wimbledon championships and the Davis cup might never return, but championships are not essential to sport. In fact, they have been exploited to such an extent that nowadays, in tennis, victory seems to count above everything else, except the gate receipts.

A lady tennis athlete of any personal style whatever may turn her athletic distinction to profitable account as a mannequin for the customers of Paris and New York. The stars of both sexes appear to have full privileges to sell testimonials for cigarets, cosmetics, and all manner of goods with the single exception of athletic wares, and the traffic in material for the press has become so profitable that it were much better to write tennis on the courts, so to speak, than in the press-tents provided for the noncombatant journalists.

It is a strange aversion that some tennis players have to being regarded as professionals, as though there could be any social opprobrium in the term in a day when Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Georges Carpentier, Bucky Harris, and numerous other professional athletes have been not only tolerated but cultivated by persons of the class known, for the lack of any better name, as society.

The great ones accept the benefits of professionalism by indirect courses and play the game more constantly than even the baseball players who compete only six months of the year. And, realizing this, the public cannot have the respect for the game that it has for baseball, football or golf, in which the amateurs are strictly amateur and the professionals quite frank about their status. It suggests that there is something inherently evasive about the game of tennis itself which likens it to politics rather than to sport. Incidentally, the lack of understanding between the star tennis players and the press may be taken as an indication of the character of the game as expressed in the major tournaments.

The Davis cup has had a romantic past, but the old pot is tarnished nowadays. The Walker cup in golf is much more lustrous but the Walker cup golfers are not year round players. Bobby Jones has played in only seven winter tournaments in seven years and now he is beginning to think that four big summer competitions are too many for an amateur who doesn't make a life work of sport.

JOCKEY HAS HARD TIME KEEPING HIS HORSE FROM WIN

Pulls Up Flying Heels to Let Beasel Cop.

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Jockey Bill Kelsay, whose integrity never has been questioned, had one of his hardest rides at Empire City today when a large amount of work arose for him because he was pulling his mount and preventing him from winning. Kelsay stopped his horse with the full approval of the stewards of the meeting. This unusual situation arose in the Fleet Wing handicap when Gifford A. Cochran had The Beasel and Flying Heels entered. They finished one, two, in the order named as Cochran had declared to win with the Beasel.

As a result Kelsay, on Flying Heels, had to do his best to restrain his mount and make the declaration of his owner good. The two Cochran horses are so much the best of anything else that ran in the Fleet Wing that there was no danger of the race being lost, even when Kelsay took Flying Heels under a strangle hold in the stretch, stood up in the saddle and threw his weight back on the reins. With that kind of handling, The Beasel was able to win by a head, which gives some indication of how good Flying Heels is. Moreover he carried 122 pounds against 113, for the Cochran filly.

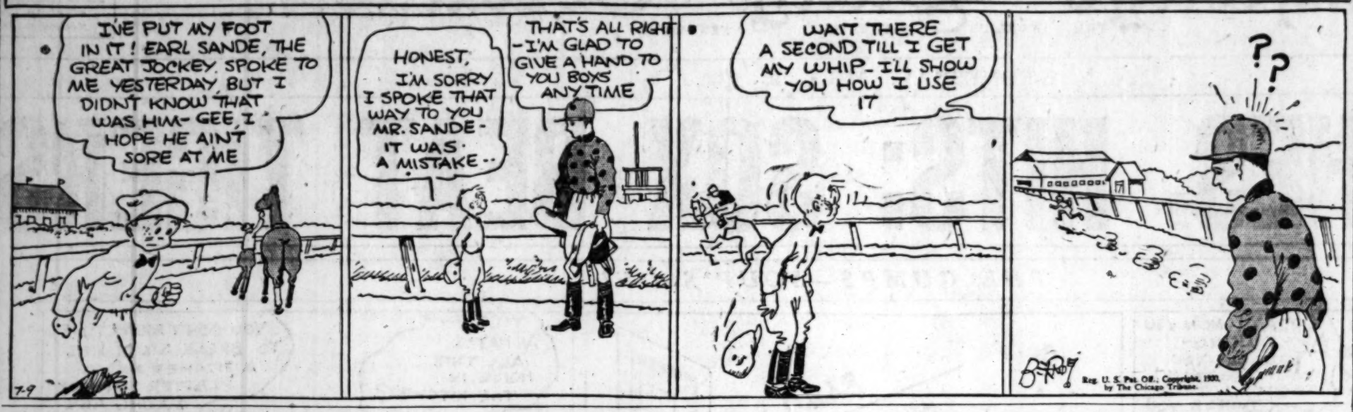
SMITTY—THE KID LEARNS FAST



FAKE LOTTERY ON $70,000 CLASSIC IS EXPOSED IN N.Y.

Doughertys' Luck Used as Sales Argument.

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Thousands of fake lottery tickets are flooding New York as an aftermath of the payment to Edward P. Dougherty, Wall street clerk, of a prize of $149,262 in a lottery based on the English Derby.

The Derby lottery was drawn by the army and navy veterans sweepstakes, a legitimate enterprise in Canada, which has always paid the prizes it advertised.

The payment to young Dougherty was much advertised, particularly as he and his brother, Daniel Jr., engaged in a family dispute with their father, Daniel Dougherty, doorman at the Copley-Plaza apartment hotel in Brooklyn, as to the real ownership of the ticket.

Shortly after Edward had collected the $149,262 in Quebec, thousands of neatly printed lottery tickets began to make their appearance in New York, and the salesmen did not neglect to remind those they approached that the Doughertys had won fame and fortune in "a similar lottery."

It proved easy to sell the tickets at $1 each, and no one knows just how many thousands and perhaps hundreds of thousands were sold to the gullible here.

The fake lottery is entitled the "Third Charity Sweep" on the Classic, a race to be run at Arlington Park, Chicago, on Saturday. It is sponsored by the "Verdun War Veterans' association" and bears on its face both the Canadian and the American flags.

The drawing, according to the tickets, is to be in the great war memorial hall at Verdun, Canada.

The fake was exposed by A. D. Cameron, president of the Canadian Legion of the British empire service legion, Verdun, Quebec No. 4 branch. Cameron published an advertisement in New York papers, warning the public that the lottery was a fake.

"We have been advised that a sweepstake is being operated as the Arlington classic third charity sweepstake, to be drawn early in July in the great war memorial hall, Verdun," Cameron's statement reads. "There will be no drawing of this sweepstake in the above mentioned hall. The sweepstake is being organized in the same manner as the Louisiana Derby sweepstake, which was advertised on the ticket as being drawn in the G. W. M. hall, but was not."

over par three times. He just missed another on the par 5 eighteenth when he three putted after reaching the green in 2.

He started the round auspiciously enough, with a par 5, but three putted the second. He made up for this, however, by holing a 15 footer for a birdie 3 on the sixth. On the eighth he rolled a one footer past the rim of the cup and took a 4, only to recover again with a birdie on the ninth, to reach the turn in 36, even par.

Charles encountered more trouble on the tenth when he laid his second shot in a trap, but this merely served to spur him on and he came back with two consecutive birdies by holing seven foot putts on the 11th and 12th. On the 13th his try for a third straight birdie rimmed the cup and trickled an inch away.

Makes Another Spurt.

The next three holes were negotiated in par, but another spurt came on the 16th and 17th, where he scored on the 16th by laying his approaches within six feet of the cup and going down in one attempt. He reached the green in 2 on the par 5 18th and a 68 seemed within his grasp, but he three putted.

Frank Blossom will fight his first match in defense of his title this morning against W. J. Tewksbury of La Grange, who qualified with 75—79—154. Rial Rolfe will meet Dick Mullin of La Grange, while Fred Lyons will go up against John Van Nortwick of the Chicago Golf club.

Direct Evidence! Spit is a horrid word, but it's worse if on the end of your cigar

Brooklyn, July 8.—(AP)—Old Tom Zachary halted the league leading Brooklyn Robins today, keeping their nine hits well scattered, while the Boston Braves gained a 4 to 1 victory.

Cubs Rest, but Gain Half Game When Robins Lose

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 8.—The Cubs today pondered their future, resting the while in the cool breezes from the crystal clear Ohio with a day off in Cincinnati. Meanwhile they gained a half game as the Braves beat the Robins. There will be a game tomorrow. Root will pitch for Chicago and Kolp for Cincinnati.

As all constant readers and old subscribers should know, this author recently joined up with the Cub outfit. Prior to the Fourth he hadn't seen the boys since the sorrowful world series.

Since the Fourth we have seen them lose four games while winning two. Although we realize full well you know the 1930 Cubs much better than we do, insofar as their current talents are concerned, we've decided to set down what has been passing through our mind in Cincinnati today while we've been sitting around, sort of reflecting on the half dozen games we've watched the Cubs play since last Thursday.

Same Old Joe.

We are going to write a few thumbnail analyses, as follows:

MANAGER JOE McCARTHY—We had heard before joining the club that Joe has been wearing the tall fedora, despite his setback at Philly last October. We've visited with Joe several times and he still seems like a pretty nice fellow. Quit second guessing him about leaving his pitchers in too long, wontcha, please?

CAPT. CHARLEY GRIMM—The same old Charley, only a little faster and certainly more fiery than last year. We've seen him in more spirited debates with umpires in six games than we saw him stage in 80 games last year. They say he's been hitting, and we know he's doing a lot of handsome fielding.

GABBY HARTNETT—Have to go back to 1928 for Gabby comparison. They called him better than Mickey Cochrane then, and that goes for 1930.

CLARENCE BLAIR—In the year and a half we've never heard the sound of his voice, but others tell us he's been much better than he's shown the last half dozen games.

Beck Better at Short.

CLYDE BECK—Fifty per cent better at short than third, and 100 per cent better at short than second.

WOODY ENGLISH—One of Joe's best managerial strokes was when he put this lad on third. Says he likes the spot. And doesn't he look a million per cent better up there at the plate?

RIGGS STEPHENSON—When we get our major league franchise we'll want Stevie on our team, even if he's 60 years old at the time. There wasn't much need of Stevie being any better than he was a year ago, but we think at that he's a much abler thrower.

HACK WILSON—We won't make any 1929-1930 comparisons on Hack until we've seen him play a few more games. The hot weather has given him miseries in his stomach.

KIKI CUYLER—Folks, what a ballplayer! McCarthy told us the other day he considers Ki on his play this season the best all around ballplayer in the majors. Personally, we'll give him at least a tie with a couple or three gents we have seen this year.

Malone Seems Satisfied.

PAT MALONE—We'd heard some ornery gossip about Pat before we joined up, about his being restless and singing in public. Don't believe everything you hear, fans. We had a chocolate soda with him the other night and he seemed satisfied.

CHARLEY ROOT—Business like and skillful as ever.

FRED BLAKE—How can a fellow with all his stuff lose eight games by the first week in July?

GUY BUSH—Still rather fidgety and still a fine pitcher. Doctor Lotshaw tells us he's stronger physically than he looks.

BOB OSBORN—Pretty nice the way this fellow has come around.

ART TEACHOUT—Looked pretty good in Pittsburgh.

Monticello, Ind., July 8.—If you could have stood in the shade of a big oak tree close to the Norway dam which holds back the water of the Tippecanoe river above Monticello you would have seen a somewhat wilted group of Boy Scouts stage a great wrestling match this noon. THE TRIBUNE canoeists were the heroes of this wrestling bout and their opponents were the 16 foot canoes which had to be manhandled to get them around the dam.

This noonday interlude in the paddling program took place under another blistering hot sun, when all the fishermen and campers along the stream had taken to the shade. As it came after a 12 mile trip down Lake Shafer during the hottest part of the morning, the perspiring Scouts were glad to find a cool spot under the trees and a couple of buckets of ice cold lemonade, which had been prepared by the commissary department and was waiting for them at the portage.

Another bit of rough going is ahead of the boys, because the Oakdale dam at the foot of Freeman lake has to be negotiated. There is a 42 foot head of water there. However, the superintendent of the dam has sent word to the party that he will open some of the gates before the boy canoeists get to the portage, so that when the expedition is ready to launch its canoes below the dam there will be plenty of water to carry the party down stream at a merry clip. This announcement cheered the sunburned youngsters, who love the swift currents and sparkling rapids which give their canoes plenty of push.

THE TRIBUNE canoeing party is now covering a lovely part of the Tippecanoe water system although this section does not look much like a river. The dams have backed up the flow to form beautiful winding lakes fringed by rolling timbered hills.

This trip down the Tippecanoe is giving the bird students in the party a splendid chance to get acquainted with a number of feathered residents. Last night when the moon was spreading its pale light over our camp ground near Buffalo the screech owls held a sort of conference in the big elms and maples which towered above the boys' pup tents. The scouts saw a pair of yellow billed cuckoos in this same patch of timber and this morning a nuthatch was performing tricks for the party during the breakfast hour.

Tonight the party is camped about three miles below Monticello in a grove of oaks.

The Greatest June Business in PACKARD'S History

LAST month more Packard cars were delivered to customers than in any previous June in the history of the Packard Company. Even June of 1929 was surpassed.

What a tribute to the Packard Eight in these times when everyone is weighing values and buying a little more carefully than ever before!

Remember it is still possible to buy a Packard Standard Eight at a saving of $400—an outstanding value in the fine car field. Come in and see the cars that are today setting a new record for public appreciation.

Your used car will be accepted as cash and its fair valuation applied against the down and monthly payments on a Packard Eight. The 5-Passenger Standard Sedan is delivered here with spare tire, tube, cover and all necessary equipment for $2,190.00. Initial payment, $750.00; monthly payments, $136.00.

You don't have to be a good "dickerer" in order to buy a Packard car. Packard cars are sold exclusively through Packard dealers, all of whom render Packard service by the same Packard standards and the price is always and to everybody exactly the same.

Williams Tops Lake Shore A. C. Golfers

A good sized field turned out for the Lake Shore A. C. July golf tournament at Olympia Fields yesterday and got drenched. Despite the heavy rain, however, all contestants finished the course. Chet Williams came in with 78—79—157 to win low gross for 36 holes, and O. R. Harnett with 74—72—146 had low net. For the morning round of 18 holes, M. E. Ivor won low gross with 80. H. A. Mix's 86—15—71 was low net.

In the afternoon C. E. McGuire's 77 won the low gross prize, while A. M. Clagett's 88—17—71 took first low net, and F. R. Keefer, 83—13—70, was awarded second. C. P. Zacher with 95—21—74 won the third award. Prizes for low twosomes were won by Dr. R. G. Standock and E. E. Barrett with 145 in the first round, and W. E. Fox and J. Hoag with 148 in the afternoon.

W. J. Newman, with 42-36-80, a member, and C. J. Berry, a guest, 39-41-80, tied for low gross score.

The entry was divided into four flights and approximately 50 prizes were awarded for low net scoring. F. A. Klobucher, second flight, had 87-19-68 as the best net card.

CHICAGO STOCKS RECOVER FROM BOTTOM LEVELS

Majestic Household Is Leader in Movement.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Sales volume expanded slightly on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday, with transactions for the day approaching 260,000 shares.

In early dealings prices were off rather sharply, but an upturn started as New York stocks and the Chicago grain market displayed more strength. Last quotations were around the highs for the day, but were in most cases moderately lower than Monday's final prices.

Majestic Household was a leader in the recovery. Supporting orders sent the stock to 38½, but before the rescue party stepped in the issue had touched a new low at 31¼. Grigsby Grunow shares were not active, nor as quick to recover as were those of its affiliate company, Majestic. Early liquidation forced the radio company shares to a new low, around 12, before the rally set in. The close found the issue selling only slightly below the previous day's final price after about 22,000 shares had changed hands.

Sets Production Date.

William C. Grunow, president of both Grigsby and Majestic, yesterday issued a statement saying that actual production by the latter concern will begin between July 15 and Aug. 1. The statement was issued following the circulation of several rumors concerning the company's plans.

Elsewhere in the list price changes of importance were scarce, Missouri Kansas was off 2¼ points at the close, one of the wildest spreads in the closing list. The company announced that it has started a drilling and development program in the Texas field and in southwestern Kansas.

A. M. Castle Estimates.

After days of inactivity Borin Vivatone was traded in around 12½. The previous price in the stock was 5½. Transactions in the stock involved only 300 shares.

A. M. Castle was dull and about two points higher. Current estimates give $2 a share as the earnings on the capital stock in the first six months of the year which compares with $3.58 in the corresponding period of 1929.

Reports Narrow Profit Margin on Raw Silk

New York, July 6.—(AP)—While not inconsiderable in volume, business in silk goods is being conducted at extremely narrow profit margins, a survey by Standard Statistics company states. Retailers and silk goods converters in their turn are demanding sizable price concessions from mills, which are succeeding generally in their efforts to reduce stocks on hand.

Eastern Utilities Investing.

Will you please give me your report on Eastern Utilities Investing corporation class A common stock, listed on the New York Curb exchange? I would like particularly to know if this stock has paid any dividends during the last two years.—P. E. C.

Eastern Utilities Investing corporation was formed in 1922 as Eastern Hydro Electric corporation, later changing its name to Pennsylvania Electric corporation. The present name was adopted in 1927. It formerly controlled several corporations operating in Pennsylvania and Maryland, but later changed its policy and invested its capital in securities not representing the control of any property. Its business now is primarily that of acquiring and holding for long term investment securities deriving their income from public utility and allied enterprises. It is, therefore, an investment trust of the general management type rather than a holding company.

At the close of last year the corporation's funds were invested in 36 utility companies operating in 38 states as well as in several foreign countries.

Net income available for dividends in 1929 was $2,283,400, against $2,207,693 in 1928 and $1,934,003 in 1927.

Earnings in 1929, after allowances for dividends on the preferred and participating stocks, were equal to 12 cents per share on the class A stock, against 45 cents per class A share in 1928.

These figures represent income from investments only. In addition the corporation earned $233,540 in 1927, $317,892 in 1928, and $1,560,845 in 1929 from realized profit on sales of securities.

At the close of 1929 outstanding capitalization consisted of the following: 75,000 shares of $5 cumulative prior preferred, 10,928 shares of $7 cumulative preferred, 64,072 shares of $6 cumulative preferred, 175,000 shares of non-cumulative participating preferred, 910,044 shares of class A common, and 500,000 shares of class B common, all of no par value, and a funded debt of $35,000,000 5 per cent debentures, due in 1954.

Dividends are reported on the various classes of preferred and on the participating preference shares, but not on the common.

Associated Gas and Electric company controls the corporation through ownership of the class B stock.

Certain-teed Products.

Are the Certain-teed Products corporation 5½% debentures, due in 1948, a safe investment?—M. G. C.

PRODUCTION OF PETROLEUM IN SHARP DECLINE

See Determination to Limit Stocks.

BY O. A. MATHER.

A sharp decline in petroleum production last week and curtailment of operations by refiners was disclosed last night in the weekly summary of conditions in the oil industry by the American Petroleum Institute. It gave additional evidence that the industry is determined to limit production to immediate demands and avoid any large winter carryover of both crude oil and refined products.

Daily average gross crude oil production last week was 2,581,500 barrels, a decline of 29,450 barrels a day from the preceding week. Curtailment was sharpest in the flush pool territories, running as high as 11,050 barrels a day in Oklahoma and tapering to about half as much in west, southwest and coastal Texas. On the other hand, California and Wyoming made increases of 6,200 and 4,950 barrels a day, respectively.

Reduce Operations.

Refineries reduced their operations last week to 70.2 per cent of capacity, compared with 74.5 per cent in the previous week, thereby reducing their daily takings of crude oil by 149,100 barrels. At the same time, they reduced their stocks of gasoline by 666,000 barrels during the week. Total stocks of gasoline on July 5 stood at 39,024,000 barrels.

More hopeful news also came from the steel industry. It was reported that steel ingot production this week has shown a moderate increase over the sharp curtailment put into effect last week coincident with the holiday slackening in all lines of trade and industry.

Average mill operations for the whole industry last week slumped to around 48 per cent of capacity, compared with 64 per cent in the preceding week and better than 66 per cent a fortnight ago. Independents showed the largest recession, with some of the smaller units shut down and others around 20 per cent. However, they averaged about 42 per cent, compared with 59 per cent in the previous week. Operations of the United States Steel corporation were down to 55 per cent, compared with better than 69 per cent in the previous week.

Expects Upward Swing.

The Republic Steel corporation contemplated no further reductions in number of employés and expects a slow upward swing in business with general improvement during the last three months of the year, according to a statement issued by R. F. Fairless, executive vice president.

Data on steel production for June and the first half of this year were issued yesterday by the American Iron and Steel Institute. Based on figures from companies which made 94.97 per cent of steel ingots, the total output last month was 3,440,239 tons, a daily average of 137,610 tons. This compared with 4,024,778 tons in May, or a daily average of 149,066 tons, and with 4,902,955 tons in June, 1929, or a daily average of 196,118 tons.

Six Months' Output.

Output for the six months ended June 30 was estimated at 23,793,199 tons, a daily average of 153,050 tons and 76.67 per cent of rated capacity, compared with a total of 29,036,274 tons, a daily average of 153,505 tons and 95.52 per cent of capacity, for the like period last year.

Demand in the nation's machinery and machine tool markets is almost negligible, with the usual summer slackness, a short week occasioned by the Fourth of July, and general business quietude all contributing to the smallest week in the current year, the American Machinist reports.

Says Canadian 1930 Grain Carryover Should Be Less

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., July 8.—Carryover of grain in Canada should be less in 1930 than for previous years, in opinion of George McIvor, general manager of the Canadian wheat pool at Winnipeg. He would make no estimate of the probable decrease, but mentioned that wheat is moving steadily with 7,000,000 bushels weekly leaving North America, of which the bulk is Canadian wheat. The western Canada crop is spotty, he believes. Although conditions in Manitoba are encouraging, Alberta and Saskatchewan are in need of rain, he said.

Good Will Is Moot Topic in Merger Fight

Youngstown, O., July 8.—(AP)—Attorneys for stockholders opposed to the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation intimated today the latter concern concealed an item of $5,000,000 in its 1929 property report for "good will".

J. A. CAMPBELL. [P. & A. Photo.]

The intimation was made while James A. Campbell, 76 year old veteran chairman of the board for the Youngstown company, testified as a hostile witness in the injunction suit in Mahoning county common pleas court to prevent completion of the merger.

Harry Crawford, one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, handed Campbell the Bethlehem balance sheet for 1929 and asked if he knew the good will item was there.

Campbell replied he did not but that if it was, there was "probably some good purpose." Crawford then reminded him he had previously testified the Youngstown company listed no such item because he did not believe in it.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs seek to show that officers of the Youngstown company concealed from their stockholders the true value of the two concerns when they recommended the merger.

Campbell told the court he was responsible for the negotiations which led to the merger taking the steps "to protect the interests of stockholders and employés."

GAIN OF 15,989 MADE IN FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended June 28 were reported by the American Railway association to have totaled 936,848 cars.

This was an increase of 15,989 cars above the preceding week, but a reduction of 159,721 cars below loadings for the corresponding week a year ago.

Miscellaneous freight loadings for the week ended June 28 aggregated 371,999 cars, a decrease of 68,442 cars below the corresponding week of 1929; loadings of merchandise less than carload lot, 239,544, decrease 21,161; coal, 137,521, decrease 24,534; forest products, 47,947, decrease 21,551; ore, 61,034, decrease 15,623; coke, 9,391, decrease 2,886; grain and grain products, 48,847, decrease 3,116; live stock, 20,565, decrease 2,408.

Central-Penn Nat. Bank Combine Effective July 12

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—Consolidation of the Central National bank and the Penn National bank under the name Central-Penn National bank will become effective at the close of business Saturday, it was announced today. The merged institution will have a capital, surplus and undivided profit of more than $14,000,000; in addition stockholders have a beneficial interest in the Central National Securities company, the capital and profits of which are considerably in excess of $1,0000,000. Deposits of the merging banks as of June 30 were $54,780,224, it was announced.

Republic Steel Reports Die Rolling Economies

Substantial economies in die rolling operations of the Republic Steel corporation have been accomplished by concentration of die rolling equipment at the Donner plant in Buffalo, according to officials. Removal of such equipment from the Witherow plant at Pittsburgh has been completed. By means of the Witherow process it is possible to roll automobile axles and other parts direct from steel, thus eliminating the necessity of forging.

WHEAT SPURTS AS BLACK RUST BOGEY BOBS UP

Scare Influences 2⅞ to 3¼c Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A black rust scare has started in the American northwest which, combined with reports of a severe hail storm in western Canada, drought and crop damage in South Dakota and Montana, with extremely high temperatures in both of these states, offset all bearish influences yesterday.

The result was an advance of 2⅞c to 3¼c in wheat prices, with net gains of ⅞c to 1⅜c for the day. Gains in other markets were more extensive, but all reacted from the extreme top. July wheat closed at 89c to 89¾c, September 92⅛c to 92c, and December 98⅞c to 98c, after touching 98¾c at the extreme. All other wheat markets were up with Winnipeg 1⅛c to 1⅞c higher.

A bearish position at the start, with heavy sales by southwestern and northwestern hedgers, combined with local pressure, carried prices down to new lows for the season on all deliveries, July reaching 86c, September 89⅝, and December, 95¼c. December corn and all futures of oats dropped to new low levels but rallied at the last in sympathy with wheat.

Trading Picks Up.

Trading was increased in all markets, with heavy covering by shorts and new buying, based on probable damage to the spring wheat crop in the northwest, particularly in Montana, where prospects have been mostly unfavorable the greater part of the season. Liverpool offered no encouragement to holders and induced selling, but its effect was short lived.

There have been few seasons during the last twenty years or more when the northwest has been free from black rust. It is always to be found there, but the extent of damage depends upon weather conditions. There have been seasons when extensive injury to the crop has resulted from rust but with favorable weather in most cases crop losses are unimportant.

A great deal of interest was taken in the reports of increased yields in the southwest and in the soft winter wheat districts of the middle west, as well as in Nebraska, where yields are expected to largely exceed expectations.

Movement of wheat in the southwest continues heavy, with 2,400 cars at six leading points. A Kansas City message said that the peak of the marketing movement has been reached in the Wichita-Hutchinson district of Kansas. Primary receipts of 1,810,000 bu compared with 2,487,000 bu last year. Shipments of 1,121,000 bu were 275,000 bu less than a year ago.

Corn Dips, Then Rallies.

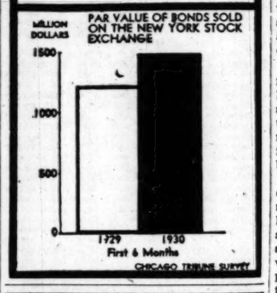
Selling of a big line of December corn by a house with eastern and foreign connections at the start carried prices down to 66¼c, a new low. Offerings were well taken mostly by the pit element and the price moved up to 68¼c, with shorts leading the buying. The close was at a reaction to 67¾@67⅞c. July, after touching 74c, advanced 2¾ and finally finished at 75⅝c. The rally largely reduced the short interest.

Cash premiums, which advanced 3c to 3¾c over July for No. 2 yellow on track, eased to 2¼c later, owing to the advance in July. At Kansas City on Monday, No. 2 yellow and No. 2 white corn sold at higher prices than the low figures made on sales of No. 1 hard winter wheat. There were net gains of 1¼c to 1⅝c on futures.

A liquidating movement in oats brought new low price levels all around, from which there was a recovery at a net gain of ⅛c to ¼c. The low point on July was 32¾c, September 34⅞c and December 38½c. The close was ⅝@½c above the low points.

Spreading operations between wheat and rye, with rye sold and wheat bought, and changing between near and distant futures of rye were features of the trading. The close was at gains of ⅝c to 1½c, July being 47¾c, September 51⅝c.

BOND SALES GAINED IN THE FIRST SIX MONTHS



INVESTMENT MONEY FLOWS INTO N. Y. BOND MARKET; PRICES CLIMB

New York, July 8.—(AP)—Money seeking investment flowed into the listed bond market at a moderate rate today to facilitate the advancement of high grade issues toward new high prices for the year.

While the sales volume dropped appreciably from Monday, the technical position of the market is so strong that the demand for high grade bonds was sufficient to carry a wide list of railroad issues into higher ground, some of them closing at new highs.

A few utilities followed the leadership of the railroad list, and despite light trading several United States governments established the highest prices of the year. Some soft spots developed in the foreign list, but an unusually strong demand aided prices. Stock privilege issues rose and fell with the swing of stocks and the general level of the group at the close was only slightly lower.

The market for legal issues was rather quiet and several bonds eased fractionally at the close, but higher prices were the rule among carrier issues and several new highs for the year were established. Except for the setback suffered at the time of the sharp stock market break last month, the best grade railroad bonds have steadily improved and consequently are the first to reach a point where the 1930 high prices may be advanced.

New highs were established by Baltimore and Ohio 6s, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh 4½s, New Orleans Terminal 4s, New York Central 4s, Pennsylvania general 4½s, and several issues, notably Atchison general 4s, Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, Canadian Pacific 4s, and Canadian National Railway 5s, equalled the best figure of the year on the day's movement.

Buyers displayed interest in several utility issues. American Telephone debenture 5s sold at its high price of the year, and the 5s of 1946 established a new top price.

Mechanization of Farming Seen Overproduction Cause

BY SCRUTATOR.

Beyond question the great majority of the American people are anxious to keep a vigorous, financially independent farm population on the land and would view with distrust, to use no stronger word, any indication that agriculture was slipping into a form of peasantry.

But it seems to be a solid economic fact that any attempt to maintain a larger proportion of a populace in some particular line of endeavor than the competitive markets will support means lower standards of consumptive income for those who seemingly are being helped.

The truth is that farming the world over is caught in the same process of mechanization that manufacturing has known for a long time. It is the alert farmer, with the able help of his allies, the makers of farm machinery, who has built up most of the farm problem. He has found it profitable to use highly specialized machines in his work. A natural result has been that production increased with the efficiency of labor and that prices tended to fall.

Acreage Reduction.

Such a situation in manufacturing could be met in only one way; the still further betterment of methods. This largely takes the form of improved machinery that lowers costs still more. It is apparent that something so similar it can hardly be considered different has occurred in agriculture, and that consciously or unconsciously the alert farmers are following the industrial cycle.

There is something not quite satisfactory in the advise to farmers to cut down their productive efforts. First of all, there is no formula by which this can be done. Acreage reduction is not certain to accomplish the end sought, although it may help. In Utah 51,000 acres of beets in 1926 produced 415,000 tons of sugar. In 1928 the same acreage produced 637,000 tons.

Doubtless a cutting down of some one crop by the acre method would raise the price of that crop. But to make the system worth the farmer's while he would have to do something with his acres, and there is no major farm crop in the country that is not, in the sense of effective demand at a satisfactory price, already overproduced.

Also Feel Pressure.

It was efficient machinery that made it possible for about 27 per cent of the workers to market more farm products than the other 73 per cent need. The mechanization of farming is proceeding in other parts of the world and outside countries are also feeling the pressure. The department of commerce reports that in the first five months of 1930, while most export business was fading, exports of farm implements were seventy-one million dollars, an increase of eleven millions over the same period in 1929.

No immediate hope of increasing farm markets seems to exist, with the rest of the world going ahead as it is. With the same number farming and each man producing more as operating production costs are lowered, no artificial efforts will for long keep prices up. The wistful wish to keep all the farmers we have and to keep them prosperous, is doomed to disappointment unless they will consent to be less efficient than they are.

The total number of stores being operated at June 30 was 428.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—Stocks braced up a bit in the late trading today. The street hears that banking interests were quietly supporting the standard industrials and rails and the character of some of the transactions—involving blocks of 10,000 shares or so of some of the highest priced issues of the list—certainly lent color to the report.

Be that as it may, most of the pivotals wound up showing substantial gains in place of the considerable losses they had registered earlier in the day. United States Steel, for example, closed at 156½, a net gain of 2 points, after selling off to 153¼. Consolidated Gas, after dipping to 101⅝, ran up to 104½, a gain of 1½ on the day. American Can, down at one time to 112½, finished at 115¾, up 1¾, and Westinghouse from a low of 127¼, recovered to 131, which left it with a net advance of an even point.

Bears Are Thwarted.

The bears had the skids all nicely greased for a real decline at the opening and for an hour or so their operations went along in a promising fashion.

The selling forced prices of the leading issues down from 1 to 3 points during the first hour and for a time threatened to assume really serious

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 9,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs, and 19,000 sheep.

Practically all of Monday's gain was lost on the hog market yesterday, some medium and weighty butchers selling as much as 10@25c under last Thursday's quotations toward the close when stock exceeding 250 lbs. in weight was hard to dispose of.

Fancy light and underweights were scarce and in good demand at the reduction, some pigs selling almost steady with the previous session. Eastern demand is the broadest in some time. Outsiders in two days bought 18,000 hogs, or more than 30 per cent of Chicago receipts, against 12,000 or 18 per cent of receipts a week ago.

The extreme top on lightweights lowered to $9.55, while top 250 lb butchers stopped at $9.45, and 350 lb averages at $8.90. Although trading on weighty stock was slow, there was a fairly good clearance, only 5,000 remaining at the close.

December Hogs at $8.50.

Contracts for December hogs averaging $10@260 lbs were sold at $8.50 on yesterday's steady to 10c lower futures market. Trading was fairly active at the reduction, with most demand centering on September mediums which outsold all others. The latter opened at $9.60 and closed more active at $9.70.

Lightweights for next September delivery brought $9.65. Bids of $8.25 were made for November hogs on the "specials" board, but $8.75 was the lowest offer at the close.

The cattle market was a two-way affair yesterday, lightweight steers and yearlings selling to better advantage, while medium and weighty beeves were slow and weak to lower. Anything exceeding 1,200 lbs. in weight proved a drug on the market. However, heavy steers are still outselling lightweights and yearlings but by a smaller margin than for several weeks.

A load of 1,222 lb. steers topped the market at $11.50 and 1,414 lb. averages sold at $11.25, the next highest price. Mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 807 lbs. reached $11.00. Butcher stock held steady to strong. Calves advanced 50c. Stockers and feeders continued slow and steady.

Lamb Market Breaks.

Stronger prices for fat lambs Monday attracted an oversupply of choice kinds yesterday and prices declined mostly 15@25c, while plain kinds and culls held almost steady. Bulk of Idaho and Washington range lambs were sorted lightly at $11.00, with two loads to shippers at $11.10.

Most sorted natives brought $10.50@ $10.75, a few being "handpicked" by city butchers upwards to $11.00. Aged and yearling sheep were unchanged. Feeders sold steady at $8.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep, against 7,272 cattle, 17,426 hogs, and 11,536 sheep, on the previous Wednesday, and 11,716 cattle, 25,378 hogs, and 23,325 sheep a year ago.

COTTON AREA CUT

Acreage of cotton in the United States for the 1930 crop as given by the United States Department of Agriculture, is 45,815,000 acres, compared with 47,067,000 acres last year, a loss of 2.7 per cent. No figures on condition or indicated production are given by the government. Upon the acreage planted, based on a five-year average yield, Col. Carter of J. E. Bennett & Company says it would indicate more than 15,000,000 bales and on the ten-year average it would be close to 14,300,000 bales. Nat. C. Murray of Clement Curtis, says, on the government basis the figures would indicate a crop of about 14,500,000 bales. His returns are 14,435,000 bales compared with 14,828,000 bales last year. Detailed acreage by states, as compared with last year, with the last three ciphers omitted, follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

All grain prices are down to a level where a number of sharp local traders are disposed to take the buying side on weak spots. This is especially the case in wheat, where buying has been of a better class, and traders are inclined to look for better prices for a day or two, especially should black rust develop in the northwest as it is the season for it. Those who watch marketing of wheat in the southwest are inclined to believe that the peak of the movement is nearing. Mills and elevators are being filled up, and there appears to be more disposition to hedge cash holdings.

Corn situation is turning more in favor of buyers on breaks, and the short interest is said to have been reduced. The surprise of the trade was the ready absorption of the big sales early at the lowest prices of the season for December.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES

Slight realizing pressure checked a bullish effort to promote an upward swing on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. The bulls were successful to a certain extent, however, November butter closing at 37¾c to 34¾c, up ¼c to ¾c. July was up ¼c at 33¼c. November eggs closed at 26¼c even with Monday's final figure. Favorable butter news helped the tone of the market. Shorts refused to be stampeded, however. Sales were butter, 82 cars, eggs 70 cars. Receipts were butter, 19,900 tubs; eggs, 20,477 cases.

CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, CHICAGO, CORPORATE TRUSTEE

The following is summarized by Mr. J. T. Osler, President, from his letter dated July 3, 1930, describing this issue and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES—Continental Roll & Steel Foundry Company was recently organized to acquire assets and business of the following companies all of which had been in successful operation over a long period of years:

HUBBARD STEEL FOUNDRY COMPANY, East Chicago, Indiana,

WHEELING MOLD & FOUNDRY COMPANY, Wheeling, West Virginia.

The plants are strategically located in relation to the Chicago and Pittsburgh zone markets for steel and iron rolls and steel castings. The Company is the only concern in the United States producing and selling rolls in both of these major steel centers. Among the users of the Company's rolls and castings are United States Steel Corporation, New York Central Railroad Company, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Pennsylvania Railroad Company and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

The Company is the largest producer of steel, steel alloy and iron rolls as well as the largest producer of miscellaneous steel castings in the United States.

SECURITY—These Bonds, constituting the Company's only funded debt, are secured, in the opinion of Counsel, by a first mortgage on all the fixed assets of the Company. The Balance Sheet as of December 31, 1929, after giving effect to this financing, shows net tangible assets available for these Bonds of $11,108,620 or more than $2,700 for each $1,000 Bond. Fixed assets amount to more than $2,200 per $1,000 Bond. Current assets of $3,409,436 were more than 3½ times current liabilities of $969,554.

The Mortgage securing this issue contains, among other protective provisions, appropriate restrictions as to the issuance of additional bonds up to the total authorized amount of $10,000,000.

EARNINGS—Combined net earnings of the three predecessor Companies, after depreciation as established by independent engineers, and adjusted to eliminate non-recurring charges averaging $153,476 annually, but before Federal Taxes, were as follows:

Years Ended December 31,	Net Earnings	Times Annual Interest On This Issue
1925	$ 802,070	3.3
1926	843,503	3.5
1927	752,468	3.1
1928	1,284,160	5.3
1929	1,764,272	7.3
Annual Average	1,089,294	4.5

It is the opinion of the management that earnings for the first six months of 1930 will compare favorably with earnings for the same period of 1929.

After all prior charges, net earnings for the above five year period averaged $2.49 per share on 216,000 shares of Common Stock now outstanding; for the last three calendar years such average earnings were $3.21 per share and for 1929 such earnings were $5.24 per share.

PURPOSE—These Series A Bonds, together with $3,000,000 of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and 216,000 shares of no par value Common Stock, were issued in connection with the acquisition of assets and business of the three predecessor Companies, for working capital and for other corporate purposes.

SINKING FUND—The Mortgage provides for a Sinking Fund, beginning April 1, 1931, sufficient to retire 60% of this Series prior to maturity, the minimum annual retirement being $200,000 principal amount.

MANAGEMENT — The management is in the hands of the principal executives who have been responsible for the success of the predecessor Companies and who are considered leaders in this industry. They own a substantial majority of the Common Stock of the Company.

CHICAGO U. PLANS NEW FIELDHOUSE; COST, $700,000

Also Buys Dormitory for Graduate Students.

The University of Chicago furnishes the feature of today's realty news with an announcement of plans for a $700,000 field house having accommodations for about 6,500 persons and the purchase of a three-story apartment building to provide dormitory facilities for graduate students. The field house will be a unit in the university's six year building program which upon completion will represent an investment of $25,000,000.

Holabird & Root are drawing plans for the structure which will be located in the vicinity of Stagg Field. The exact location of the site has not yet been decided upon. Of brick and stone construction, the field house is to resemble somewhat a national guard armory save that it will be more decorative than is the typical armory.

For Indoor Sports.

The structure will measure 165x354 feet, though these dimensions may be changed to meet the requirements of the site. It will have a cinder track, facilities for indoor baseball, basket ball, etc. One of its purposes is to provide a place for preliminary work for baseball and football. Construction is expected to get under way sometime after November 1.

The new graduate student dormitory will be incorporated in a three story apartment house at the northeast corner of 57th street and Drexel avenue, lot 130x36 feet, which was purchased by the university from Lyndon H. Lesch. There are twelve four room apartments in the building which are to be furnished for the use of the students. Present tenants of the building are to vacate within sixty days.

Boul, Mich. Leases.

Two leases have been closed for second floor space in Mrs. Noble B. Judah's building at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Huron street. In one Eleanor Beard, dealer in handquilted wares, took 980 square feet. The Beard establishment, now at 671 North Michigan, plans to move to its new home in the fall. The workrooms of the firm are located at Hardinsburg, Ky. The other lease was with Mrs. Ralph Small, interior decorator, who took 545 square feet. She plans to move in about Aug. 1. Hugh Montgomery is manager of the building.

Abraham Mendell and Joseph Bilieck have sold 181x210 feet at the northwest corner of North Western and Berwyn avenues to Donald E. Waggoner for use as a gasoline filling station. The consideration was not disclosed.

PICTURE FRAME MEN TO MEET AT FURNITURE SHOW

Makers of mirrors and picture frames will hold the center of the stage tonight at the American Furniture Mart, when the national association covering this branch of the industry holds its annual meeting in the Furniture Club of America.

Registration of furniture buyers had reached 2,458 last night.

Herman Molner, president of the Illinois Moulding company, Chicago, and head of the Picture and Mirror Frame Manufacturers' Association of America, Inc., will speak on "Stabilization Through Organization" at the industrial conference. North Storms, secretary of the Mirror Manufacturers' association of Chicago, will also speak.

The south, an increasingly important section in the furniture manufacturing world, will also have its innings at the Chicago exhibition tonight. Manufacturers from Virginia, North Carolina, and other important furniture states will meet under the auspices of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association.

MO. PACIFIC GETS PERMIT TO TAKE OVER SHORT LINES

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—A qualified permission was extended to the Missouri Pacific railroad today by the Interstate Commerce commission to take over under lease and operate as a part of its own structure the properties of some twenty subsidiary lines which it now controls but which have more or less separate organizations.

Before the central road can complete its plan for the extensive unification proposal, however, it must, by the terms of the decision, arrange to acquire ownership on a reasonable basis of a number of unnamed short lines, now independent, which connect with its system at various points in the southwest.

While several of the corporations affiliated with Missouri Pacific, which will virtually pass out of existence under the arrangement approved, are merely paper organizations, others have a semi-independent operating status. The permission to unify mentioned among those slated for inclusion with the central system the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico; the International-Great Northern; the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico; the San Antonio, Uvalde and Gulf; the San Antonio Southern; the Natchez and Southern Railway; the New Orleans and Lower Coast railroad, and the Missouri Pacific Railroad corporation in Nebraska.

While no specific mention was made of independent lines which the Missouri Pacific is required to acquire or offer to acquire, in the proceedings which the decision terminated today, several independent short lines have intervened.

The control of the Missouri Pacific system recently passed into the hands of O. P. Van Sweringen of Cleveland and associates, several of whom obtained last month from the commission permission to serve as directors of the various corporations included in the property. The unification proceeding decided today, however, was begun sometime ago and was not a factor in the transfer of control.

I. T. & T. GIVEN PHONE RIGHTS BY RUMANIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—The International Telephone and Telegraph corporation has been granted the exclusive right to operate and develop the telephone system of Rumania by a decree signed on July 3 by King Carol which was promulgated in the official Gazette of the Rumanian government today. Legislation had been passed previously by the parliament on the recommendation of the ministry.

The consideration comprised in part a cash payment and two five year loans, it is understood, but the amounts involved were not revealed. The contract relates to the entire public telephone and electric communication business other than telegraph, and provides that the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation shall establish and operate a complete local and long distance and international telephone service, including auxiliary services by wire, cable or radio.

Hailstorm in Alberta Causes Damage to Crops

The Nine Hundred Block
BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

To the nine hundred block, with its sordid dwellings, moved gentle, lovely Theresa Ames and her divorced and remarried mother, Mrs. Colt, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Baum, neighborhood gossip. Theresa makes friends with Katie Warner, who lives upstairs, and R. Jones, a reporter; also Johnny Deane, who left home to make good for the girl to whom he now regrets he is engaged.

INSTALLMENT III.

A MOTHER'S PLANS.

"When do you—start, Mr. Deane?" Theresa asked. "Your new work, I mean."

"O, I see. Tomorrow. Tomorrow morning. Seven, I believe. And you do something to a sort of clock on going in. They are quite exacting, I understand, about one's being on time. Ghastly hour, but then—I can go to bed early, and I suppose—it's good for one——"

She laughed; she thought young Mr. Deane was joking.

"Can you—stand motion pictures?" he questioned next. "Some people, I know, loathe them, but—sometimes—they're not so bad——"

"Why, I love them!" she assured him, with surprise bred of any one's loathing them.

"Well, can't we—won't you be good enough to go with me some night—to something—half way decent?"

"I'd love it!" she answered warmly.

She held out her hand; he took it to find it small, tight, and with a hard grip. She was an awfully nice girl," he decided. And—more than that. He didn't quite understand what she was, nor the emotion she had put in him; an emotion that was quite new. He had never felt thus about Collette, who smiled at him from the top of a yellow oak, front sagging bureau in the room above.

"I'll watch the papers for something that sounds half promising," he stated, "then—beg an evening from you——"

She opened the door. He heard from within a rather plaintive, fat sounding, "Is that you, Terry?"

She turned to say, "Yes, mother——" then, turning again to him she added, "Good-by, Mr. Deane, and everything good for tomorrow and—the start!"

In his rooms he opened a mauve envelope, the stamp on which had been canceled in New York. The letter sheet he drew out had been gleaned from Collette Clyde's stop at the Book-Cadillac hotel in Detroit.

"Mr. Treadway, my pet—" Elsie Colt said, "of whom you know—mother has spoken so often."

"Big Hearted," he read. (He looked dismally at her portrait for a moment.) "I'm writing you frankly, dearest, about this nonsense. I can't live on nothing. You know how I am. I positively break into a rash with anything but silk against the skin, and it's all along the line, that story. So, honey, can't you work it so as I meet your old man? I could fix him. You know me, dear. The balder the better. When you talk about my marrying you on nothing, are you being funny? I saw Slick last night. I was a little tight. But, Johnny, never think I do what I oughtn't to. I am always a lady. Dearest, don't you hunger for those hours we had in your straight-eight? That was a lovely car. I was so happy. Do you remember how everybody used to look at it? It was a car I was proud to ride in. Do take my advice about letting me meet the old man. If we went out to some night club he'd want me in the family by the end of the evening, but not in the way you suggested. I've had that happen before. Well, darling, I said I'd stick to you, and I certainly am. Clouds or sunshine, I'm a friend. Slick sent me a hot bunch of butterfly orchids. Don't you think you ought to make up with your old man? He might die any time, and you don't want to hurt him. And wills are funny sometimes, too.

"Love and kisses for my bunny-bunny. Till death,

"P. S.—Wiscbeim is threatening to put us on the road. I cried over that."

. . . . . .

Johnny sank to the edge of his bed to bury his head in his hands. What a fool—"damned fool"—he'd been. For this—he'd fought and bled! The other letter was from his father. He opened it slowly to draw out a single sheet of paper and a check. "I don't suppose for a minute you have succeeded in landing a job," his father had written.

Johnny looked at the check and in a way that was wholly foreign to the old Johnny. Then on a sheet of lined paper he wrote grimly, "I have. You can suppose again." And in this he folded the check, after which he wrote upon an envelope a name and a Park avenue address.

He would mail it after he ate—or tried to—at the Venetian restaurant. His shoulders were squared in a new manner as he went down the stairs.

Theresa, stepping into the apartment with a pint of ice cream, found her mother with a guest. Her mother had once been a "pretty blonde." Never had she been for a short instant, more, but now even shallow prettiness was gone. It had been washed away in an acid petulance that had grown of her revolt against life as it must be for her, and from her loud voiced whining desire for things that she could not have.

Her betrayingly small mouth had, on either side, bold sentinels in lines which told of openly indulged discontent; her seeking eyes moved rapidly, testingly, appraisingly. And in a crowd, when she thought no one noticed, these eyes measured, from head to foot and back again, any well attired woman. Her hair, tortured by warm irons, had grown brittle, colorless, and sparse, and the while she took on weight. Her weight, she said, was "hereditary," and that often she could hardly "bring" herself to eat more than a "nibble" . . . saying this, perhaps, as she rolled a caramel paper into a small, sticky wad and licked her fat, soft fingers, being one of those souls whose manner differs in public and in private.

The guest was sitting in the chair that stood over the hole in the worn, red rug and near the small table Theresa had bought for three dollars and ninety-eight cents, and on which she had put two magazines and an ash tray—after having looked hungrily at the pictures in The House Beautiful. She did want things to look "nice," did Theresa, and "comfortable." She was going to get some sofa cushions if she "did at all well." She thought they would "do everything to make things look really nice——" There was a picture of a corner made very comfortable in that House Beautiful that she kept beneath wash house dresses in the bottom drawer of the bureau.

"My little girl——" said Elsie Ames Colt in that wistfully plaintive manner she felt made testimony to her having known better days.

The guest rose, an attenuated specimen with a high, backward sloping forehead that had grown higher with the rub of years; upper teeth that protruded mildly with his least word and amazingly with his ready smile; lower teeth that made apt preface for his receding chin.

"Mr. Treadway, my pet——" Elsie Colt said, "of whom—you know—mother has spoken so often?"

"O, yes!" Theresa murmured softly, and she held out her small, firm hand to the famous beau of her mother's girlhood and her own godfather. She was feeling cheated again; her mother's eulogies had not prepared her for Mr. Billy Treadway as he was.

"I'm glad I got in," she added, and she hated herself for lying. But what could you do? You had to lie!

"My little girl's going to do typing, Billy," Elsie Colt said, and still more plaintively, "Dear—dear Billy! when I remember——" and expressively she paused.

Billy Treadway, who had begun his keen and condensed study of Theresa, his godchild, at her coming in, had not once shifted his gaze, and Elsie Ames Colt's heart warmed, seeing this. If Billy were really attracted it would be a way out; an escape from penury; a delightful escape. Billy, still, of course, the popular bachelor, would "fix things," and both she and Theresa would again be "established," and Theresa would be placed safely, securely, where she could be. Billy invariably responded to pathos, Elsie remembered. A sick kitten or a forlorn damsel at a dance had always made him warmly and gently attentive.

"Ah, ours was a sad homecoming," Elsie Colt went on. "My stormy life has quite eclipsed peace. But—dear Billy, you're going to be kind to—my little girl?"

("I wish she wouldn't!" Theresa thought; she stiffened and her palms grew moist.)

Still looking at Theresa, Billy assured Elsie Colt that he was going to be kind to her "little girl."

"Think I can—without strain!" he stated.

Mrs. Hoover Enjoys Camp in Blue Ridge

Makes Brief Return Trip to Washington.

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, home again in the White House after a month's rest in the mountains, will make her sojourn here only temporary. Already, after two days in the city, she is planning to return to the restful seclusion of the President's camp on the Rapidan.

She probably will spend the greater part of her time there until she goes west with the President. The bracing, pine scented air and the complete relaxation have proved an ideal antidote activity in Washington. At the camp, away from crowds and receiving lines, Mrs. Hoover does not dress formally for dinner even when there are guests.

During the last month she has installed flower boxes in the windows of the President's cabin. She is having the banks of the stream nearby beautified with flowers and rustic steps. Her cabin largely is made of glass and screens to admit all the air and sunshine possible.

When Mrs. Hoover wants company she has Christine West, teacher of the President's school, a short distance from the camp. The President left the question of keeping school going through the summer to Miss Vest's judgment and it still is running.

"Martha" Refreshing Comedy as Presented at Ravinia Park

BY EDWARD MOORE.

To put on "Martha" as they keep on doing year after year at Ravinia and keep it just a bit better than any other performance of that opera in the world is an achievement. There are times when one begins to doubt the existence of imagination in the business of opera giving, but then one sees "Martha" again at Ravinia and stops doubting.

Last night's performance contained four names of major importance in casting this work and three lesser, but still notable assistants. The four were Florence Macbeth, Ina Bourskaya, Mario Chamlee, and Virgilio Lazzari. They were pleasant to hear and to contemplate, possessing first class voices, good looks, and the special ability of agreeable, courteous manners to each other and their other associates on the stage.

Then came Vittorio Trevisan, a comedian of extraordinary craft and ability in a part rôle, that of Sir Tristan. In the market scene he met head on, with fists, too, a low comedy sheriff played by Louis D'Angelo, a small rôle and for that reason usually slighted in performance, but which this artist built up into an amazing bit of humor, meanwhile sending the audience into a gale of laughter. His assisting clerk, Edward Alexander, had no words to speak, but came through with bits of pantomime that put him distinctly into the picture. Rough and tumble humor some of it may have been, but it was immensely amusing and done with all the spirit in the world.

Something was said a few days ago about the desirability of good comic opera for summer consumption and for that matter, winter, too. "Martha" as the Ravinians do it is a complete case in point, performed not only as entertaining music, but with blithe manner. It is the sort of attraction that carries a smiling face, and the world smiles back at it.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Have you found any improvement in traffic conditions on the highways leading to Chicago in the last year?

The Answers.

H. A. Phipps, Kansas City, Mo., furniture salesman.—I make the trip to Chicago at least twice a year. I never have seen the highways in such good condition as at present. I didn't have a bit of trouble or delay coming in on route No. 32. Traffic was moving fast and I made good time. A year ago there seemed to be much more congestion and more bad spots in the highways.

Miss Pauline Kearse, 2970 Sheridan road, secretary.—The highways have been much improved due to the widening of some, repairs or lengthening of others. In the north section traffic was congested for years, but new outlets and wider roads have made driving more pleasant.

Louis O. Kelly, Sandusky, O., woodworker.—The highways around Chicago and throughout Illinois are the best in the United States. They seem to get better each year. I travel extensively through Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois. I find driving in Illinois much pleasanter than anywhere else.

Miss Winona H. Zurek, 4905 North Kenneth avenue, Telegraph operator.—I believe the highways are in much better condition than ever before. There are not so many detours and bad spots. Extensions and widening have done wonders. Event traffic in this city is much better handled.

Edward N. Cantwell, Waukegan, merchant. — Although the highways were badly crowded at times, I do believe there has been some improvement over a year ago. What a great thing it would be if the city or state would widen Milwaukee avenue, making that a through street, thus relieving Sheridan road of some of the north shore traffic to Waukegan and Milwaukee.

Price of Books Is Discussed for Publishers

Profits Average 2.7%, Knopf Says.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—The $2.50 novel was defended here today by Alfred Knopf at a luncheon attended by representative publishers and book reviewers. Mr. Knopf, representing the book publishers' research institute, discussed the economic aspects of the publishing industry and declared the public had a mistaken idea of the cost of producing an original edition.

"The institute's figures prove the economic fallacy of changing present price standards unless book standards are to suffer and culture, education, and knowledge in America are to decline," said Mr. Knopf.

The publishers research institute was recently organized by a group of publishers as a result of the cut rate book war in which novels were sold first at $1.50, then $1 and finally as low as 50 cents.

The names of the publishing firms subscribing to the institute were not revealed. Mr. Knopf contenting himself with announcing that "more than ten publishers were behind the movement."

The executive committee of the institute is composed of Donald Brace of Harcourt, Brace; Harry Hoyns of Harper Brothers, and Alfred Knopf.

Leaders in the price cuts are Doubleday Doran, Farrar and Rinehart, Simon and Shuster, and Coward-McCann. The United Cigar Stores foster the "Mystery Guild," a book a month at 50 cents a copy.

"There has been considerable editorial discussion of the price of books," said Mr. Knopf, "and it has no doubt fairly reflected the general belief of the public that books have been priced too high. The publishers have just completed a study of the costs in publishing a novel which forms a basis on which the public can judge the industry.

"Carefully compiled and audited figures show that on an average original edition of 3,720 copies of a $2.50 novel, provided all copies printed are sold, the profit to the publisher is only 2.7 per cent of the sale price to the consumer. Production costs, after deducting the customary discounts to jobbers and retailers, make up 35.4 per cent of the amount the publisher receives for the books, as follows:

"Nine and five-tenths per cent for paper and printing, 11.6 per cent for binding and wrapper, and 14.3 per cent for plates. Other items entering into the publisher's expense are 12.8 per cent for author's royalties, 11.6 per cent for advertising, and 26.6 per cent for sales promotion, overhead, and other expenses. The 2.7 per cent which goes to the publisher, assuming that all 3,720 copies are sold, would be only $251.10. The quoted percentages are all based on the price the publisher gets from the retailer or jobber, except the 2.7 per cent figure of net profit which is based on the sales prices to consumer.

"The institute's study indicates that approximately 45 per cent of the new books published each year never go past the original edition; the second and subsequent editions often amount to as few as 500 copies."

How the public is enabled to buy these $2.50 books in reprint form later at lesser prices was explained by Mr. Knopf who said the susequent editions did not require costly promotion, that the only production costs were for paper, printing and binding and that the outright sum usually paid to the author on account of royalties to be earned had been returned to the publisher.

The bringing out of original editions at cut prices is another matter entirely, according to Mr. Knopf.

"The application of the principles of mass production and mass distribution to book publishing is a delicate matter," Mr. Knopf said, "and it is obvious that no such principles are to any considerable degree applicable in the original edition of a book.

"The bargain basement, the surplus stock sale, the clear away or outmoded merchandise all have their places in industry. Any industry, however, based solely on such merchandising necessarily loses sight of everything but price. For the publisher in bringing out a new book the matter of price or profit cannot be the motivating consideration if he is to maintain the high standards of his calling."

Harold Lloyd's Aids Deny He Got Plot from Witwer's Story

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—(AP)—Resuming trial of a $1,000,000 plagiarism suit brought against Harold Lloyd, screen comedian, by Mrs. R. C. Witwer, widow of a humorist, witnesses for Lloyd testified today they believed the film "The Freshman," was produced on the actor's own ideas.

Mrs. Witwer alleged the story was pirated from her husband's novel, "The Emancipation of Rodney."

John L. Murphy, production manager for Lloyd, admitted Lloyd met Witwer once and said they discussed stories, but when Lloyd mentioned the plot to Witwer, the author said it was not his story.

Tim Whelan, one of Lloyd's writers, said he never knew of a written scenario or script being used, but under cross-examination admitted outlines sometimes were used.

Attorneys for Lloyd planned to show one of his pictures in court late today in an effort to prove the plot of the contested film was used some years before by Lloyd.

Piloted by Gene Shank, the couple flew to Sioux Falls, over which the ceremony was performed last Tuesday and then returned here. A wedding dinner was served in the plane on the return trip. Shank acted in the double capacity of best man and pilot, and Miss Lucille Gallogly, sister of Mrs. Vikingstad, was maid of honor.

Business Values Fine Arts Now, Educator Says

Tells Women Education Is Increasing Factor.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The more successful a business woman is today the less apt she is to prefer the latest cabaret song to the ballet music from "Samson and Delilah," or to confuse "Tristan and Isolde" with a new kind of salad dressing. Neither is she likely to regard Mona Lisa as a minor movie star. Those are the views of W. F. Webster, formerly superintendent of schools in Minneapolis. He addressed the national committees of the Federation of Business and Professional Women at the Palmer House last night.

"There is a growing desire for culture among people engaged in business today," he declared, "whether as employer or as employed. Women are responsible for this spiritualizing of the business world—for the delightful courtesy one encounters in various stores, for the artistic display, the cleanliness, the cessation of loitering. And the woman who possesses culture has it in her power to go far in her chosen field."

"Where to seek for this culture? Why, in education, first of all. In books, in music, in art—and above all else, in the ordinary run of humdrum activities from which we draw the experiences that color our lives. And in solitude. Frequent quiet reflection about persons and things helps a great deal in forming one's outlook on life.

"It is one's outlook in today's job that shapes the perspective for future tasks."

Evidence was not lacking during yesterday's sessions of the national board of directors and its committees that the type of business woman described by the speaker is numerous in the ranks of the Federation of Business and Professional Women. Reports of the chairmen of the various committees testified vividly to the interest of the members in education, in art, in music, legislation, and most of all, in travel.

Miss Mary Jouett Naughton, national transportation chairman, cited the two previous and the impending European tours of the federation in discussing that. Travel saving funds have been started by many clubs, and illustrated lectures, travelogs, and moving pictures, entertainments on travel topics have been enthusiastically received, she reported.

"Time was when the business woman was content to stay in her own community," she commented. "Nowadays she thoroughly appreciates the delights of travel. This interest in seeing the world has been a vital factor in drawing attendance at our state conventions."

Miss Lucie Dowe, national program chairman, reported that special attention is being given the formation of glee clubs, and to the development of recreational and cultural activities in the member clubs.

New members acquired during the fiscal year numbered 17,679, it was revealed by Mrs. Ellen Libby Eastman of New York, membership chairman, bringing the total at present to approximately 60,000. These figures include 5,093 members in clubs formed during the year and 12,586 in those already in existence.

A resolution was adopted in the afternoon urging speedy ratification of the London naval treaty.

American women have made a billion dollar industry toe the mark and deliver the goods they desire, Z. G. Simmons, president of the Simmons company, declared yesterday at the American Furniture Mart. He was addressing a gathering of furniture company officials who are making plans, while attending the semi-annual furniture market, for the furniture style show to be held nationally, Sept. 26 to Oct. 4.

In line with what he described as a definite trend away from business and back to the home the American woman, he said, is making a careful study of furniture. She no longer buys it haphazard and merely to furnish a room. She has made the furniture dealer aware that she requires not only utility, but quality and artistry in her home furnishings.

Poor Little Rich Girl Orders Sixty Pair of Shoes at One Sitting

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you are interested in knowing how the other half of the world worries along on a coupla hundred thousands a year spending money, maybe this will provide a bit of excitement.

I was in a boot making establishment the other day, one of those places where you have a foot mold made, the shoes fitted and refitted during the process of making, for which you may pay anywhere from forty-five dollars a pair to seventy-five and up.

In a discussion with the shoemaker on the trend of feet and their clothing, I was taken into confidence on an order recently entered for sixty pairs of shoes. S-I-X-T-Y pairs! All for the same woman, too. Not for herself and family, butlers, maids, chauffeurs, governesses, and nurses. Just for the poor little rich girl herself. And not for a lifetime either. Nor for next year. Just this season's order.

And, shades of Cinderella, what shoes! Spots, walking, afternoon, evening, linen, crêpe de chine, embroidered and plain. White kids, tan, lizards, snakeskins! Size, three! "Lawsy me!" I cried. "If that isn't every lady's dream come true!" Shoes—bucketsful of 'em. Boxes of 'em.

Well, the story behind the fairy tale shoe closetful is of a woman who has exquisite feet and is proud of them, as she should be. But the thing of most interest to me is that round home she doesn't let her beautifully turned arch slump around in mules or something floppy. She wears shoes built after an oxford principle to hold the arch up snugly and in her "off parade" hours, she is more exacting of her footwear than in her dress up hours, although, as you may imagine, she is exacting enough about the latter, too. And this is the moral of my disclosure of a fairly rare shoe extravagance. My intention was not to insinuate that you need sixty pairs of shoes at forty or fifty a pair to pass minute shoe inspection, but just to show how one woman with perfect feet goes in for keeping them perfect. The good heel sense, too, of the woman's shoes interested me. They were smart heels—but not extreme.

H. Z.: EXERCISE IS IMPORTANT in stimulating the functions of the various organs of the body, particularly the organs of digestion. For the average person of sedentary occupation one hour a day should be given over to exercise in some form—walking, golf, swimming, tennis, horseback riding.

G. L. B.: DARK RINGS UNDER the eyes are matters calling for medical correction, unless due to lack of sleep or worry. Eight hours of sleep should be had nightly.

Giggles Send More Romances Rockward Than Anything Else

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A sense of humor is a conflicting asset from the woman point of view. It is needed in marriage, as all successful married people will admit privately, if not in the face of a mate. It is needed in life to meet the baffling emergencies with which we are visited from time to time. There is no doubt that its absence creates a terrific void in human contacts, BUT—

It is almost a fatal possession if it lifts its merry head during the romantic premarriage period. To be concrete, a man explained why Mickey, a charming looking and delightful-minded miss, did not go over better with men. She had the fatal gift of laughing and taking things lightly, so that a man unconsciously gathered the impression that he was in for the bantering treatment, too, whether she give him just cause or not.

"It's awful," explained this sophisticated, engaging male who has a rare humor himself, "to have yourself all worked up to the pitch of a hero and then have the object of your state suddenly introduce an element of comicality into the situation. It makes you feel such an idiot."

I remember a famous actress wistfully regretting a blighted romance with an attractive young playwright. Said Romeo did not get down on his knees to propose to the lady. He was seated there by chance when the words began to pour out of his heart, and as he talked he shifted his position to a kneeling one. The little Irish monkey laughed at the poor fellow. And there died a sworn devotion.

It is not the woman only who has to curb the impulse to register the comic aspect of a situation. Woman's vanity is just as likely to be attacked with a humorous remark at the wrong moment. And all moments in the courtship era seem to be wrong moments to present a sense of humor.

Merry you may be, gay and light hearted, but if you want a romance to go through to a successful finish you're never to lose sight of the "exalted" position of the beloved. Not even if a banana peel enters the situation. Not if you have to disappear from the room until face or tongue have been checked into suitable behavior.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

The use of chemicals to rid yards and gardens of weeds has been emphasized of late by commercial interests with preparations to spray or inject into weed infested areas. Many of these depend upon sodium or calcium chlorate or upon arsenates for their effectiveness.

"First used as weed killers in this country only five years ago, chlorates have produced both some grand successes and some miserable failures," states J. J. Pieper, University of Illinois specialist.

"This is the result, no doubt, of ignorance in the use of the materials, for only a small amount of experimental evidence has been obtained on their value. Chlorates are highly promising in the control of noxious weeds, but their use should be confined to small amounts until such time as experimental evidence will permit more definite recommendations."

The point has not been reached, Prof. Pieper believes, when chlorates can be recommended with assurance that they will be successful under all conditions.

U.S. Sailors Laud Germans for Hospitality to Them

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 8. — Four hundred American officers, midshipmen, sailors, and marines from the warships Florida, Arkansas, and Utah, visiting Kiel, left Berlin tonight after two days in the German capital, which received them with open arms. They were guests of leading variety houses and dance halls. A restaurant gave a luncheon for them.

Chief petty officer of the Arkansas, W. W. Hearin, Seaman Traugber, and scores of others said, "coming to Germany is almost like coming home.

"They gave us parties in Kiel and Berlin like we usually only get at home," they said. "France was different. Cherbourg treated us coldly. The French weren't as glad to see us as the Germans were."

The summer community in and about the pleasant village of Barrington, Ill., engages itself in a diversity of leisurely activities. The women occupy their days with golf, riding, their gardens, and bridge, and there is always enough crowd of young people in this year to have a socially congenial time among themselves.

They ride a great deal and have occasional jumping contests to enliven their sport. They may even have a horse show this year—next Sunday, to be exact. It won't be a pretentious affair, or formal affair, as only local entrants will be invited, but plans for it are being busily concocted.

Tuesday is "Ladies' day" at the Barrington Hills Country club, and every other Saturday night during the summer there is to be a dinner-dance there.

The annual garden show of the Barrington Garden club is scheduled to take place on Aug. 7 and 8, and this year it will be at Mrs. James MacMurray's lovely place on the Barrington turnpike.

Mrs. Evan Evans is chairman of the general arrangements and Mrs. MacMurray and Mrs. Edwin A. Selpp are assisting her with the preliminary plans. Although the Barrington club is a small one, its reputation is far from inconsequential. It almost always is represented among the blue ribbons at any of the local flower shows.

Informal swimming parties are a popular means of "getting together" in Barrington, also. Owners of swimming pools include the Edwin A. Sipps, the James R. Cardwells, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., the Russell Pettingills, and the Lawrence Sallbergs.

Last year one of the large events of the season was one of Emil C. Wetten's famed barbecue picnic parties, to which he invited practically the whole neighborhood. He is away from Wetten farms just now on a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin.

The Bar Harbor yachting season opened on the Fourth of July with a holiday race, the first of a series of eight to take place this month. There will be another series in August, as well as several special races for the women, for large schooners, for amateurs only, and a long cruise in conjunction with the Northeast Harbor fleet. Most of the Chicagoans who spend their summers at the resort have already opened their cottages for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Frost of Lake Forest have arrived at Phillips cottage at Northeast Harbor, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Frost are at "Up-Away" again this summer. Mrs. J. H. Q. Smith of New York City, who was Mrs. John De Koven Bowen before her marriage last winter, has arrived at Yule Craig in the Hulls cove section with her children, Ledyard Stevens Bowen, Miss Louise De Koven Bowen, and John De Koven Bowen. Mr. Smith is to join them later in the season. Their estate adjoins Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's.

The Renaissance society announces an exhibition of modern French paintings at their quarters in Wieboldt hall of the University of Chicago to be on display until Aug. 18. The Art Institute has loaned several of its possessions, and there are also some privately owned moderns in the exhibit.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf of 209 Lake Shore drive and her children, Miss Ghita Watson, who is to be one of next winter's debutantes; Walter Johnson Watson, and Hathaway Watson Jr., departed last Sunday to be at Hyannisport on Cape Cod for the summer. Mr. Wolf may join them later for part of the summer.

Mrs. Abby Farwell Ferry has returned to Lake Forest after a vacation of several weeks in the east. Her son, the Rev. Horace Farwell Ferry; Mrs. Farwell, and their children accompanied her west, and are to be with her for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Gallery of 2300 Sheridan road announce the birth of a daughter, Marion Isabel, on Saturday at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Gallery was Miss Marion McCarthy before her marriage.

NEW YORK STATE TO PAY OVER 12 MILLION FOR RELIEF OF AGED

New York, July 8.—(AP)—New York state will spend about $12,500,000 a year for destitute aged persons beginning Jan. 1, under the terms of the state old age pension law, Frank J. Taylor, city commissioner of welfare, estimated today.

Commissioner Taylor based his estimate on the assumption that three per cent of the state's population is more than 70 years of age, approximately 15 per cent of which is destitute, or 51,000 persons. The law provides for a pension up to $400.

While he expects a general exodus from poor farms and almshouses, Commissioner Taylor said that such institutions would continue to function inasmuch as many of the aged require supervisory care.

Sally's Baseball Party to Be Listed in Sunday's Tribune

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Tomorrow morning is the deadline for baseball letters. You young fans who'd like to see the White Sox-Athletics' game with me on July 17 will have to get to work immediately. Don't hesitate another minute, but begin at once to tell me why this party at Comiskey park appeals to you and what you like about baseball and what players are your favorites. If you can impress me with the fact that you'd have as rollicking a time at this party as I expect to have you'll be one of the winners whose names will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Didn't the Sox give it to the Tigers Monday in the last half of the doubleheader at Comiskey park! They trimmed them with a score of 9 to 5 and jumped up a notch in the standing. That's the kind of playing we're going to see when the Bushmen meet the Philadelphia A.'s at our big party. The stars will be performing in their best manner, piling up run after run to make the game as interesting and exciting as possible. Perhaps we'll see some double plays—Mulleavy to Cissell to Clancy, or Kamm to Cissell to Clancy. And maybe there's a home run waiting for us in Mr. Bush's bag of tricks—wouldn't that be something to look forward to?

But here I am telling you all the things I'd like to see when you should be composing a letter which will let me know what you like about a baseball game, and a major league game at that! Have it reach me by tomorrow morning and don't forget that I must know your name, address, and age before I can include you among the hundred boys and girls who are to be my guests at this party a week from tomorrow.

Invitations have been mailed to the boys and girls who have been chosen to see "With Byrd at the South Pole" at the Roosevelt tomorrow, so you know all about our plans for meeting. If your name appeared in the winning list on Sunday and you haven't received yours don't fail to let me know about it.

Near East's Women Meet, Tell Progress in Last Few Years

DAMASCUS, July 8.—(AP)—Woman's position in Islamic society was described by delegates of eastern lands at the first oriental women's conference in the Syrian university yesterday.

An aunt of the former Queen Bouriya of Afghanistan, severely critized efforts of men to deny women the right to an active life. Kudsys Ashhraf, the delegate from Teheran, Persia, described how with the régime of the present shah, a revolution had taken place. Where no girl schools formerly existed in Persia and women could not appear in society even when accompanied by their husbands, now many girls schools have been established and women may attend theaters and other places of public amusement.

Mrs. Muhammed Ali, wife of a Moslem leader, called attention to the progress of the woman's efforts in India and messages of greeting were read from New York, Chicago, Istanbul, and Tokio.

Food Talk.

Were you ever laughed at for buying liver? Many of us have been. Not more than a decade ago liver was considered a food only for the poor and economical. Now the affluent and the most generous indulge in it regularly. Then it was almost given away; now it costs as much as the choicest steak.

Scientific evidence is a powerful leveler of tastes. Just as soon as we had convincing proof that liver was a good food and valuable in the treatment of anemia, our whole attitude toward this once lowly and uninteresting food changed. In a short time every one was trying it. Some, however, ate it with more enthusiasm than others. Those who had spurned it most went about their eating cautiously. They inquired and hunted for high quality and decided in favor of calves' liver. As a result the price of this variety soared from 15 cents to 90 cents a pound within a few months.

It is true that calves' liver is delicate but liver from young beef is equally delicious, is about as tender and has more food value. Hog livers are not so agreeable in flavor as beef livers, especially when they are served broiled or fried. They are, however, pleasing when converted into sausage. Liver sausage of the highest quality is made of hog livers.

Broiling is one of the most popular methods of preparation. It is quickly done and produces a juicy appetizing product. For broiling, liver should be cut from ¾ to 1-3 of an inch thick and like all other meat it should be sliced across the grain. It is also best to cut it into serving size before cooking. The same rules for broiling are observed as in broiling steak except that both the liver and the broiler or pan should be brushed with hot fat. Liver lacks fat and for this reason the addition of bacon is really an improvement.

A platter of nicely broiled liver garnished with crisp slices of broiled bacon, parsley or cress and wedges of lemon will tempt even the most discriminating person. Those who do not enjoy the natural flavor of broiled liver may find the addition of a sharp flavor such as lemon or vinegar an improvement. A more delicate flavor is obtained if boiling water is poured over the liver and it is allowed to stand for ten minutes.

Recipe Below Gives Successful Method of Preparing Liver

MOCK TERRAPIN.

½ cup chopped mushrooms
1 cup brown sauce
Dash of mustard
Dash of paprika
1 tablespoon lemon juice or nonalcoholic sherry
2 small hard cooked eggs

Saute the liver and mushrooms in 1 tablespoon of butter. Add brown sauce made as follows: Prepare brown sauce by dissolving in 1 cup hot water either 1 bouillon cube or 1 teaspoon beef extract. Add this to 2 tablespoons flour that has been blended with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Cook until sauce thickens and liver is tender. Add the mustard, paprika, and the lemon juice. Serve in ramekins or other individual serving dishes with sliced hard cooked eggs over the top.

DETROIT MAYOR LOSES LAST SUIT TO HALT RECALL

Election Set for July 22 by City Clerk.

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—[Special.]—Mayor Charles Bowles lost his last fight to prevent a vote upon his recall, when Judge Robert Toms, in Wayne County Circuit court, lifted the temporary injunction this afternoon and City Clerk Richard W. Reading announced that the election would be held July 22. It was the last stand of the mayor, who by five legal moves had sought to prevent a vote upon his retirement from the office of chief executive.

Reading closed the registration books of the city at 5 o'clock today and put in motion the machinery for the election to be held in two weeks.

Judge Toms' decision to lift the restraining order came at 2 o'clock this afternoon, after he had listened to arguments presented by Bowles' attorneys, Frank H. Doheny, street railway commissioner, and Fred L. Vandeveer, Detroit Street railway claims attorney.

At the opening of the afternoon session Judge Toms announced that he had given the matter serious consideration and had decided that further procedure could only result in wasting the time of the court and the Bowles attorneys. He then announced that as the last move had been brought in a court of law, that he could see no difference between this court and the court of chancery, in which Bowles opened his fight.

City Clerk Reading had contended from the time the petitions were filed that he had no right to investigate the charges of fraud which were hurled by Commissioner Gillespie and by Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox. Every stand taken by Reading was later sustained by both the Circuit court and the Michigan Supreme court.

Out of 455,000 registered voters it is anticipated 150,000 will vote at the recall election. If Mayor Bowles is recalled he will remain in office until a successor is named unless he voluntarily resigns. There will be no primary election, the candidate receiving the largest number of votes becoming mayor to serve the unexpired term of about eighteen months.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Heart of the Jungle

MR. BLUM LOSES HIS TEETH; YOUTHS WIN COURT CASE

Owing to the loss of Paul J. Blum's false teeth the Bonelli brothers, Philip, 22 years old; Rocco, 19, and Paul, 17, all of 7240 South California avenue, were dismissed for want of prosecution in Boys' court.

Mr. Blum, who is 61 years old and a grower of mustard seeds at 85th street and California avenue, had charged the brothers with assault and battery, and the police considered he had a strong case. He had caught the brothers gathering seed in his mustard patch on June 28 and ordered them off with a shotgun. They disarmed him and, according to his complaint, gave him a severe drubbing.

"Blum versus Bonelli," the court clerk called on June 29. A policeman stepped forward and explained that Mr. Blum was still searching for his teeth, lost in the combat in the mustard patch. Twice thereafter the clerk called the case of Blum versus Bonelli and twice the policeman announced the teeth were still missing and Mr. Blum unable to testify because the loss left him speechless. Yesterday the case was called again and Judge Allegretti, somewhat out of patience, ordered the Bonelli boys discharged.

INQUEST IS HELD ON AIR HERO'S DEATH IN RESCUE

An open verdict was returned by the coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Bruno Schustek, 30 years old, 700 South Central Park avenue, airplane pilot and parachute jumper, who lost his life Sunday attempting to rescue a 19 year old girl whose parachute had caught on the wing of a plane from which she was about to attempt a leap above the Stinson airport near La Grange.

Mary Fahrney of 400 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, had taken the air with Pilot L. F. Kline preparatory to making the jump. Part of her 'chute caught on a strut of the wing and she was left dangling in midair. Schustek, hanging by a knotted rope from another plane, tried to release her in three attempts. After the third, his grasp gave way and he fell from an altitude of 2,500 feet. The girl was finally released when her pilot dove his plane and then ascended sharply, jerking the parachute loose. This latter maneuver had at first been considered too dangerous to attempt.

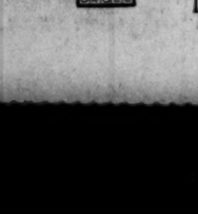
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



GEN. NEVILLE OF MARINE CORPS IS DEAD OF STROKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, commandant of the marine corps, holder of the congressional medal of honor for bravery at Vera Cruz, and one of the outstanding soldiers of the A. E. F., died this afternoon at Edgewater Beach, near Annapolis, Md. He was visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. John P. W. Vest of the navy and Mrs. Vest, at the time of his death. He was 60 years old.

Gen. Neville suffered a stroke on March 26, being partly paralyzed, but he had been convalescing toward what was hoped would be a fairly complete recovery. Early last month he returned to marine headquarters for a short time.

Brig. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, who has been acting commandant since Gen. Neville was stricken, will continue until a successor to Gen. Neville is appointed by President Hoover. Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, now in command of the marine base at Quantico, Va., is senior on the list.

The death of Gen. Neville was announced to the service by Ernest Lee Jahncke, acting secretary of the navy, who stated that "he served with honor and distinction in the Spanish war, the Boxer rebellion, at Vera Cruz, and in the world war, in which he commanded the 5th marines and later the 4th brigade of marines, in all of the engagements in which those famous organizations participated."

Gen. Neville was appointed commandant of the marine corps on March 5, 1929.

FINGERPRINTS OF CONAN DOYLE TO IDENTIFY SPIRIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous writer and spiritualist, before his death yesterday left fingerprints and a secret code word to identify him when he communicates with his family from the spirit world, it was revealed today. His family is now confidently awaiting a message from him. Lady Doyle, Sir Arthur's widow, is the only one in possession of the secret code word.

Sir Arthur got the idea of leaving his fingerprints from the American medium, Margery, who claimed to have received the fingerprint of an ectoplasmic hand in a cake of wax. The American medium declared that the Boston police department had established the fingerprint as the same as that found on the razor her brother used a few hours before his death.

Out of respect for Sir Arthur's wishes, there will be no mourning during his funeral tomorrow or at the memorial service Sunday in Royal Albert hall.

QUIZ WIEBOLDT ON BRIBE CHARGE AGAINST OLIVER

Werner A. Wieboldt, president of Wieboldt Stores, Inc., was called as a witness before the state grand jury yesterday so that the bribery case brought against Gene Oliver, member of the board of assessors, and William Nichols, a salesman for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, could be completed. The indictment was returned on Monday without the testimony of Mr. Wieboldt.

The state's attorney's office announced that Mr. Wieboldt was not asked to sign an immunity waver. This means, observers said, that he will be used as a prosecution witness against Oliver and Nichols in their trial on charges of accepting a $42,000 bribe to lower taxes.

Oliver will take the stand in his own defense today before Judge Charles E. Woodward in the federal court where he is being tried without a jury on a charge of evading income tax payments. No session of this trial was held yesterday.

MYSTERY VEILS KILLING OF NEWS STAND OWNER

James T. Phillipps, alias Vincenzo Di Phillippo, was engaged in some secret business in addition to his west side newsstand, according to Lieut. Thomas Duffy, of Des Plaines street station, who was investigating the slaying of Phillipps by two unidentified assassins early yesterday.

Phillipps was on duty in his newly purchased newsstand on the south east corner of Madison and Throop streets when the gunmen swept by in an automobile. One of them leaned out of the car and fired six times. Phillipps fell dead, shot three times. A customer, Leon Villarald, 643 Madison street, was wounded in the arm by one of the bullets.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Avoid Sunburn by Taking Sunbaths in Moderation

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

You can have a well baby this summer if you know how to care for that baby. Mrs. Bevans will send you the necessary information on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

You can have too much of even a good thing. Sunshine is one of them. When we know the miracles sunshine accomplishes for human beings we are apt to forget that the sun is a powerful agent to reckon with—that it can harm us as well as heal.

Did you ever have a bad case of sunburn? Did you ever toss and turn at night—cover your skin with healing oils—wince at a touch for days? Did you ever say to your family, "There, just hold your hand like this—not touching my arm—now, feel the heat?" Just relive that experience and then you will be sure to spare your small children—or bigger ones, either—such pain. That old sun of ours is a real, sure enough fire.

When you start your summer away in the country or at the seashore, or when you go off on a day's jaunt, be careful of the children. Their skin is tender and white and they burn painfully before you know it—and certainly before you can even see the signs of it. The reddening doesn't come right away.

The sun is a blessing and the sun suit is a boon. The skin needs the sun, but in small doses, at first. If you are settled down at some summer place you can manage alternations of sun and shade and indoors and out, in the right proportions for the children's good.

But if you are only away for the day it is not so easy. A good plan at the beginning of the summer is to protect the children's skins with clothing at intervals. For instance, a child of sun suit age could be changed to little dresses or pantee suits—or flowery overalls with a little guimpe, for part of the day. And perhaps socks and sandals and a cool sun hat for further protection, at first. The older children, who fly into their bathing suits for freedom and sunning, should be made to get into their clothes before the tender skin on their shoulders and backs is burned.

And remember that those hot, slightly overcast days are treacherous. Don't relax your vigilance then. As one who has had all kinds of burns, let me tell you that they can do you to a painful turn.

So at the beginning of the summer protect the children from the sun. Let them get their tan slowly. As the tan deepens they can stand more and more sunlight.

Mass Entertainment.

The first girl I asked to go to the department store dance could not accept till she thought it over. The second was uncertain, but would let me know later. Determined to have a partner for the dance, I asked a third, who accepted. When I arrived at her house I heard giggles from upstairs. It was my most embarrassing moment when the three girls I had invited came downstairs together! I escorted all three to the hop, took all three down for refreshments, and accompanied all three home—separately.

Milady's Overalls Must Be Fancied Up a Bit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—That grim and determined minority of fashionable women who are determined to have their tanned and sunburned backs no matter what fashion dictators have to say on the subject, have adopted overalls for their daily sun baths at Deauville and Le Touquet.

As you know, if you have ever frequented the corn belt, overalls are all front and no back, from the waistline up, and they offer no resistance to the action of the sun's rays upon the back.

The Parisianized overalls that are being worn are shown, and Marcel Rochas, who designed this garment, took the liberty of substituting a princesse bodice for the shapeless tabbed front of the genuine rural overalls. He also sets in accordion plaited godets at the knees, so that the flare of the Mexican trouser leg is added, making a new type of overalls consecrated to fashion, and having no connection with the workaday original.

The Rochas overalls that are shown here are made of heavy black crêpe marocain. The color is important, for nothing sets off bronzed skin more effectively than black, and, also, black becomes more distinguished on the plage where bright colors are the rule. Women of the greatest distinction are wearing black pajamas and black bathing suits around the French coastline this summer, a black relieved by touches of white in most cases, and the Marcel Rochas overalls sketched here have their white detail in the large white panama hat that is worn with them.
